Quantitative limits	Yes.	The annual allowance for tourism travel is TD 6,000 an adult and TD 3,000 a child under 10. The AVA for exporters is 25% of export proceeds for the current year. Any unused portion of this allowance may be carried forward to subsequent years, provided the cumulative amount does not exceed the annual limit of TD 500,000. Resident individuals or legal entities that have concluded contracts for studies, design, works, monitoring, control, and other services with a contracting authority based outside Tunisia may apply to approved intermediaries for AVAs for “Contracts Executable Abroad.” The amount of this AVA is set at 15% of the portion of the contract price payable in convertible currencies under which the granting of the allowance is requested. These individuals and entities can combine the “Exporter” AVA and the “Contracts Executable Abroad” AVA. Under no circumstances may the foreign currency receipts that have already been used for the calculation of the transfer rights under one of the two allowances be included in the foreign currency receipts accepted for the calculation of the transfer. Resident individuals and legal entities that do not receive “Exporter” or the “Contracts Executable Abroad” AVAs and that carry out a professional activity requiring travel abroad and that are among the activities listed in the list may apply to approved intermediaries for AVAs for “Other Activities.” The amount of the “Other Activities” AVA is set at: 8% of the turnover excluding taxes of the previous year declared to the tax authorities with a ceiling of TD 50,000 a calendar year for the activities mentioned in numbers 1–25 of the list in Annex No. 2 to Circular No. 2020-03. The allowance is set at TD 400,000 a calendar year for banking activity. Developers of new projects for which the execution requires travel abroad may receive an AVA for "Other Activities" of TD 50,000.

Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	Ceilings may be raised on approval in case of documented need.
Personal payments	Yes.	There are no restrictions on the transfer of pensions.
Prior approval	Yes.	Alimony payments to an ex-spouse and child support under a final judgment are freely transferable.
Quantitative limits	Yes.	The annual allowance for expenses related to travel abroad for reasons of health is TD 1,500. Persons accompanying patients may transfer up to TD 250 a trip in the case of medical or paramedical staff and TD 1,000 in all other cases. The annual settlement allowance for residents pursuing studies abroad is TD 4,000, and the monthly living expense allowance for each cycle for students is TD 3,000. Registration fees and education allowances are freely transferable up to the amount because of a foreign educational institution. The amounts that may be transferred abroad for professional training are TD 4,000 for each training cycle as a settlement allowance and TD 3,000 a month for living expenses. Registration and training fees are freely transferable up to the amounts required by the foreign training institution.
Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	The limit of TD 1,500 for expenses related to travel abroad for reasons of health may be exceeded if the patient's condition requires several trips abroad during the same year.
Foreign workers' wages	Yes.
Prior approval	No.
Quantitative limits	No.
Indicative limits/bona fide test	Yes.	Foreign employees working in Tunisia as contractors or technical cooperation personnel may transfer without restriction the full amount of their pay net of taxes, including bonuses and allowances. There is no limit on transfers of savings from salaries. The same applies to Tunisian individuals residing abroad, recruited by a nonresident parent company located abroad and seconded by it to its subsidiaries in Tunisia.
Credit card use abroad	Yes.	Operators eligible for the AVA may use their credit cards abroad. The tourism travel allowance may be transferred using international payment cards. The cards may also be used for transfers of funds from tourist travel accounts. Annual allowance usable by international payment card is granted to any resident company and to any resident individual Tunisian national holding a diploma at least equivalent to a baccalaureate, up to annual ceilings of TD 10,000 and TD 1,000, respectively, to freely engage in Internet transactions such as payment for subscription or hosting costs for websites or mobile applications, advertising and access to subcontracting platforms, and expenses related to the collection of information and the purchase of online training services, application development tools, and software licenses. The amount of the maximum annual allowance is set at TD 100,000 for any resident company having obtained the "Startup" Label in accordance with the regulations in force.
Prior approval	Yes.	Authorized intermediaries are required to comply with the ceilings that have been set.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Residents are required to repatriate promptly all remuneration for services rendered to nonresidents and all proceeds from invisible transactions received from abroad.
Surrender requirements	No.	Resident exporters may retain in their professional foreign exchange accounts 100% of their foreign currency from export earnings as well as from their foreign exchange borrowing contracted in accordance with the exchange regulations in effect (individuals may not take out foreign currency loans). To pay their expenses in foreign currency, holders of professional foreign exchange accounts must first, under their authority, use the funds in their account and should retain in the account only amounts they actually need, which may potentially amount to 100% of the proceeds repatriated. Resident individuals providing services abroad are exempted from surrendering foreign currency proceeds, which are earmarked for deposit in a PPR account in foreign exchange or in convertible dinars.
Surrender to the central bank	No.
Surrender to authorized dealers	No.
Restrictions on use of funds	Yes.	Foreign exchange deposited in professional accounts must be used in accordance with the rules governing the operation of accounts of this type.

Capital Transactions

Controls on capital transactions	Yes.
Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Residents are required to repatriate promptly all income from investment abroad as well as all proceeds from the divestiture or liquidation of such investments.
Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	No.
Surrender to authorized dealers	Yes.	All proceeds from an investment abroad (dividends, interest, proceeds from the sale or liquidation of investment, etc.) must be surrendered without delay on the foreign exchange market.
Controls on capital and money market	Yes.	There are controls on all transactions in capital and money market instruments		instruments.

On capital market securities	Yes.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Stocks in existing companies in Tunisia may be acquired freely with foreign exchange transferred from abroad by foreign nonresidents. Authorization from the Higher Investment Commission (HIC) for acquisition by foreigners of shares with voting rights when the foreign ownership in the capital of the companies is equal to or more than 50% is no longer required. The following two operations are no longer subject to prior authorization from the BCT: (1) acquisition, through outward payment of the relevant price, of stock or equity stakes in resident companies operating in Tunisia in accordance with the relevant legislation, by a nonresident individual or legal entity of foreign nationality from a nonresident individual or legal entity of foreign nationality, and (2) subscription by nonresidents to increase capital in companies established in Tunisia in accordance with the relevant legislation, by conversion of advances on their partner current accounts arranged in foreign exchange to capital stakes in accordance with the current foreign exchange regulations.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Nonresidents may sell freely shares of companies established in Tunisia. They may also transfer freely net real proceeds from the sale of shares that were purchased with foreign exchange transferred from abroad for an investment made in accordance with the legislation in effect, pursuant to Article 1 of the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Code and Circular No. 2018-14 of December 26, 2018, relating to investment in foreign currency by nonresidents in Tunisia.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to BCT authorization. However, resident exporters may transfer freely the equivalent of TD 100,000–1 million a year, or up to TD 3 million a year for those who use the foreign exchange export proceeds held in their professional accounts to finance equity participation in companies abroad. Nonexporting companies may transfer funds abroad for equity participation in the amount of TD 100,000–500,000.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of persons abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT. All residents are required to declare to the BCT and to repatriate their foreign assets invested from Tunisia. However, Tunisian nationals returning to Tunisia from abroad and foreign individuals in Tunisia are subject to the obligation to declare and repatriate their assets accumulated abroad before the date of change of residence.
Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Subscription by nonresident foreigners of debt securities issued by the government or resident companies is subject to BCT approval, except (1) 20% of the estimated semiannual amount of treasury bond issues and (2) 20% of bonds issued by resident companies listed on the stock exchange or with a rating from a rating agency. Such bonds are not subject to a minimum holding period requirement.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Transfers linked to the redemption of public securities are made on the basis of a notification of execution delivered by the intermediary authorized to engage in transactions involving such securities and after verification—with respect to the latter, as in the case of private securities—that the initial acquisition was financed by means of imported foreign exchange, pursuant to the provisions of Circular No. 2020-13 of June 2, 2020. The issue of bonds or other debt securities on the national market by nonresidents is subject to prior authorization.

Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to BCT authorization. However, the holders of PPR accounts in foreign currency may purchase securities abroad by debiting these accounts.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of residents abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT. All residents are required to declare to the BCT and to repatriate their foreign assets invested from Tunisia.
On money market instruments	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Transfers linked to the redemption of public securities are made on the basis of a notification of execution delivered by the intermediary authorized to engage in transactions involving such securities and after verification—with respect to the latter, as in the case of private securities—that the initial acquisition was financed by means of imported foreign exchange.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Transfers linked to the redemption of public securities are made on the basis of a notification of execution delivered by the intermediary authorized to engage in transactions involving such securities and after verification—with respect to the latter, as in the case of private securities—that the initial acquisition was financed by means of imported foreign exchange.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, the holders of PPR accounts may purchase securities abroad by debiting these accounts. These acquisitions are possible only when they are made by PPR account holders and are subject to declaration to the BCT.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Any act intended to dispose of or to change the composition of the assets of residents abroad and to reduce their rights to these assets is subject to the approval of the BCT. All residents are required to declare to the BCT, dispose of and repatriate their assets abroad. Investment income from PPR accounts of resident individuals is not covered by the disposal obligation.
On collective investment securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Nonresidents may acquire freely shares of Tunisian mutual funds with foreign exchange transferred from abroad.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Nonresidents may transfer freely net real proceeds from sales of Tunisian mutual fund shares acquired with foreign exchange transferred from abroad. The issuance of SICAV (Société d'investissement à capital variable—an open-ended collective investment scheme) and other collective investment securities on the domestic market by nonresidents is governed by Law No. 2009-64 of August 12, 2009, promulgating the code on financial services rendered to nonresidents.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The acquisition of assets abroad by residents is subject to authorization. However, resident exporters may transfer freely the equivalent of TD 100,000–1 million a year or, using funds from their professional accounts, up to TD 3 million a year to finance equity participation in companies located abroad. Nonexporting companies may transfer funds abroad for equity participation in the amount of TD 100,000–500,000.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Residents must promptly repatriate any proceeds from an investment abroad, as well as the proceeds from the eventual sale or liquidation of such investment pursuant to the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Code.

Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	Controls apply to all transactions in derivatives and other instruments. However, resident banks may engage in (1) foreign currency swaps maturing in up to 12 months with nonresident banks operating in Tunisia and with foreign correspondent banks; (2) foreign currency/dinar swaps maturing in up to 12 months among themselves and with resident enterprises, provided the transactions in question back actual commercial or financial transactions; and (3) foreign currency/convertible dinar swaps, by making spot purchases and forward sales of convertible dinars to nonresident banks operating in Tunisia, foreign correspondent banks, and nonresident enterprises operating in Tunisia. For the purposes of hedging against foreign exchange rate risk, resident and nonresident authorized intermediaries may enter into FRAs for terms of up to 12 months with resident enterprises or with their foreign correspondent banks.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.
Commercial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	These credits require BCT approval, except for credits in foreign currency granted on the money market to refinance import or export operations of nonresident industrial enterprises established in Tunisia. Authorized intermediaries may finance, out of resources from the foreign exchange money market, the imports and exports of nonresident service companies established in Tunisia, as well as exports of products of local origin by nonresident international trading companies established in Tunisia. These nonresident companies may also be granted operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market. In addition, resident banks may extend short-term dinar loans to nonresident companies to finance local operating expenses and to finance the purchase, on the local market, of products and merchandise necessary for the nonresidents' operations. Resident banks may extend operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market to nonresident service companies in Tunisia engaged in imports and exports as well as to nonresident international trading companies in Tunisia engaged in exports of products of local origin. Resident exporting companies may have foreign currency credits on foreign currency money market resources for investment transactions.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to Circular No. 2020-13, resident enterprises may, for their own business needs, contract foreign currency loans from nonresidents. Foreign currency loans whose repayment period does not exceed 12 months are freely contracted up to the following amounts: (1) TD 25 million a calendar year for banks and financial institutions approved within the framework of Law No. 2016-48 and (2) TD 10 million a calendar year for other enterprises, including micro-finance companies. Foreign currency loans with a repayment period exceeding 12 months are freely contracted under the following conditions: (1) without limit of amount for the banks and financial institutions referred to in Article 3, listed on the stock exchange or having obtained a rating from one of the rating organizations appearing on the list in the appendix of the Circular; (2) up to a limit of TD 50 million a calendar year for other enterprises, including micro-finance companies referred to in Article 3, provided these enterprises are listed on the stock exchange or have obtained a rating from one of the rating organizations appearing on the list in the Annex of the Circular; and (3) up to a limit of TD 30 million a calendar year for enterprises that do not meet the condition of listing on the stock exchange or rating.

Financial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	The granting by resident banks of short-term dinar-denominated credits to nonresident companies established in Tunisia to finance local expenses in dinars is free.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to Circular No. 2020-13, resident enterprises may, for their own business needs, contract foreign currency loans from nonresidents. Foreign currency loans whose repayment period does not exceed 12 months are freely contracted up to the following amounts: (1) TD 25 million a calendar year for banks and financial institutions approved within the framework of Law No. 2016-48 and (2) TD 10 million a calendar year for other enterprises, including micro-finance companies. Foreign currency loans with a repayment period exceeding 12 months are freely contracted under the following conditions: (1) without limit of amount for the banks and financial institutions referred to in Article 3, listed on the stock exchange or having obtained a rating from one of the rating organizations appearing on the list in the appendix of the Circular; (2) up to a limit of TD 50 million a calendar year for other enterprises, including micro-finance companies referred to in Article 3, provided these enterprises are listed on the stock exchange or have obtained a rating from one of the rating organizations appearing on the list in the Annex of the Circular; and (3) up to a limit of TD 30 million a calendar year for enterprises that do not meet the condition of listing on the stock exchange or rating.
Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Resident banks may freely issue bid bonds, performance bonds, advance payment bonds, contract holdback bonds, or any other bonds on behalf of resident exporters of goods or services to guarantee their obligations to nonresidents. They may also freely issue guarantees for the payment by residents, on the order of resident importers, with respect to their purchases from nonresident suppliers. The same applies to the issuance and establishment of repayment guarantees for foreign currency loans freely contracted by residents.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	At the request and with the counter guarantee of a nonresident bank, resident banks may grant the usual bank guarantees required of nonresident service providers by residents in connection with business contracts, work contracts, and service contracts executable in Tunisia.
Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	Direct investment by residents abroad is generally subject to BCT approval. However, resident exporting companies may freely transfer the equivalent of TD 50,000–500,000 a year to finance representative or liaison offices abroad; TD 100,000–1 million a year for foreign investment in the form of branches, subsidiaries, and equity participation in companies; and up to TD 3 million a year for investments funded from foreign exchange export proceeds held in professional accounts. For nonexporting companies, the limit on transfers abroad for the same types of investment is TD 50,000–250,000 to finance representative or liaison offices and TD 100,000–500,000 for branches, subsidiaries, and equity participation abroad. Residents may freely participate in the capital of nonresident companies established in Tunisia, at the time either of incorporation or of a capital increase and through the purchase of shares or equity in such companies.

Inward direct investment	Yes.	Foreigners may invest in most economic sectors. However, the participation of nonresident foreigners in certain sectors remains subject to BCT approval after a favorable opinion from the supervisory authority. Foreign nonresidents may, using foreign exchange transferred from abroad, purchase shares or equity in companies in Tunisia under Law No. 2016-71 of September 30, 2016, on Investment, or at the time of a capital increase beyond their preferential subscription rights without exchange authorization, subject to compliance with the legislation governing the activity. Foreign nonresidents may purchase land and buildings in industrial zones and land in tourism areas for economic development projects with foreign exchange transferred from abroad.
Controls on liquidation of direct investment	No.	All FDIs carried out legitimately in Tunisia with foreign exchange transferred from abroad are guaranteed the right to repatriate the net proceeds from the sale or liquidation of the invested capital, even if the net proceeds exceed the initial value of the foreign exchange invested.
Controls on real estate transactions	Yes.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Purchases require BCT approval, except transactions debited from PPR accounts in foreign currency or convertible dinars.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Purchases by nonresident foreigners require BCT approval. However, foreign nonresidents may freely purchase land and buildings in industrial zones and land in tourism areas for economic projects with foreign exchange transferred from abroad.
Sale locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Authorization is required for sales other than those made to a resident and involving real estate that is the subject of a land title. These sales are recorded in the Land Registry solely on presentation of documentation showing that the price was deposited by the buyer in a suspense or capital account maintained in the name of the seller on the books of an authorized intermediary.
Controls on personal capital transactions	Yes.
Loans	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Residents must obtain BCT approval for lending to nonresidents.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Residents must obtain BCT approval for borrowing from nonresidents.
Gifts, endowments, inheritances, and legacies	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Authorization is not required to take possession of an inheritance established in Tunisia for the benefit of a nonresident. The transfer of proceeds from gifts, endowments, and inheritances not previously guaranteed is subject to BCT approval.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Authorization is not required for gifts from nonresidents to residents and for taking possession of an inheritance established abroad for a resident. Proceeds from gifts and inheritances must be declared and repatriated.

Settlement of debts abroad by immigrants	Yes.	Repayment of debt contracted in foreign currencies by nonresident immigrants from dinar accounts is subject to approval by the BCT.
Transfer of assets	Yes.
Transfer abroad by emigrants	Yes.	The transfer of the proceeds from assets not qualifying for the transfer guarantee is subject to approval by the BCT.
Transfer into the country by immigrants	Yes.	Nonresident Tunisian nationals returning permanently to the country must declare their assets or proceeds and revenue from their assets abroad.
Transfer of gambling and prize earnings	Yes.	The cash transfer of the proceeds of earnings from casino games duly authorized, including by the gaming commission, is not restricted. Such transfers are generally allowed as of the opening of the casino pursuant to an approval granted by the BCT.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.
Borrowing abroad	Yes.	Resident credit institutions may contract all types of foreign currency loans (for example, buyer credits, supplier credits, financial loans, and financial leases) for their business needs from nonresidents, up to, TD 25 million a year if the repayment period does not exceed 12 months. There is no limit on such loans if their maturity is longer than 12 months and they are contracted by credit institutions rated by a rating agency and by credit institutions listed on the stock exchange.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	Yes.	Resident banks may freely open correspondent accounts with foreign banks. Authorized intermediaries must repatriate to their CB account at the end of every business day any balance on their correspondent accounts related to residents' foreign exchange transactions. Balances resulting from nonresident transactions may be kept in correspondent accounts and invested abroad.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	BCT approval is required for loans granted by resident banks to nonresidents. However, resident banks may freely extend loans in the foreign exchange money market to nonresident industrial enterprises in Tunisia for operating expenses and to finance their imports and exports. Authorized intermediaries may finance, out of resources from the foreign exchange money market, the imports and exports of nonresident service companies in Tunisia, as well as exports of products of local origin by nonresident international trading companies in Tunisia. These nonresident companies may also receive operating loans against resources in the foreign exchange money market. Resident banks may extend dinar loans to nonresident companies to finance local (dinar-denominated) operating expenses and purchases of products and merchandise necessary for their operations. Such loans may not be used to purchase foreign exchange and must be placed in special accounts.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Resident banks may freely finance in the foreign exchange money market the import and export operations of resident entities. They may lend foreign exchange to exporting resident companies to finance investments made under current foreign exchange regulations. They may also freely lend their foreign currency surpluses to other resident banks and to their correspondent banks in exchange for loans with the same maturity in another currency.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	Purchases of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange are subject to BCT approval.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts	Yes.

in foreign exchange
Reserve requirements	Yes.	Tunisia does not impose reserve requirements on foreign currency deposit accounts. Only deposits in dinars are taken into account in the calculation of the reserve requirement at a rate of 1%. To determine the reserve requirement, a rate of 1% is imposed on demand deposits and other liabilities to customers.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The liquidity ratio requirement takes foreign currency deposits into account and is calculated as the ratio between readily convertible assets and callable liabilities. The numerator is primarily composed as follows: cash and holdings with the BCT and banks (100%); short-term discount portfolio (60%); advances on deposit accounts, cash vouchers, and other financial income (100%); debtor accounts (7%); and collection portfolio and security holdings in portfolio and listed on the stock exchange (100%). The denominator of the liquidity ratio is primarily composed of the following, weighted as follows: borrowing from the BCT, banks, and specialized financial institutions (100%); required credit balance on the required reserve (100%); demand accounts (60%); special savings accounts (3%); time accounts; other financial instruments (13%); CDs (40%); and funds in transit (comptes exigibles après encaissement—accounts payable after cashing—100%).
Interest rate controls	Yes.	The remuneration on foreign exchange accounts is freely negotiated with banks. Dinar balances in suspense accounts and capital accounts do not earn interest.
Credit controls	n.a.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts held by nonresidents	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	Dinar deposits of nonresidents are included in the calculation of the reserve requirement ratios.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The liquidity ratio requirement takes nonresidents' deposits into account.
Interest rate controls	Yes.	Interest rates on dinar and convertible dinar deposits of nonresidents are freely negotiated, except for demand accounts, for which there is a cap of 2%. The annual interest rate on foreign exchange accounts in convertible dinars held by Tunisian residents abroad and special accounts in convertible dinars must equal at least the average overnight money market rate minus 2 percentage points (pps). The minimum interest rate on savings in dinars is 3.50%.
Credit controls	n.a.
Investment regulations	Yes.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	Approval of the MOF and the BCT is required for a credit institution to open an office or branch. Resident banks may invest abroad up to 20% of the foreign exchange assets belonging to their resident customers, according to the terms and conditions specified by the BCT. However, this measure has not yet been implemented.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Approval is required for any acquisition of capital in a bank or other financial institution and, in all cases, for the acquisition of a proportion of the voting rights equal to or exceeding one-tenth, one-fifth, one-third, one-half, or two-thirds of the voting rights, as well as of any instrument that may result in the transfer of a significant proportion of the assets, potentially changing its financial structure or the focus of its activities.
Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	Net open positions of banks operating in the foreign exchange market resulting from both spot and forward transactions are limited to 10% of banks' net own funds in each currency, with a limit of 20% for positions in all currencies. The net open position regulation also

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2022.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	For the implementation of the UNSC Resolution (UNSCR) No. 1267 and its successor resolutions related to individuals and entities associated with Al-Qaida, Taliban, and Da'esh, and UNSCR No. 1373 related to combating terrorism and the financing of terrorism, Türkiye maintains an asset freezing mechanism under provisions of the Law No. 6415 on the Prevention of Financing of Terrorism (Official Gazette No. 28561 of February 16, 2013). Besides, for the implementation of UNSCR Nos. 1718 and 2223 and their successor resolutions, Türkiye maintains an asset freezing mechanism under provisions of the Law No. 7262 on Countering Financing of Proliferation (Official Gazette No. 31351 of December 31, 2020). Türkiye maintains the following exchange measures in accordance with EU regulations: the Islamic Republic of Iran, Iraq, Liberia, certain individuals associated with the previous government of the former Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, and Zimbabwe. Türkiye maintains security restrictions imposed by the following UNSCRs: (1) Resolution No. 1737, which bans the supply of nuclear-related materials and technology and calls for a freeze of the assets of key individuals and companies related to the Iranian nuclear program; (2) Resolution No. 1747, which imposes an arms embargo and expands the freeze on Iranian assets; (3) Resolution No. 1803, which extends the asset freeze and directs states to monitor the activities of Iranian banks, inspect Iranian ships and aircraft, and monitor the movement of individuals involved with the program; (4) Resolution No. 1929, which bars Iran from activities related to ballistic missiles, tightens the arms embargo, imposes travel bans on individuals involved with Iranian shipping lines, and recommends that countries inspect Iranian cargo, prohibit servicing of Iranian vessels involved in prohibited activities, closely watch Iranian individuals and entities when dealing with them, prohibit Iranian banks from opening on their territory and entering into relationships with their banks if it could contribute to the nuclear program, and prevent financial institutions operating in their territory from opening offices and accounts in Iran; and (5) Resolution Nos. 1970 and 1973, which impose an arms embargo on Libya, freeze assets, and impose a travel ban on those listed in the annexes of the resolutions.
Other security restrictions	No.

Crawl-like arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. Under the current regime, the foreign exchange supply and demand is mainly determined by economic fundamentals, the monetary and fiscal policies implemented, international developments and expectations. The Central Bank of the Republic of Türkiye (CBRT) has no nominal or real exchange rate target. The CBRT does not conduct foreign exchange buying or selling transactions to determine the level or direction of the exchange rates. To ensure that the foreign exchange market operates efficiently, the CBRT closely monitors exchange rate developments and related risk factors and continue to take the necessary measures and employ due instruments. The CBRT announced the general framework of the monetary and exchange rate policies envisaged for 2023 in a document titled "Monetary Policy and Liraization Strategy for 2023" on December 30, 2022. The CBRT continues swap transactions to contribute to the TL and foreign exchange liquidity management of banks. TL currency swap transactions via the quotation method with one-week maturity; Borsa İstanbul (BIST) Swap Market transactions, which was started on May 15, 2019 (ended in late 2021), and swap auctions conducted via the traditional method, are used in line with the banks' needs. The one-week repo auction rate is valid for the TL interest rate in swap transactions conducted via the quotation method and BIST Swap Market transactions were conducted consistent with the monetary policy rates. In 2022, the bid amount that each bank can submit in the swap auctions was again increased to maximum 50% of the total auction amount. Depending on market conditions, the CBRT continues to conduct the TL-settled foreign exchange futures transactions at the Derivatives Market (VIOP) operating under the BIST. 		against TL were suspended in October 2020 to contribute the local market gold supply and restarted in May 2021. Stock and flow data regarding the swap transactions conducted by the CBRT with the banks in domestic markets and TL-settled foreign exchange futures transactions conducted on the BIST Derivatives Market have been released on a daily basis on the CBRT's website under the heading Statistics/Markets Data. From July 2022, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar, with one realignment in November 2022. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to "crawl-like" from "floating", effective July 28, 2022. The classification in the AREAER is based on data available until April 30, 2023. Data since then show a higher volatility in the bilateral Turkish lira-U.S. dollar exchange rate. While more observations would be needed to reassess a de facto classification, if this higher volatility were to persist, it would suggest that the Turkish lira may no longer behave in a manner consistent with an assessment of a crawl-like arrangement.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	There is no official exchange rate determined by the CBRT. However, there is an indicative rate, which is determined through six CBRT observations between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m., at one-hour intervals, taking the average value of the averages of the buying and selling rates as quoted by banks in the interbank foreign exchange market for US$1. The arithmetic average of the six observed values thus obtained is the CBRT's midrate for US$1. The buying and selling rates for US$1 are calculated based on the midrate. Similarly, the respective cross-rates of the currencies for which the CBRT announces indicative exchange rates are collected between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. at one-hour intervals. The indicative exchange rates are announced at 3:30 p.m. and used for accounting transactions and some branch transactions of the CBRT, but there are no mandatory rates for individuals or entities. After the introduction of the Foreign Exchange-Protected Deposit Scheme, the CBRT also started to publish the relevant exchange rates and gold prices at one-hour intervals daily.

Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	On June 1, 2018, the CB simplified its operational framework of monetary policy and decided to adopt the one-week repo rate as the sole monetary policy rate. The CB overnight borrowing and lending rates since this date are determined at 150 basis points (bps) below/above the one-week repo rate, and the CBRT borrowing rate for Late Liquidity Window operations would be 0%. The MPC does not make separate announcements for these rates. On October 22, 2020, the margin between the CBRT Late Liquidity Window lending rate and overnight lending rate was set as 300 bps. The CBRT provides all short-term funding through its main policy instrument, the one-week repo auction rate since November 2020.

The selling rate for foreign exchange deposits for EUR at one-week maturity was increased from 2.00% to 2.50% and at one-month maturity from 3% to 3.50% on July 28, 2022. The selling rate for foreign exchange deposits for EUR at one-week maturity was increased from 5.75% to 6% and at one-month maturity from 6.25% to 6.5% on September 22, 2023. When deemed necessary, without any need for a press release, these rates, the rates applied to banks' borrowings of the USD and EUR from the CB as a last resort facility, may be adjusted in either direction at 9:30 a.m. on business days and will be valid for the same business day. The rates are announced through Anadolu Agency DV006, Reuters CBTJ, and Bloomberg CBT pages.

The CBRT introduced the facility of foreign exchange deposits as collateral at two-day maturity in addition to one-week, two-week, and one-month maturities since February 25, 2020. The buying rate for this facility was set at 5.5% for USD and 4% for EUR, in line with other maturities. The buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the USD was increased from 0% to 0.25% effective March 21, 2022; to 0.75% effective May 5, 2022; to 1.5% effective June 16, 2022; to 2.25% effective July 28, 2022; to 3% effective September 22, 2022; to 3.75% effective November 3, 2022; to 4.25% effective December 15, 2022; to 4.5% effective January 6, 2023; to 4.75% effective February 2, 2023; to 5% effective March 23, 2023; to 5.25% effective May 4, 2023; and to 5.5% effective July 31, 2023 for two-day, one-week, two-week, and one-month maturities. The buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the EUR was also increased from 0% to 0.5% for two-day, one-week, two-week, and one-month maturities effective July 28, 2022.
The buying rate on collateral foreign exchange deposits for the EUR was also increased from 3.75% to 4% for two-day, one-week, two-week, and one-month maturities effective September 22, 2023.

Since November 2018, TL currency swap market is available to enhance banks' efficiency in TL and foreign exchange liquidity management. These transactions are conducted at one-week maturities via quotation method with banks, and with one-, three-, and six-month maturities via the traditional (multi-price) auction method since August 2019.

In 2021, the foreign exchange demand of US$6.111 billion of state-owned enterprises was met by the CBRT via direct selling method, and in the first half of 2022, the foreign exchange demand of US$17.972 billion of state-owned enterprises was met by the CBRT via direct selling method.

		the financial system. On August 15, 2018, foreign exchange against gold market and location swap facilities were introduced. The CBRT conducts gold buying and selling transactions against foreign exchange in its spot market and location swap transactions as the banks demand. The commission rate charged over the TL equivalent of gold deposited to a custody center abroad in gold location swap transactions was reduced from 5 per 10,000 to 0 on September 14, 2020. In the same manner, to contribute inclusion of gold savings into the financial system and the liquidity management of banks, a TL Gold Swap Market (for transactions on the buy side) was introduced on May 6, 2019. The CBRT gradually raised the limit for TL Gold Swap Market to 169 tons as of June 30, 2022. In addition, Foreign Exchange Gold Swap Markets (for transactions on both the buy and sell sides) were introduced on October 2, 2019. Initial limit for Foreign Exchange Gold Swap Market was assigned as 100 tons for each (buy/sell) side. For the sell side, limit has been maintained at 100 tons whereas buying limit has risen to 168 tons as of June 30, 2022. The CBRT also started to sell gold against foreign exchange at the BIST Precious Metals and Diamond Market on September 25, 2020, buy gold against TL as of June 11, 2021, and sell gold against TL effective February 28, 2022.

Auction	Yes.	The CBRT may intervene directly or through flexible auctions in the market, in case of unhealthy price formations because of speculative behavior stemming from a loss in market depth. The CBRT has issued the following auction guidelines for Foreign Exchange Buying–Selling Auctions against TL: (1) Only banks authorized to operate in Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Markets in the CB may participate in intraday auctions. (2) The number and other details of the auction are announced through Reuters CBTQ, Bloomberg CBT/Foreign Exchange Auctions, and Anadolu Agency DV007 pages. Following the announcement of the auction, banks may submit their offers within 15 minutes. (3) Offers may be sent via the CBRT Payment Systems Auction System (IhS). (4) Auctions are held under the multiple price method. (5) The results of the auctions are announced through Reuters CBTQ, Bloomberg CBT/Foreign Exchange Auctions, and Anadolu Agency DV007 pages within 15 minutes of the deadline for submission of the offers. (6) The minimum offer amount is US$1 million and larger amounts in multiples thereof. (7) The maximum bid amount for each bank is limited to 10% of the total auction amount. (8) Banks may not change their offer amounts and/or prices during the auction. (9) The full amount of offers received is met up to the auction amount. (10) If there is more than one offer at the price at which the auction is finalized, the distribution is made on pro-rata basis. (11) Banks that do not fulfill their obligations arising from the auctions are subject to the sanctions specified in the Implementation Instructions of the Foreign Exchange and Banknotes Markets. On December 1, 2021, December 3, 2021, December 10, 2021, December 13, 2021, and December 17, 2021, the CBRT directly intervened in the market via selling transactions because of unhealthy price formations. Since December 2014, the CBRT continues to supply foreign exchange to energy state-owned enterprises. Foreign exchange is provided directly by selling from CBRT currency rate; there is no

Standard unwrought precious metals and printed precious metals may be bought and sold by refineries, intermediary institutions dealing in precious metals that are members of the BIST(those intermediary institutions have to obtain a license from Ministry of Treasury and Finance of Türkiye) and jewelry enterprises authorized by the Ministry of Trade of Türkiye. Nonstandard unwrought precious metals may be sold to juridical entities freely; however, they cannot be sold to natural persons residing in Türkiye other than jewelry businesses authorized by the Ministry of Trade of Türkiye. Buying and selling of wrought precious metals and stones or articles containing them, except printed precious metals, may be conducted freely.
On external trade	Yes.	In accordance with the Foreign Trade Regime, exports of precious metals and stones or articles containing them may be conducted freely. Imports and exports of standard and nonstandard unwrought precious metals must be declared to the customs administration and are not subject to the provisions of the Imports and Exports Regime, Decrees and Regulations. Import of nonstandard unprocessed precious metals is free within the scope of the Inward Processing Regime Decree (IPRD). Nonstandard unprocessed precious metals except from the ones in IPRD and standard unprocessed precious metals (gold, silver, platinum, and palladium) may be imported by only the CBRT and intermediary institutions dealing in precious metals that are members of the BIST (the companies who want to import standard unwrought precious metals have to obtain a license from the Ministry of Treasury and Finance of Türkiye) without being subject to the provisions of the Foreign Trade Regime, but the latter must surrender the gold to the BIST within three days. But imports of BIST members which are within the scope of IPRD are not delivered to BIST. A written notice is sufficient. Selling operations of gold imported by BIST members must initially take place in the BIST. Banks may open gold deposit accounts for natural and juridical entities in Türkiye and abroad. However, the gold must be delivered to banks by account holders or transferred through bank accounts in Türkiye or abroad or sold by banks to open gold deposit accounts. Banks may trade in precious metals according to Article 4/h of the Banking Law. Within the framework of the foreign exchange regulations, banks may extend gold credits to customers. The buying and selling prices of gold are freely determined by banks. Intermediary institutions dealing in precious metals may obtain gold credits from abroad on their own behalf and/or on behalf of their customers. However, unprocessed gold obtained and brought into Türkiye as a credit must be transferred to the BIST within three days. Travelers may import and export ornamental articles of precious metals and stones valued at not more than the equivalent of US$15,000. Articles exceeding this value may be exported only if they were declared on arrival or with proof that they were purchased in Türkiye.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.	According to the provision of Article 16 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime (Official Gazette No. 26323 of October 18, 2006), travelers making a physical cross-border transportation of Turkish currency, foreign currency, or payment instruments, must disclose them fully and accurately on the request of Customs Administration. In case no explanations are made or are false or a misleading explanation is made on the request by the authorities, values carried along by the travelers must be sequestrated by the Customs Administration. The Customs Administration must impose an administrative fine equal to one-tenth of the amount

Besides, the case must be considered as suspicious and must be conveyed to MASAK (Mali Suçları Araştırma Kurulu—the Financial Crimes Investigation Board) and other related authorities. The provisions of this paragraph may not apply to the differences up to TRY 1,500. (According to Article 28 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime, fixed amounts, which is stated in the Articles 13 and 16 of this Law, are applied at the beginning of each year by increasing the rate of revaluation determined in accordance with the Tax Procedure Law No. 213 of April 1, 1961, for the previous year. The amounts up to ten new TLs are not considered in the calculations. According to calculations, the amount for 2022 is TRY 8,000.) Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Türkiye are obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are officially invited to disclose.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	According to Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency (as amended), the threshold for a person to take out Turkish currency abroad is TRY 25,000; Communiqué No. 2008-32/34 attached to the Decree No. 32 Regarding the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, published in Official Gazette No. 29578 of December 30, 2015, was amended to set principles for taking out Turkish currency and foreign currency banknotes as follows: taking out Turkish currency and payment instruments denominated in Turkish currency greater than TRY 25,000, accompanied by a traveler must be declared to customs authorities with cash declaration form issued by the Trade Ministry. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or if the information provided is incorrect or misleading. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash must be sequestrated and the matter reported to MASAK, the MASAK as suspicious case. Also, it must be reported to the public prosecution office to impose a fine for failure to comply with the declaration obligation. Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Türkiye are obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are also officially invited to disclose.
Foreign currency	Yes.	According to Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency (as amended), the threshold for a person to take out foreign currency banknotes abroad without any obligations is €10,000 or its equivalent. Decree No. 32 on the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, published in Official Gazette No. 29578 of June 11, 2015, was amended to authorize the ministry to set principles for taking out foreign currency banknotes greater than €10,000 or its equivalent. According to Communiqué No. 2008-32/34 attached to the Decree No. 32 Regarding the Protection of the Value of Turkish Currency, published in Official Gazette No. 29578 of December 30, 2015, for taking out foreign exchange greater than €10,000 or its equivalent accompanied by a traveler must be declared to customs authorities with cash declaration form issued by the Trade Ministry. The obligation to declare is not fulfilled if the traveler makes no declaration or the information provided is incorrect or misleading. In the event of failure to comply with the declaration obligation, cash

Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Türkiye are obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are officially invited to disclose.
On imports	No.	According to the provision of Article 16 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime (Official Gazette No. 26323 of October 18, 2006), travelers making a physical cross-border transportation of Turkish currency, foreign currency, or payment by them, must disclose them fully and accurately on the request of Customs Administration. In case no explanations are made or false or misleading explanation is made on the request by the authorities, values carried along by the travelers must be sequestrated by the Customs Administration. The Customs Administration must impose an administrative fine equal to one-tenth of the amount carried along on travelers who do not make a disclosure and one-tenth of the difference between the value carried along and the value disclosed on travelers who make a false disclosure about the amount. Besides, the case must be considered as suspicious and must be conveyed to MASAK and other related authorities. The provisions of this paragraph may not apply to the differences up to TRY 1,500. (According to Article 28 of the Law No. 5549 on Prevention of Laundering Proceeds of Crime, fixed amounts, which is stated in Articles 13 and 16 of this Law, are applied at the beginning of each year by increasing the rate of revaluation determined in accordance with the Tax Procedure Law No. 213 of April 1, 1961, for the previous year. The amounts up to ten new TLs are not considered in the calculations. According to calculations, the amount for 2022 is TRY 8,000.) Besides, the Ministry of Trade issued a Circular No. 2016/1 about the implementation. Accordingly, passengers entering or leaving Türkiye are also obliged to disclose their cash that they are carrying with them when they are officially invited to disclose.

Türkiye applies the EU's GSP (except for some countries, such as India, Vietnam, and Indonesia and GSP+) with the GSP rates indicated in List II and List III of the Import Regime. In this context, preferences are granted for all industrial products and industrial components of processed agricultural products covered by the EU's GSP program. Least developed countries have duty- and quota-free access to the Turkish market for all industrial products under Chapters 25–97 (except Chapter 93) and for processed agricultural products in terms of industrial components covered by the customs union between Türkiye and the EU. In accordance with the EU's GSP program, for developing economies, duties have been suspended or reduced in accordance with the sensitivity of the product. Beneficiary countries are announced annually in annexes to the import regime decree. The simple average tariff rates that apply to imports of (1) industrial products are 4.2% and (2) agricultural products listed in Annex 1 of the Import Regime are 58%. Türkiye also provides additional market access possibilities to countries with which it has preferential agreements. Duty rates that are lower than MFN rates are applied for industrial and certain agricultural products originating in these countries. From December 31, 2017, India, Indonesia, and Vietnam were excluded from GSP of Türkiye. Changes taken in response to COVID-19 pandemic: The additional customs duty (ACD) on respirators was eliminated. The customs duty applied on the import of ethyl alcohol was removed for use in the production of cologne and disinfectant. The customs duty applied on the import of ethyl alcohol was restored for use in the production of cologne and disinfectant. The ACD on the import of "Disposable medical masks (for one-time use)" was removed and this regulation is still in effect. For industrialists producing baker's yeast, the customs duty currently applied is 31.5% on molasses imports. Decrease in import tariffs of some cold rolled stainless steel (from 12% to 8%). Elimination of ACDs for 520 products (ex duty rates between 1.9% and 25%) (product groups: metal items/tools, items of iron and steel products, construction materials, construction machinery, automotive spare parts, and consumption items). Elimination of ACDs of bottles (colored glass) (from 25% to 0%). Implementation of ACDs for electrical cars (from 0% to 10%). The customs duties were restored to their pre-pandemic levels, which are 15% on paddy for seed and 34% for other paddies and rice. Effective January 1, 2023, the duties on wheat, barley, and corn instruments		Turkish Currency, purchases and sales of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents and of foreign securities by residents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks). Securities and derivative instruments issued or offered to the public by resident legal persons other than public institutions may be freely sold abroad if the prospectus or issue documents are approved by the Capital Markets Board (CMB). According to Communiqué No. III-37.1 on Principles Regarding Investment Services, Investment Activities, and Ancillary Services, investment services and activities obtained by persons residing in Türkiye, including from investment firms on their own initiative and from financial institutions abroad, accounts opened at such institutions, cash and other assets transferred to such accounts, and transactions in these accounts are beyond the scope of this Communiqué, provided activities such as promotion, advertisement, and marketing are not intended for persons residing in Türkiye. CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts, and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) was amended in 2015 to provide some exemptions for the sale of capital market instruments other than those giving shareholder rights by foreign issuers of which the Ministry of Treasury and Finance or CB is a member/shareholder or for listing on the Turkish stock exchange of these types of instruments already issued abroad.

On capital market securities	Yes.	Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation. Istanbul Clearing, Settlement and Custody Bank Inc. (Takasbank) is authorized to provide cash and securities settlement transactions as the central clearing and settlement institution to BIST equities, debt securities, foreign securities, derivatives, and precious metals markets. Securities delivery/receipt as well as cash obligations of BIST members arising from the buy–sell transactions in the related markets are executed via Takasbank. Additionally, rights related to dematerialized capital market instruments are monitored by the Central Registry Agency. Central Registry Agency is the central securities depository for capital market instruments which are decided by CMB to be dematerialized.
Shares or other securities of a participating nature	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Purchases of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions, except for investments in (1) mining, except through a company established in Türkiye; (2) exploration and exploitation of petroleum by enterprises controlled or owned by foreign countries, unless authorization is granted; (3) radio and television broadcasting, whose foreign partner share may not exceed 50%. Further, Law No. 6112 on the Establishment of Radio and Television Enterprises and Their Media Services Article 19f reads as follows: “A foreign real or legal person can directly become a partner of maximum two media service providers. If foreign real or legal persons hold shares in companies that are shareholders of media service providers and become an indirect partner of the broadcasters, the chair, the deputy chair and the majority of the Board of Executives and the general director of the broadcasting enterprises have to be the citizens of Republic of Türkiye, and the majority of the votes in the general assemblies of broadcasting enterprises should belong to real or legal persons having Turkish citizenship. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Foreign capital markets instruments and related terms are defined in the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) as follows: "Foreign capital market instruments" refers to securities issued by foreign corporations or foreign states and local administrations, except for foreign investment fund units, as further defined in subparagraph (ş) of first paragraph of Article 3 of the Capital Market Law (No. 6362); a "Foreign corporation" refers to a corporation or, an establishment issuing capital market instruments according to laws of the relevant country, out of persons resident abroad, as defined in the Governmental Decree on Protection of Value of Turkish Currency No. 32 and "Foreign investment fund units" refer to securities which are issued by a foreign investment fund classified as a collective investment scheme founded abroad, and are considered as other capital market instruments. The issuance, public offering, private placement, and sale of foreign capital market instruments, fund units, and depository receipts by nonresidents are subject to the provisions of the capital markets legislation. Under Capital Markets Law No. 6362, nonresident and resident issuers must submit the prospectus to the CMB for approval before a public offering. The principles regarding public offering, private placement, sales to qualified investors, and sales must conform to the provisions of the relevant Communiqué appropriate for the nature of the relevant capital market instrument, unless specified otherwise by the regulations of the CMB. Under the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts, and Foreign Investment Funds, issuers must apply to the CMB for approval of prospectus or issue documents prepared for foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts for the following transactions: (1) public offerings of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts; (2) sales of foreign capital market instruments and depository receipts through private placement and/or to qualified investors; (3) shares issued by foreign corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange through capital contributions and capital contributions to be paid from equities. Further, the Communiqué (1) establishes the requirements for public disclosure, auditing, and independent auditing reports of foreign corporations in line with the Capital Market Law and related subregulations; (2) establishes a new tool of public disclosure called the Investor Information Document that replaces the circular to inform investors; (3) sets the minimum requirement for NAV of the fund at €10 million or the equivalent in other currencies and stipulates that they must have been traded for at least three years; (4) indicates that controversy among representative and foreign fund units may be solved through arbitration; and (5) requires that foreign investment fund units sold in Türkiye be recorded collectively or individually by rightful owners in accounts opened in the name of the fund representative in the organization of registry where ownership records are kept abroad. In addition, foreign investment fund units must be registered electronically but separately for rightful owners in a subaccount of the fund representative in the Central Registry Agency. Foreign capital market instruments offered to the public must comply with the following: (1) They must not have been rejected for trading on an exchange of the country of issue by the exchange or capital market authority for protection of investors or on similar grounds. (2) The foreign capital market instruments must have been drawn up in liras or foreign currency whose daily exchange rates are announced by the CBRT. (3) Foreign debt instruments must have received an investment rating for long-term demand according to the rating scale of the rating agency of the issuing corporation. This rating must be received one year before application to the CMB. (4) In case of public offering of foreign capital market instruments, foreign companies must appoint a representative agent whose qualifications and obligations are set by Communiqué No. VII-128.4. (5) The financial reports to be drawn up by foreign corporations (financial statements, annual report of the board of directors, statement of responsibility reports) and their preparation must comply with the accounting standards accepted in CMB regulations for corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange or, if deemed appropriate by the CMB, with internationally accepted accounting standards. (6) Foreign corporations are subject to the same principles as corporations whose shares are traded on the stock exchange, in terms of independent audit obligations of financial statements. The independent auditing of financial tables must be conducted by an independent auditing firm included on the list of authorized independent auditing firms of the CMB or an international independent auditing firm to which these firms belong, in compliance with internationally accepted independent auditing standards. (7) Foreign corporations must fulfill all obligations concerning public disclosure to which similar corporations in Türkiye are subject.

Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	There are no restrictions with regard to assets, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Türkiye. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The sale, issuance, and public offering of capital market instruments abroad by resident legal entities, except public institutions and establishments, are not restricted, provided the document regarding the issue is submitted to and approved by the CMB, pursuant to the capital markets legislation. The Capital Markets Law regulates the registration of capital market instruments. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Nonresidents (including investment companies and investment funds abroad) may purchase all kinds of securities and other capital market instruments through banks and intermediary institutions that are authorized under the capital market legislation.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Foreign capital markets instruments and related terms are defined in the CMB Communiqué on the Foreign Capital Market Instruments, Depository Receipts, and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4) as follows: “Foreign capital market instruments” refer to securities issued by foreign corporations or foreign states and local may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries to cover risk held outside Türkiye. These assets are also held as collateral, provided they are at Takasbank (Istanbul Settlement and Custody Bank Inc.). Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).

Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	The sale, issuance, and public offering of capital market instruments abroad by resident legal entities, except public institutions and establishments, are not restricted, provided the document regarding the issue is approved by the CMB, pursuant to the capital markets legislation. The Capital Markets Law regulates the registration of capital market instruments. In addition to the regulations governing shares or other securities of a participating nature, issuers are required to submit the issue document regarding the issued capital market instrument to be approved by the CMB pursuant to the Communiqué Prospectus and Issue Document (II-5.1).
On money market instruments	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Purchases of domestic securities and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Controls apply to the issuance and public sale of money market securities, except for securities that are not regulated under the current legislation on capital markets, such as CDs and bankers' acceptances. Commercial paper, bank bills, and bank-guaranteed bills with a maturity of less than one year are subject to CMB regulations. Nonresidents are required to apply to the CMB for approval of the prospectus and offer these securities to the public according to Communiqué on Foreign Capital Market Instruments Depository Receipts, and Foreign Investment Funds (VII-128.4).
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	There are no restrictions with regard to assets, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries with regard to their risk held outside Türkiye. Securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Commercial paper, bank bills, and bank-guaranteed bills with a maturity of less than one year are subject to the regulations of the CMB. Issuers must apply to the CMB for the approval of the issue document before issuing these securities in a foreign capital market.
On collective investment securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to Communiqué No. VII-128.4, the sale through active marketing or issuance of these instruments is subject to CMB legislation. Foreign collective investment companies are required to apply to the CMB for approval of fund rules just as domestic collective investment companies must do, before offering their securities to the public. Foreign collective investment companies must have a representative that is a bank or a broadly authorized intermediary institution in Türkiye.

		Public offerings are made by this representative and/or through banks or intermediary institutions authorized by the representative. Fund representative must apply to the CMB for approval of prospectus.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	There are no restrictions with regard to purchase of assets abroad by residents, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in securities issued by residents of OECD countries with regard to their risk held outside Türkiye. Resident collective investment funds may invest up to 20% of the fund's NAV in foreign exchange-traded funds.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	According to Capital Markets Law No. 6362, national collective investment companies must apply to the CMB for approval when issuing or selling securities in Türkiye or abroad.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Purchases of derivatives and other instruments by nonresidents are free of restrictions. However, securities transactions must be carried out through banks and intermediary institutions authorized under the capital markets legislation, and all related transfers must be carried out through banks (including participation banks).
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	According to Capital Markets Law No. 6362, the performance of investment services and activities as a regular occupation, business, or a professional activity requires permission from the CMB. Investment services and activities may only be performed by investment firms, which are defined as intermediary institutions as well as other capital market institutions established to perform investment services and activities, the establishment and operation principles of which are designated by the CMB, and banks. Sale and issuance of derivatives are regarded as investment service and activity, which require permission of the CMB. The only exception is noncommercial or nonoccupational sale and purchase of derivative instruments by natural or legal persons among themselves without intermediation of an investment firm. According to Communiqué No. III-37.1 on Principles Regarding Investment Services, Investment Activities, and Ancillary Services, investment services and activities obtained by persons residing in Türkiye, including from investment firms on their own initiative and from financial institutions abroad, accounts opened at such institutions, cash and other assets transferred to such accounts, and transactions in these accounts are beyond the scope of this Communiqué, provided activities such as promotion, advertisement, and marketing are not intended for persons residing in Türkiye.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in financial institutions established in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Türkiye. There are no controls on derivatives traded abroad whose underlying instruments are the same as those traded in local derivative exchanges. According to Decree No. 32, leveraged transactions and derivative transactions determined to be subject to the same provisions as the former must be conducted by the people resident in Türkiye only through competent institutions authorized by the CMB. Starting March 13, 2017, leveraged transaction of foreign exchange, precious metals, and other assets designated by the CMB must only be conducted by resident through competent institutions authorized by the CMB.

		Leveraged transactions are defined as “sale and purchase transactions through leverage of the foreign exchange, precious metals, and other assets designated by the CMB, on an electronic platform, in consideration of collateral deposited” in the Communiqué No. III-37.1. Furthermore, Article 99 of the Capital Markets Law states that unauthorized leveraged transaction activities which have been carried out via Internet and directed to persons residing in Türkiye by companies abroad must be banned by blocking off the access to the relevant website by the Information and Communications Technologies Authority on the request of the CMB.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	No.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.	Credits extended by nonresidents with a maturity of more than one year that are obtained by the public sector or guaranteed by the Treasury must be registered in the External Financing Information System maintained by the Ministry of Treasury and Finance. All other credits are monitored by the CBRT for statistical purposes.
Commercial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Restrictions apply only to commodity credits of more than two years for exports of nondurable goods and of more than five years for exports of other goods.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Residents may freely obtain TL credits from abroad, provided they use such credits through banks (including participating banks). With an amendment to Decree No. 32, the authority to determine the maximum maturity period for pre-financing credits is delegated to the Ministry of Treasury and Finance. These credits can be utilized to finance exportation. An amendment on foreign exchange legislation has been put into force from May 2, 2018 (Official Gazette No. 30312 of January 25, 2018). With the new legislation, in general, Turkish residents, who do not have income in foreign currency, cannot take loans in foreign currency domestically or from abroad. The rule will be applied to all Turkish residents apart from those which have some special conditions. For residents that have income in foreign currency who have foreign exchange liabilities less than US$15 million, can borrow in foreign exchange according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of their foreign exchange income of the last three fiscal years.
Financial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Banks, financial leasing companies, factoring companies, financing companies resident in Türkiye, and other persons determined by the ministry can extend foreign currency and TL loans to nonresidents. Residents may extend financial credits in foreign exchange and liras to their parent companies, group companies, affiliates, and subsidiaries abroad. There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in financial institutions established in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Türkiye.

Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	No.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	Controls apply to investment in (1) mining, except through a company established in Türkiye; (2) exploration and exploitation of petroleum by enterprises controlled or owned by foreign countries, unless authorization is granted; (3) radio and television broadcasting, whose foreign partner share may not exceed 50%. Further, Law No. 6112 on the Establishment of Radio and Television Enterprises and Their Media Services Article 19f reads as follows: "A foreign real or legal person can directly become a partner of maximum two media service providers. If foreign real or legal persons hold shares in companies that are shareholders of media service providers and become an indirect partner of the broadcasters, the chair, the deputy chair and the majority of the Board of Executives and the general director of the broadcasting enterprises have to be the citizens of Republic of Türkiye, and the majority of the votes in the general assemblies of broadcasting enterprises should belong to real or legal persons having Turkish citizenship. In main contracts of such corporations, the arrangements ensuring these provisions must be stated clearly"; (4) the accounting, auditing, and bookkeeping services sector; (5) transportation, in accordance with cabotage rights; (6) electricity, in the scope of privatization activities; foreign individuals and legal entities may not have a controlling market share in electricity generation, transmission, and distribution; (7) education; foreign real or legal persons may not set up education institutions unless all students are foreigners. International private education institutions may be set up by real or legal persons on authorization of the Council of Ministers. For tertiary education institutions, the majority in the administrative bodies must be Turkish nationals; (8) aviation; no more than 49% equity participation by foreigners is allowed. Licenses to operate airlines are only granted to locally incorporated companies whose management is under the control of Turkish citizens and the majority of voting shares are owned by Turkish citizens. Airlines, of which the majority of shares are controlled by foreigners, are not permitted to carry passengers from one national airport to another. To obtain ground handling services licenses (A and C Group Licenses), the majority authorized administration and representation of the company must be Turkish. The contract of such a company has to guarantee that the votes of its majority shareholders belong to Turkish nationals; (9) fishing; foreign persons may not obtain a fishing license. Enterprises that are established in Türkiye in conformity with the legislation on FDI are subject to prior authorization and license requirements of the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry. According to Communiqué No. 2012/66 of August 18, 2012, on Regulation of Fish Hunting, foreign persons cannot operate in tuna fishing by renting Turkish vessels; (10) banking; permission to establish a bank, which has to be founded in the form of a joint-stock company, or to open the first branch of a foreign bank in Türkiye, must be given by the Banking Regulation and Supervision Board; (11) port services; port services are provided under concession agreements; (12) advisory services on foreign and international law by foreign lawyers in the Turkish territory; except for establishment in the form of "foreign attorney partnership (yabancı avukatlık ortaklığı)" and based on reciprocity; (13) health-related services; foreign persons can only establish private hospitals with the permission of the Ministry of Health; (14) pharmaceuticals and medical products; an enterprise, which will produce pharmaceuticals or medical products, has to be managed by a responsible director who must be Turkish National.

Controls on liquidation of direct investment	No.	Proceeds may be transferred abroad freely but must be reported to the CBRT.
Controls on real estate transactions	Yes.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	There are no restrictions with regard to assets abroad, except when these assets are to form part of the cover of the technical reserves of an insurance company. Insurance, reinsurance, and pension companies may invest their technical reserves in real estate located in OECD countries to cover their risk held outside Türkiye.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	There is no reciprocity requirement in real estate acquisitions of foreign real persons, and the Council of Ministers, in compliance with legal restrictions, bilateral international relations, and national interests, is authorized to determine the countries authorized to acquire real estate in Türkiye. The total area of the real estate acquired by foreign real persons may not exceed 10% of the privately owned land in the town and 30 hectares a person across the country. The Council of Ministers may also authorize an increase of 30 hectares not more than twice. If a foreign real or legal person acquires vacant land, a project must be developed within two years and submitted to the relevant ministry for approval. The project must be monitored by the same ministry. These restrictions for foreign real and legal persons do not apply to the pledge on real estate. In case of national interest, the Council of Ministers may limit, suspend, or prohibit the acquisition of immovable and/or limited rights in rem of foreign real and legal persons in terms of country, person, geographic area, duration, number, ratio, sort, qualification, area, or quantity. In principle, foreign capital companies established in Türkiye may freely acquire and use real estate to conduct business activities listed in the articles of association of their companies. Within this context, companies controlled by foreign investors (the companies in which foreign shareholders own at least 50% of the shares or have the authority to assign or dismiss the majority of the managers), willing to acquire immovable and/or limited rights in rem in Türkiye, must apply to the Provincial Planning and Coordination Directorate (Prefecture Office) at the location of the property by presenting the required documents. Moreover, acquisitions in military zones and special security zones require permission from the Turkish military authorities and province governorships, respectively. These restrictions for foreign capital companies do not apply to the pledge on real estate, liquidation of such pledges, acquisitions of real estate within the context of mergers and divisions of the companies, acquisitions in specific investment areas such as organized industrial zones, technology development zones, or free zones, and acquisitions of banks for the collection of their receivables. However, the banking regulation stipulates liquidation of such properties within a specific time frame.

Provisions Specific to the Financial Sector

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.
Borrowing abroad	No.	Banks and financial leasing companies, factoring companies, and financing companies, which are resident in Türkiye, can freely use foreign currency credits from abroad.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	No.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	Banks, financial leasing companies, factoring companies, financing companies resident in Türkiye, and other persons determined by the ministry operating in Türkiye may extend credit in foreign exchange to nonresidents. Such credit may also be extended in liras.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	In an attempt to contain risks associated with resident foreign exchange borrowing, an amendment on foreign exchange legislation has been put into force from May 2, 2018 (Official Gazette No. 30312 of January 25, 2018). With the new legislation, in general,

		Turkish residents, who do not have income in foreign currency, cannot take loans in foreign currency domestically or from abroad. The rule will be applied to all Turkish residents apart from those which have some special conditions. For residents that have income in foreign currency who have foreign exchange liabilities less than US$15 million, can borrow in foreign exchange according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of their foreign exchange income of the last three fiscal years. With the amendment, most of the exceptions in the former regulation were preserved. However, according to previous regulation, banks could extend foreign exchange credit to residents without considering whether they have foreign currency income or not, if the credit has an average maturity exceeding one year and is in an amount not less than US$5 million. With the new regulation, this exception was removed and the rule of borrowing in foreign currency according to a limit which does not exceed the sum of foreign currency income of last three fiscal years has been put into practice for ensuring the firms borrow prudently and manage their foreign exchange risk efficiently.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	No.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	Reserve requirements (RR) are used to improve the effectiveness of the monetary transmission mechanism and to support financial stability in Türkiye. Banks (including participation banks) and financing companies must maintain RRs at the CBRT for deposits and other liabilities. Reserve requirement ratios (RRRs) are differentiated by currency, maturity, and type of liabilities. RRRs on foreign exchange liabilities are significantly higher than TL liabilities, especially for short-term liabilities. Effective August 18, 2023 (with the maintenance period starting on September 1, 2023), the RRR for foreign exchange deposit/participation funds with a maturity of up to 1 month has been increased by 400 bps to 29%. Currently, the RRRs for foreign exchange deposits/participation funds are given below: (1) Demand deposits, notice deposits and up to 1 month maturities: 29%. (2) Deposits/participation funds up to 3 months, 6 months and 1-year maturities: 25%. (3) Precious metal deposits/participation funds up to 1-year maturities: 26%. (4) Deposits/participation funds with 1-year or longer maturity: 19%. (5) Precious metal deposits/participation funds with 1-year or longer maturity: 22%. (6) Other liabilities up to one-year maturity (including one year): 21%. (7) Other liabilities up to two-year maturity (including two years): 16%. (8) Other liabilities up to three-year maturity (including three years): 11%. (9) Other liabilities up to five-year maturity (including five years):

		7%. (10) Other liabilities longer than five-year maturity: 5%. Effective April 29, 2022 (with the maintenance period starting on May 13, 2022), RRRs of financing companies, which were 0% since June 14, 2019, have been set at the same level as banks for TL, while the foreign exchange RR ratio has been determined as 3% until the 2022 year end. As stated in the "Monetary and Exchange Rate Policy for 2022," the costs of foreign currency liabilities will be increased while mechanisms to promote TL deposits will be prioritized. Effective May 27, 2022 (with the maintenance period starting on June 10, 2022), it was decided to differentiate foreign exchange deposit RRRs according to the conversion rate of real person's foreign exchange deposits to TL deposits, and accordingly, it was decided to implement additional RRR of: - 500 bps for banks with a conversion rate below 5%, and - 300 bps for banks with a conversion rate between 5% and 10%. Effective January 15, 2023, it has been decided to set RRRs at 0% for the increase in foreign exchange liabilities with maturities longer than 6 months provided directly from abroad until the end of 2023. Effective April 28, 2023 (with the maintenance period starting on May 12, 2023), instead of RRR based on conversion rate, 500 bp was added to the RRR for the foreign currency liabilities of the banks whose Turkish lira share is below 60%. The Turkish lira share target of 60% has been reduced to 57% effective from the calculation period of July 7, 2023. Effective August 18, 2023, as part of the simplification process, it has been decided to end the implementation of reserve requirement practice based on the TL (including foreign exchange-protected deposits) share. Effective September 29, 2023, calculation of the commission rates regarding RRs held for foreign exchange deposits has been revised and differentiated according to the transition from foreign exchange-protected accounts to TL accounts and the renewal of these accounts. The ROM facilities were gradually terminated (foreign exchange facility was terminated on October 1, 2021, and standard gold and scrap gold facilities were terminated effective June 23, 2023).
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	Foreign currency deposits/participation funds are treated as less stable deposits/participation funds and 10% runoff rate is applied to foreign exchange retail deposits, whereas 5% runoff rate is applied to national currency deposits. This implementation is in compliance with Basel III LCR Framework. The two LCRs deposit and participation banks must maintain such that the total LCR must be 100% and foreign exchange LCR must be 80%. Effective June 24, 2022 (with the maintenance period starting on July 29, 2022), banks will maintain additional TL long-term fixed-rate securities for foreign exchange deposits/participation funds Current securities maintenance ratio is 5%.

Abroad by banks	Yes.	The opening of branches or representative offices, establishment of companies, and participation in existing companies abroad by banks founded in Türkiye are subject to BRSA approval, on the condition of compliance with the corporate governance and protective provisions set forth in the Banking Law and the principles established by the BRSA.
In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Acquisition of shares that results in one person directly or indirectly owning shares representing 10% or more of the capital of a bank; acquisition of shares that results in one person owning capital shares exceeding 10%, 20%, 33%, or 50% of the capital of a bank; and transfers of shares that result in one person's capital shares falling below these limits are subject to BRSA approval. Transactions that result in a reduction in the number of shareholders to fewer than five, or in shares being assigned without permission, may not be registered. These rules apply to the acquisition of voting rights and establishment of rights to usufruct in connection with shares. The assignment and transfer of preferential shares that confer the right to promote a member to the board of directors or audit committee or issue new shares require BRSA approval, regardless of the above limits. In the application of these regulations, there is no distinction between residents and nonresidents.
Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	The BRSA regulates, supervises, and monitors all banks' open foreign exchange positions. All foreign-exchange-indexed assets and liabilities must be accounted for fully as foreign assets and foreign liabilities. Banks are required to maintain a balance in their foreign exchange assets and liabilities and maintain foreign exchange positions that are in line with their own funds. The absolute value of the weekly arithmetic mean of daily ratios between net foreign exchange positions and own funds must be no greater than 20%. If the maximum is exceeded, banks must inform the BRSA. The weekly excess must be eliminated within two weeks. The weekly excess may not exceed more than six times in a calendar year, even if it is eliminated. This ratio is also calculated on consolidated basis since 2006 and it is calculated using consolidated own fund calculation periods. Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange

Reserve requirements	04/29/2022	Reserve requirement ratios of financing companies, which were 0% since June 14, 2019, have been set at the same level as banks for Turkish lira, while the foreign exchange reserve ratio has been determined as 3% until the 2022 year-end (with the maintenance period starting on May 13, 2022).
	05/27/2022	It was decided to differentiate foreign exchange deposit reserve requirement ratios (RRRs) according to the conversion rate of real person's foreign exchange deposits to Turkish lira deposits, and accordingly, it was decided to implement additional RRR of: - 500 basis points (bps) for banks with a conversion rate below 5%, and - 300 bps for banks with a conversion rate between 5% and 10% (with the maintenance period starting on June 10, 2022).
	01/15/2023	It has been decided to set reserve requirement ratios at 0% for the increase in foreign exchange liabilities with maturities longer than 6 months provided directly from abroad until the end of 2023.
	04/28/2023	With the maintenance period starting on May 12, 2023, instead of Reserve Requirement Ratio (RRR) based on conversion rate, 500 bp was added to the RRR for the foreign currency liabilities of the banks whose Turkish lira share is below 60%.
	06/23/2023	The standard gold and scrap gold ROM facilities were terminated.

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution

	07/07/2023	The Turkish lira share target of 60% has been reduced to 57%.
	08/18/2023	As part of the simplification process, it has been decided to end the implementation of reserve requirement practice based on the Turkish lira (including foreign exchange-protected deposits) share.
	08/18/2023	With the maintenance period starting on September 1, 2023, the Reserve Requirement Ratio for foreign exchange deposit/participation funds with a maturity of up to 1 month has been increased by 400 bps to 29%.
	09/29/2023	Calculation of the commission rates regarding Reserve Requirements held for foreign exchange deposits has been revised and differentiated according to the transition from foreign exchange-protected accounts to Turkish lira accounts and the renewal of these accounts.
Liquid asset requirements	06/24/2022	Banks will maintain additional Turkish lira long-term fixed-rate securities for foreign exchange deposits/participation funds (with the maintenance period starting on July 29, 2022).

Floating	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is free floating. The authorities intervene in Uganda's foreign exchange market when short-term fluctuations jeopardize its orderly operation. The Bank of Uganda (BOU) intervenes in the interbank foreign exchange market (IFEM) at the banks' quoted rates using the best bid-ask principle.

		The BOU publishes information on its interventions in its bimonthly, quarterly state of the economy, and annual reports. The information includes amounts purchased and sold through the reserve buildup program, interventions, and targeted transactions. The data are made available in the Monetary Policy Report two weeks following the MPC Meeting. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is floating.
Free floating
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The daily official exchange rate is calculated as the midrate computed from the simple average interbank quotes of exchange rates for purchases and sales of foreign exchange. The average rate for the previous month is used by the customs authority for tax computation on imports. The BOU's foreign exchange transactions with government (ministries, departments, and agencies) are conducted at the day's opening spot rates.

Core inflation	Yes.	Inflation target is expressed as average annual core inflation. Core inflation excludes energy, fuel, and utilities and food crops.
Target horizon	Yes.	The target horizon stands at 1–3 years.
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	The policy rate used by the CB is the Central Bank Rate (CBR). The short-term policy rate that is guided by the CBR is the seven-day interest rate. In October 2022, the BOU raised the CBR to 10% in response to the rising inflationary pressures.
Target corridor band	Yes.	The monetary policy framework uses the BOU interest rate (called the CBR) as a signaling device of the monetary policy stance to meet the inflation target. The CBR guides the seven-day interbank money market rate, which is the operational target of monetary policy. The seven-day interbank money market rate can fluctuate within a band of ±2 percentage points around the CBR without the BOU intervention. The CBR as of December 31, 2022, was 10. The rediscount rate is set as the CBR plus a margin of 3 percentage points, and the Bank Rate (the rate at which commercial banks borrow from the BOU through the Lombard window) at a margin of 4 percentage points on the CBR.
Other	n.a.
Accountability	Yes.
Open letter	No.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	The BOU is statutorily expected to appear before parliament to answer queries that may arise from the Auditor General's report. The frequency of these hearings depends on whether there are any issues raised by the Auditor General.
Other	Yes.	Inflation forecasts and explanation of any deviations from the previous forecasts are published.
Transparency	Yes.
Publication of votes	No.	No information on votes of individual members or total number of votes in favor or against the decision is published.
Publication of minutes	No.	The minutes of the meetings of the MPC are not published.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	Every two months, inflation forecasts are published in the MPC Statement and Reports that follow the MPC meetings.
Other monetary framework
Exchange tax	No.
Exchange subsidy	No.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus are free to set exchange rates and commissions in transactions with their clients.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	The BOU is authorized to grant licenses to deal in foreign exchange. ADs include commercial banks and foreign exchange bureaus. ADs may freely determine their bid-ask spreads and foreign exchange commissions in transactions in the retail market with their clients. However, ADs that participate in the wholesale market (IFEM) must maintain a 10 shilling spread on the bid-ask quotes they post on the Reuters Dealing System. Foreign exchange bureaus may operate if they are licensed by the BOU and adhere to the Foreign Exchange Act (FEA) and regulations. There were 236 authorized foreign exchange bureaus as of December 31, 2022, which engaged in transactions with commercial banks and the public, but not with the BOU. There are no restrictions on foreign exchange bureaus' accounts abroad, although their operations are limited to spot transactions and OTC purchases and sales of foreign currency. There are special licenses permitting foreign exchange bureaus to transfer or receive funds to or from abroad on behalf of their clients, which they must perform through international money transfer agencies or domestic banks, with which they must maintain an account for clients' funds. As of December 31, 2022, there were 92 money remitters.

Operated by the central bank	Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.
Allocation	No.
Auction	Yes.	The BOU occasionally intervenes in the interbank foreign exchange rate market to stem volatility. It also conducts opportunistic purchases of US dollars to build up reserves. These interventions take place through auctions conducted using the Reuters Dealing System. Participation in the IFEM is restricted to Tier 1 financial institutions. The BOU Act 2000, Section 19, authorizes the auctioning of foreign currency and states that "the bank may buy and sell foreign currency at rates determined by market conditions and on terms that may be determined by the Board." Since August 2010, the BOU has been conducting opportunistic purchases for reserve building through auctions on a daily basis depending on the prevailing IFEM conditions, as ensuring smooth and stable exchange rate movements takes precedence over reserve buildup. Interventions in the IFEM are only conducted when the market experiences high volatility of the shilling. Intervention amounts are not announced in advance. In conducting intervention, the banks that are hit on the Reuters Dealing System by the CB at their quoted rate are obligated to execute a transaction for a minimum of, effective September 12, 2022, US$500,000 (previously US$250,000). Participants are not required to use the acquired foreign currency for any specific purpose. Commercial banks that are members of the IFEM may participate. The intervention amounts are announced with a lag in the CB's Monetary Policy, State of the Economy, and Annual reports.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	In the IFEM, as of December 31, 2022, 23 banks (excluding the CB) traded among themselves. The BOU intervenes in the IFEM at the commercial banks' quoted rates, using the best bid-ask principle. Participants in the IFEM must maintain a 10 shilling spread on the bid-ask quotes they post on the Reuters Dealing System.

Regional arrangements	Yes.	Uganda remains a signatory to the East African Payment System master agreement, which it signed in 2011. The agreement allows the connection of the Real-Time Gross Settlement systems of the EAC partner states into a regional Real-Time Gross Settlement system. Uganda went live on the East African Payment System in November 2013 and four countries—namely Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania, and Uganda—are live on the system. Currently, tests are being carried out with Burundi. Uganda is also a signatory to the COMESA Regional Payment and Settlement System (REPSS) agreement, which allows member countries to directly transfer funds within the region, through member countries' CBs, the settlement bank (Bank of Mauritius), and the COMESA Clearing House. The system went live in Uganda on February 28, 2014, and is currently operational in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Egypt, Eswatini, Kenya, Malawi, Mauritius, Rwanda, Uganda, and Zambia.
Clearing agreements	Yes.	The REPSS is an electronic platform that facilitates cross-border payments within COMESA. The REPSS operates through the COMESA Clearing House, located in Harare, Zimbabwe, and through the Bank of Mauritius, which serves as the Settlement Bank. Payments are settled in convertible currencies, namely US dollars and euros.

On domestic ownership and/or trade	Yes.	Residents may hold and acquire gold coins for numismatic purposes. Only monetary authorities and licensed dealers are allowed to hold or acquire gold in any form other than jewelry.
On external trade	Yes.	Dealing in gold in any form other than jewelry constituting the personal effects of a traveler requires a license issued by the Ministry of Energy and Mineral Development. On the basis of these licenses, the Ministry of Trade, Industry, and Cooperatives issues export and import permits.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	No.	No monetary limits apply to exports of cash by residents or nonresidents. Section 8 of the FEA (2004) states that "the Bank of Uganda may, by regulations, impose restrictions on the importation into or exportation from Uganda of banknotes, coins, traveler's checks, and securities denominated in the currency of Uganda and in foreign currency."
Foreign currency	Yes.	No monetary limits apply to exports of cash by residents or nonresidents. Section 9.2 of the FEA (2004) states that "all payments in foreign currency, to or from Uganda, between residents and non-residents, or between nonresidents, shall be made through a bank." Section 9.3 of the FEA (2004) states that "every transfer of foreign exchange to or from Uganda shall be through a person licensed to carry out the business of money transfers."
On imports	Yes.
Domestic currency	No.	No monetary limits apply to imports of cash by residents or nonresidents. Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the First Review under the Stand-By Arrangement, Requests for Extension and Rephasing of Access of the Arrangement, Waivers of Nonobservance of a Performance Criterion, Financing Assurances Review, and Monetary Policy Consultation with Ukraine states that, as of November 8, 2021, Ukraine continues to maintain one exchange restriction and two MCPs, but a roadmap is in place to gradually phase them out. The exchange restriction arises from limits on the availability of foreign exchange for certain non-trade current international transactions (the limit on individuals' and corporates' investments abroad may capture some current transactions). The MCPs arise from: (1) the use of multiple price foreign exchange auctions conducted by the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) without a mechanism to prevent a spread deviation of more than 2% between the auction and market exchange rates and (2) the use of the official exchange rate for exchange transactions with the government without a mechanism to prevent a spread deviation of more than 2% between the official exchange rate and market exchange rates. (Country Report No. 21/250)
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Restrictions established by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine in accordance with UNSC resolutions remain in place for certain transactions with the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the Democratic Republic of Somalia, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Guinea-Bissau, Lebanon, and South Sudan. Restrictions with respect to the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, the Taliban, and Al-Qaida remain in place. Following the entry into force of the Law of Ukraine No.1644-VII of August 14, 2014, On Sanctions, sanctions are introduced by decision of the Ukraine National Security and Defense Council, and in particular with respect to Iran: Ukraine National Security and Defense Council Decisions of May 20, 2016, on Implementation of UNSC Resolution No. 2231 of July 20, 2015, Concerning the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action with Respect to Sectoral Sanctions (introduced by Decree No. 254/2016 of the President of Ukraine of June 15, 2016, and approved by Ukraine Supreme Council Resolution No. 1471-VIII of July 14, 2016), and on Implementation of UNSC Resolution No. 2231 of July 20, 2015, Concerning the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action with Respect to Personal Sanctions (introduced by Decree No. 254/2016 of the President of Ukraine of June 15, 2016).

		Restrictions also apply to certain transactions with Nicaragua from February 1, 2021, and with Mali and Yemen, effective February 19, 2021. On October 28, 2021, new restrictions were introduced against Yemen. Effective February 24, 2022, under a state of martial law pursuant to Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, the performance of transactions by servicing banks involving the transfer of funds from accounts of residents of Russia/the Republic of Belarus (with the exception of standalone transactions within Ukraine) has been halted for accounts of legal entities (other than banks) whose ultimate beneficiary owners are residents of Russia/the Republic of Belarus (excepting standalone transactions within Ukraine). In addition, authorized institutions are prohibited from performing any exchange transactions: (1) using Russian rubles/Belarusian rubles; (2) in which one of the participants is a legal entity or individual whose location (of registration or permanent residence) is in Russia/the Republic of Belarus; (3) to fulfill obligations to legal entities or individuals whose location (of registration or permanent residence) is in Russia/the Republic of Belarus. Effective February 22, 2023, sectoral sanctions were imposed on financial institutions of Russia as mandated by the decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine dated February 22, 2023, and enacted by Presidential Decree No. 82/2023 of February 22, 2023. Also, effective May 27, 2023, by decision of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine of May 27, 2023, sectoral sanctions were imposed on the Islamic Republic of Iran (as enacted by Presidential Decree No. 308/2023 of May 27, 2023).

Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange arrangement is classified as floating. The NBU may use foreign currency interventions for the purpose of accumulating international reserves, smoothing out the functioning of the foreign exchange market, and maintaining the transmission of the key interest rate as the main monetary policy instrument. The NBU publishes data on foreign exchange interventions for the current week on its website every Friday in the end of the day. Namely, weekly amounts of purchases and sales by types of interventions are published. The official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies is established, and the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and the accounting prices of bank metals is calculated every business day in accordance with the Regulation on the establishment of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies and on the calculation of the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and of the accounting prices of bank metals, as approved by the Resolution No. 148 of the Board of the NBU of December 10, 2019 (as amended). The NBU suspended the floating exchange rate regime after the start of Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine and introduced a number of temporary administrative restrictions on foreign exchange transactions and cross-border capital flows. Since February 24, 2022, the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar has been fixed with a one-time realignment on July 21, 2022. Since the beginning of the war, the fixed exchange rate and foreign exchange market interventions have become key instruments of the National Bank to ensure macro-financial stability. In the period between February 24, 2022, and March 20, 2022, the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and the SDRs, as well as the accounting prices of bank metals were fixed as of February 24, 2022. Since March 21, 2022, the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and the accounting prices of bank metals were established in accordance with the procedure that was in effect before the introduction of martial law, that is based on the official exchange rates of the hryvnia against the US dollar and Bloomberg FX Fixing quotations. In 2022, the net foreign exchange sales by the NBU amounted to US$25.0 billion. In 2023 (as of October 17, 2023), the balance of the NBU's foreign exchange interventions was negative and constituted US$21.1 billion. Since February 2022, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar with one realignment in July 2022. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to stabilized from floating, effective February 23, 2022.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	In the period of martial law, the reduced effectiveness of market instruments and high uncertainty in the conditions of the full-scale war make it impossible to implement monetary policy in the format of inflation targeting with a floating exchange rate. Effective February 24, 2022, the hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar was fixed at the level of 29.2549 hryvnia per US dollar. In the period between February 24, 2022, and March 20, 2022, the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and the SDRs, as well as the accounting prices of bank metals were fixed as of February 24, 2022. Effective March 21, 2022, the official exchange rates of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and SDR have been set, and the accounting prices of bank metals have been calculated in accordance with the procedure that was in effect before the introduction of martial law, that is based on the official exchange rates of the hryvnia against the US dollar and Bloomberg fixing quotations in accordance with the Regulation on the setting of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies and on the calculation of the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and of the accounting prices of bank metals, as approved by the Resolution No. 148 of the Board of the NBU of December 10, 2019 (as amended). Effective July 21, 2022, the NBU set and fixed the hryvnia exchange rate at the level of 36.5686 hryvnia per the US dollar. On October 3, 2023, the NBU transitioned to a managed floating exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which meant eliminating the provision whereby the exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar was set and fixed and resuming the establishment of the exchange rate in the manner that was practiced before the beginning of the large-scale invasion. Effective October 3, 2023, the NBU has re-introduced the methodology of calculating the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which was in effect before the full-scale invasion. Official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies is set, and the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and the accounting prices of bank metals calculated every business day in accordance with the Regulation on the setting of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies and on the calculation of the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and of the accounting prices of bank metals, as approved by the Resolution No. 148 of the Board of the NBU of December 10, 2019 (as amended). Effective January 4, 2022, the calculation of the official UAH/USD exchange rate takes into account all “tod”, “tom”, and spot deals on the purchase/sale of US dollars in a volume from US$100,000 through US$5 million that were conducted on the Ukrainian foreign exchange market by banks with other banks and with the NBU on the day of calculating the official exchange rate, and which were reported to the NBU via the Bloomberg trading and information system through relevant data channels by 3:00 p.m. The information on the official hryvnia exchange rate against foreign currencies and the calculated accounting prices for investment metals are published on the NBU's official website no later than 3:30 p.m. on the day of setting/calculation and is sent to subscribers of the NBU's email service.

The calculation methodology provides for a three-stage cut-off system for transactions with extreme parameters.

Previously, the official hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar was calculated based on information about all transactions involving the purchase and sale of US dollars on "tod," "tom," and "spot" terms, which on the day of calculation of the official exchange rate took place in the interbank currency market of Ukraine between banks and between banks and the NBU, and information whereof was provided by the NBU trading information systems until 3:30 p.m. of the current business day.

The method of calculation provided a two-stage system for cutting off transactions with extreme parameters. The method had been in place since August 1, 2018, at the NBU.

The official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies and bank metals is used by residents and nonresidents for recording transactions with foreign currencies and bank metals in their accounting records, and in other cases as envisaged by the legislation of Ukraine, and for foreign exchange transactions of the NBU with the State Treasury Service of Ukraine.

Monetary policy framework

Exchange rate anchor	Yes.
U.S. dollar	Yes.	Since August 2015, the NBU has conducted its monetary policy based on the inflation-targeting framework. Monetary Policy Strategy of the NBU confirms a consistent commitment to the inflation-targeting regime and a constant inflation target of 5% ±1 percentage point and the principles of monetary policy. Despite the full-scale war, the NBU remains committed to its mandate to ensure price and financial stability, which are the keys to achieving sustainable economic growth. At the same time, the lower effectiveness of market instruments and high uncertainty have rendered it temporarily impossible to conduct monetary policy in the conventional inflation targeting framework. The approaches to fulfilling the NBU's priority functions, as well as the objectives and principles of monetary policy, have had to be changed, and these changes were set forth in the Monetary Policy Guidelines for the Duration of Martial Law. Effective February 24, 2022, the NBU fixed the USD/UAH exchange rate to preserve macroeconomic stability in Ukraine, curb the panic and prevent uncontrolled inflationary spiral. Amid high uncertainty caused by the war, the fixed exchange rate acted as the main anchor for stabilizing expectations and the key tool for achieving the NBU's goals. Maintaining exchange rate sustainability is the key stabilization measure to ensure steady disinflation and support the adaptation of the economy to the conditions of full-scale war. Not only does it have a direct restraining effect on the growth in the cost of goods and services, it also eases underlying price pressures through its positive influence on expectations.

Among other things, foreign exchange market sustainability is supported by the NBU's active foreign exchange interventions, the calibration of a number of administrative restrictions (in particular, restrictions on foreign exchange transactions and capital movement), ceasing monetary financing, and ensuring that hryvnia assets are attractive.

The NBU will return to the usual principles of inflation targeting with a floating exchange rate as conditions permit. This commitment is formalized in the Monetary Policy Guidelines for the Duration of Martial Law (adopted by the NBU Council on April 15, 2022). Returning to inflation targeting is the ultimate goal of the implementation of Strategy for Easing Foreign Exchange Restrictions, Transition to Greater Exchange Rate Flexibility, and Return to Inflation Targeting.

(2) with other banks and bank customers (including international financial institutions [IFIs])—with foreign currency and bank metals.

Banks are prohibited from performing swap transactions with customers:

(1) who are residents, other than individuals, if the first part of the transaction involves the sale of foreign currency/bank metals to the customer;

(2) who are nonresidents, if the first part of the transaction involves the purchase of foreign currency/bank metals from the customer.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on forward terms (with or without the delivery of the underlying asset) in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine with other banks and bank customers.

The central counterparty conducts currency swap transactions with banks.

Bank customers, with the exception of individuals, may perform foreign exchange transactions involving the purchase of foreign currency from banks and may perform forward foreign exchange transactions:

(1) for the hedging of risk associated with a change in the exchange rate of foreign currency against the hryvnia in transactions:

(a) involving exports/imports of goods;

(b) of resident borrowers under credit agreements (loan agreements) for the attraction of funds from nonresidents or banks;

Banks may perform forward foreign exchange transactions with individuals without restriction.

Banks may perform foreign exchange transactions based on a banking license issued by the NBU in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on Banks and Banking.

Banks may perform their own transactions involving trade in foreign currency/bank metals within the open foreign exchange position limits established by the NBU.

Banks may perform transactions with customers involving the purchase, sale, and exchange of foreign currency/bank metals at the exchange rate specified in the request or instruction to perform such a transaction.

Banks may receive commission fees for transactions performed on behalf of customers, which must be paid exclusively in the domestic currency of Ukraine.
Banks may use both the transaction confirmation system (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm interbank transactions involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the currency market of Ukraine.

At the same time, banks may conclude deals at any time, regardless of the time set for the transaction confirmation system.

Banks confirm transactions with the NBU involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency through the transaction confirmation system if the NBU uses this system for the confirmation of transactions.

The transaction confirmation system operates on business days (Monday through Friday) from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Kyiv time.

Banks may engage in trading in foreign currency/bank metals regardless of the operating hours of the transaction confirmation system.

Beginning February 24, 2022, banks are prohibited from conducting transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), excepting certain transactions, a list of which has been established by Resolution No. 18 (the list is not exhaustive and is reviewed based on the current situation on the exchange market and the state's needs during a state of martial law). Because of Russia's military aggression against Ukraine, all exchange transactions are being conducted in consideration of the limitations established in NBU Resolution No. 18, dated February 24, 2022.

The NBU suspended the floating exchange rate regime following the start of the Russian invasion. Effective February 24, 2022, the hryvnia was pegged to the US dollar as at UAH 29.2549 to the US dollar.

Effective July 21, 2022, the NBU set and fixed the exchange rate of the hryvnia to the USD at 36.5686 hryvnias to the US dollar.

Effective October 3, 2023, a managed floating exchange rate regime was introduced. Correspondingly, the exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar was resumed to be set in the manner that had been practiced before the large-scale invasion.

Effective May 21, 2022, the NBU lifted restrictions on the exchange rate at which market participants were selling cash foreign exchange to their customers (between April 14, 2022, and May 20, 2022, these transactions were allowed to use a rate that could not deviate by more than 10% from the official rate of the NBU, effective on the day of a transaction).

Since August 6, 2022, the NBU has removed restrictions on the rate at which market participants were buying cash foreign exchange from their customers (between April 14, 2022 and August 5, 2022, these operations were allowed to be carried out at a rate that was not lower than the official rate of the NBU in force on the day of the transaction, while in the period from March 1, 2022 to April 13, 2022, cash foreign exchange was bought from customers at the official rate of the NBU in force on the day of the transaction). The exchange rate restriction for transactions with electronic payment instruments was also removed, and issuing banks for debiting/crediting from/to the customer's account for transactions made with the use of electronic payment instruments, if the currency in which the interbank transfer is made does not coincide with the currency of the customer's account, use such an exchange rate of the hryvnia against a foreign currency that is set by the issuing bank and effective on the day of transaction recording by the bank. Effective February 24, 2022, banks' operations were pegged to the official rate of the NBU in effect on the day of a transaction. Effective March 1, 2022, banks' operations were conducted at a rate that could deviate by no more than 1% from the official rate of the NBU as in effect on the day of the transaction. Effective October 3, 2023, the NBU abolished the pegging of the hryvnia exchange rate on banks' operations to the official hryvnia exchange rate for non-cash foreign currency purchase and sale operations by banks (including on instructions of their clients). Banks can buy and sell non-cash foreign exchange (including on instructions of their clients) at the rate set by the bank on the date of the transaction. The NBU has established a procedure for banking system operations during the period of martial law for the purpose of ensuring reliability and stability in banking system functions, effective February 24, 2022. The NBU also determined the procedure for maintaining the Register of currency exchange offices. The NBU has established regulation for the purpose of determining aspects of the functioning of the money and exchange markets during the period of martial law, assisting in increasing the volumes of transactions with sovereign bonds of Ukraine. Before October 2022, the NBU Resolution No. 26 on Approval of the Regulation on Procedure of Licensing Currency Valuables dated March 26, 2021, was in force. This Regulation was repealed by NBU Board Resolution No. 216 effective October 7, 2022, amending NBU Board Resolution No. 153 on Approval of the Regulation on the Licensing and Registration of Financial Service Providers and Requirements for Providing Financial Services dated December 24, 2021. These amendments were intended to unify approaches to licensing financial service providers, financial payment service providers, and providers of limited payment services. Specifically, this regulation regulates the procedure for issuing a license to trade in currency valuables.

Spot exchange market	Yes.	Currency exchange transactions include: (1) the purchase of foreign currency cash from (resident and nonresident) individuals for cash hryvnias or noncash hryvnias with subsequent posting to these individuals' own current accounts; (2) the sale of foreign currency cash to (resident and nonresident) individuals for cash hryvnias or noncash hryvnias from these individuals' own current accounts; (3) the exchange of foreign currency cash of one country for foreign currency cash of another country for (resident and nonresident) individuals. These transactions may be performed by banks, nonbank financial institutions, postal service providers, and currency exchange offices of banks. Banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers may change the purchase and sale exchange rates for currency exchange transactions during the course of a business day. Nonbank financial institutions and their standalone divisions and currency exchange offices of banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers may begin operations following registration of an electronic cash register with the tax authorities.

As of October 24, 2023, a total of 30 nonbank financial organizations and the national postal service, Ukrpochta, may perform currency exchange operations (in their local branches, offices, and exchange points) and a total of 63 banks were entitled to conduct foreign currency exchange operations.

Effective February 24, 2022, banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers are permitted to perform only transactions that involve the purchase of foreign currency from clients (the sale of foreign currency in cash to clients is prohibited). Banks are prohibited from conducting transfers of individuals on current non-commercial transactions, other than the cases defined in Resolution No. 18 (this list is revised based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law conditions).

Effective April 14, 2022, banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers are also permitted to perform transactions involving the sale of foreign currency in cash to individual clients. Cash foreign exchange may only be sold within the amount that exceeds the total purchase of foreign exchange over the total sales of foreign exchange. The excess amount must be calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and for the following transaction/working days.

Effective July 27, 2022, the sale of foreign currency in cash to clients must be conducted within the limits of an amount defined as the sum of two components: the amount by which a purchase of foreign currency in cash exceeds the amount of its sale for all foreign currencies, calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and the subsequent transaction/working days, and 50% of the amount of a purchase of non-cash foreign currency from individuals for all currencies, calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and the subsequent transaction/working days. The total of these components is calculated in dollar equivalent. To convert it, one uses the official exchange rate of the hryvnia to the foreign currency, as set by the NBU as of the date of this calculation.

Effective September 6, 2022, banks are allowed to include in the calculation of the volume of sale of cash foreign exchange 100% of non-cash foreign exchange purchased from individuals in all foreign currencies, which is calculated starting from April 13, 2022, and over the subsequent banking/working days, and effective April 21, 2023, 120% of the volume of purchase of non-cash foreign exchange.

Effective September 16, 2023, banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators have also included in the calculation of the volume of sales of cash foreign exchange sales the balances of foreign exchange cash on hand at these institutions as of April 13, 2022.

Effective February 24, 2022, the NBU established exchange rate rules for the purchase and sale of cash foreign exchange.

Banks and nonbank financial institutions were buying cash foreign exchange from their customers at the official rate of the NBU in effect on the day of the transaction. Effective April 14, 2022, these operations were allowed to be carried out at a rate that was not lower than the official rate of the NBU in effect on the day of the transaction. Effective August 6, 2022, the NBU has removed restrictions on the rate at which banks and nonbank financial institutions were buying cash foreign exchange from their customers, and such transactions use an exchange rate in effect on the day of the transaction. Effective April 14, 2022, banks and nonbank financial institutions have been selling cash foreign exchange to their customers at a rate that cannot deviate by more than 10% from the official exchange rate of the NBU, which is in effect on the day of the transaction. Effective May 21, 2022, the NBU lifted restrictions on the rate at which banks and nonbank financial institutions are allowed to sell cash foreign exchange to their customers, and henceforth such transactions are carried out at the rate effective on the day of the transaction.

Operated by the central bank	Yes.	In June 2023, the National Bank approved and published a Strategy for easing foreign exchange restrictions, moving to greater exchange rate flexibility, and returning to inflation targeting (hereinafter referred to as the Strategy). The document was adopted in pursuance of Ukraine's commitments under the IMF's Extended Fund Facility program to gradually lift currency restrictions of the war period and move to a greater exchange rate flexibility. On October 2, 2023, the NBU announced transition to a managed floating exchange rate. Effective October 3, 2023, on business days from 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., the NBU has been transacting with banks on "tod" terms to buy and sell US dollars through the Refinitive and/or Bloomberg trading and information systems to fulfill the following tasks: (1) covering the structural component of net demand for foreign exchange in the currency market of Ukraine by selling (usually daily) US dollars in the amount that corresponds to the estimates of the NBU of the size of the above-mentioned structural component of net demand; (2) smoothing Ukraine's foreign exchange market operations by buying or selling US dollars in the event of abnormal changes in the quotations of the hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar and/or limited capacity of the foreign exchange market to balance and/or temporary loss of pricing benchmarks by the foreign exchange market. The said transactions will be conducted in the form of interventions at a single rate, interventions at the best rate and currency auctions. The NBU conducts daily operations with banks (on working days starting at 3:30 p.m.) to buy and sell US dollars on "tom" terms. The bank is entitled to participate in such operations on "tom" terms, as defined in paragraph 18 of the Resolution, only if such operations are carried out by the bank to meet the defense needs of Ukraine. Such operations must be carried out at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which is set on the day of the operation and will be valid on the next working day after the day of setting. The banks communicate to the NBU through the Refinitive and Bloomberg trading and information systems or by telephone (at the telephone numbers which the NBU informs the banks separately) the amount of US dollars to be sold or purchased on "tom" terms, which may not be less than US$100,000.

Effective February 24, 2022, because of the full-scale war of Russia against Ukraine and the introduction of martial law, the NBU temporarily changed its approaches to foreign exchange market interventions. The NBU carried out daily transactions with banks and IFIs to buy and sell US dollars, and until May 9, 2022, inclusive, also to buy and sell Euros. Such transactions were carried out without amount limitation on “tod” (from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.) and “tom” (after 3:00 p.m.) terms via Refinitive and Bloomberg systems, or over the phone on prepayment by the bank if Refinitive and Bloomberg were not available. The exchange rate for: (1) purchase of USD by the NBU from banks/IFIs was set at the official UAH/USD exchange rate on the day of the transaction; (2) sale of USD by the NBU to banks/IFIs was set at the official UAH/USD exchange rate on the day of the transaction, increased by 1% and rounded to the fourth decimal place.

Starting from February 24, 2022, with the imposition of martial law, until October 2, 2022, the NBU carried out only single-rate foreign exchange interventions, selling at the official exchange rate plus 1% and purchasing at the official exchange rate (paragraph 18 of Resolution No. 18 (from February 24, 2022, to October 2, 2022, inclusive). From October 20, 2022, the NBU has been purchasing and selling foreign currency to households at the official exchange rate to make deposits (paragraph 1218 of Resolution No. 18).

A bank is allowed to participate in transactions under the terms and conditions defined in paragraph 18 of Resolution No. 18 only if such transactions are carried out by the bank to meet the defense needs of Ukraine.

Banks are allowed to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the NBU, provided they comply with the net long open currency position over the preceding 10 days.

According to the Monetary Policy Guidelines, during martial law, the NBU will strive to restore the full operation of the foreign exchange market as soon as possible and return to the floating exchange rate regime, if this does not create threats to the stable functioning of the banking and/or financial system of the state. As soon as administrative restrictions are lifted and operations on the foreign exchange market revive, the National Bank will return to foreign exchange interventions taking into account the tasks and principles established in the Foreign Exchange Interventions Strategy of the NBU.

Effective May 10, 2022, the NBU stopped the daily purchase and sale of Euro with banks and IFIs and began conducting operation solely in US dollars.

		Ukraine, the NBU may conduct any interventions from its usual toolkit. The NBU may conduct currency interventions on the "tod", "tom", and spot terms. The NBU may conduct currency interventions on the swap terms only at a single rate. During the martial law, regulatory legal acts of the NBU may be in force to the extent not contradicting Resolution No. 18. Intervention at a single exchange rate takes place either (1) by collecting bids from market participants for the purchase/sale/exchange of foreign currency at a single exchange rate and their proportional fulfillment within the limits of the volume determined for currency intervention or (2) by placing an offer to buy/sell foreign currency at a single exchange rate in the trading information system (Bloomberg or Refinitiv) and accepting offers from market participants before the supply is exhausted. The NBU informs banks that a foreign currency auction is to be held by posting the information on the official website of the NBU, as well as by means of the trading information system, if the auction is held using this system. Conditions are specified by the NBU in the notification. The NBU informs banks participating in an auction of the cut-off exchange rate and the weighted-average exchange rate for the auction by posting the information on the official website of the NBU, as well as by means of the trading information system, if the auction is held using this system. An intervention using the best exchange rate is carried out either (1) by asking market participants for the price of purchase/sale of foreign currency through the trading information system and the transaction at the best offered price or (2) by choosing the best price for the purchase/sale of foreign currency from the quotes of market entities available in the trading information system and conducting a transaction with a market entity that offers this price. The list of banks entitled to participate in an intervention at the best exchange rate, which is carried out by requesting the banks' prices for the purchase/sale of foreign currency, includes 20 banks selected on the basis of a set of criteria such as the volume of interbank transactions, the volume of transactions with customers, and the size of bank assets. This list of banks was first published on October 31, 2016, and it is updated every quarter.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	The NBU engages in trading in foreign currency and/or bank metals for the purpose of performing the functions assigned to it by the legislation of Ukraine. The NBU may carry out currency interventions in the interbank currency market of Ukraine by holding currency auctions, interventions at a single rate, or interventions at the best rate. Banks perform their own transactions involving trade in foreign currency/bank metals within the open foreign exchange position limits established by the NBU.

		Banks perform transactions with customers involving the purchase, sale, and exchange of foreign currency/bank metals at the exchange rate specified in the request or instruction to perform such a transaction. Banks receive commissions for transactions performed on behalf of customers, which are paid exclusively in hryvnias. Banks may use both the transaction confirmation system (on a voluntary basis) and any other means acceptable to the parties to the transaction (for example, SWIFT) to confirm interbank transactions involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency in the currency market of Ukraine. Banks confirm transactions with the NBU involving the purchase/sale of foreign currency through the transaction confirmation system if the NBU uses this system for the confirmation of transactions. The transaction confirmation system operates on business days (Monday through Friday) from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. Kyiv time. Banks engage in trading in foreign currency/bank metals regardless of the operating hours of the transaction confirmation system. Effective February 24, 2022, banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), with the exception of certain transactions, a list of which is established in Resolution No. 18 (the list is revised based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements in conditions of martial law). Per Resolution No. 18, as of February 24, 2022, banks must perform transactions involving trade in foreign currency in accordance with the exchange-rate rules established by the NBU for exchange transactions (transactions involving the purchase and sale of cashless and cash foreign currency, for transactions with electronic means of payment).
Over the counter	Yes.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.	There are no market makers in the interbank foreign exchange market.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on swap terms in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine: (1) with the NBU, CCP—with foreign currency; (2) with other banks and bank customers (including IFIs—with foreign currency and bank metals. Banks are prohibited from performing swap transactions with customers: (1) who are residents (other than individuals), if the first part of the transaction involves the sale of foreign currency/bank metals to the customer; (2) who are nonresidents, if the first part of the transaction involves the purchase of foreign currency/bank metals from the customer.

Banks perform foreign exchange transactions on forward terms (with or without the delivery of the underlying asset) in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine with other banks and bank customers.

Bank customers may perform forward transactions:

(1) to hedge risk associated with a change in the exchange rate of foreign currency against the hryvnia in transactions;

(a) involving exports/imports of goods;

(b) of resident borrowers under credit agreements (loan agreements) for the attraction of funds from nonresidents or banks;

Banks perform forward foreign exchange transactions for individuals without restriction.

The new foreign exchange legislation does not prohibit the performance of transactions with other foreign currency derivatives, or transactions in foreign currency with other derivative financial instruments based on underlying assets in foreign currency, foreign currency exchange rates, interest rates, and indices.

Comprehensive regulation of transactions with derivatives is provided for in Law of Ukraine No. 738-IX of June 19, 2020, on Amendments to Certain Legislative Acts of Ukraine Concerning Simplification of the Attraction of Investments and the Introduction of New Financial Instruments.

Banks may perform transactions with derivatives both in the foreign exchange market of Ukraine and on stock exchanges.

On April 2, 2016, the Regulation on the Performance of Swap Transactions by the NBU for the Purchase and Sale of Foreign Currency (NBU Board Resolution No. 222 of March 31, 2016) entered into force. Currency swap transactions between the NBU and banks are performed with US dollars and euros. The NBU Executive Board determines the maximum term for which swap transactions may be performed. The NBU does not perform forward swap transactions for which the size of the haircut has not been approved.

Effective February 24, 2022, banks were prohibited from performing transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), with the exception of certain transactions, a list of which is established by Resolution No. 18 (the list is reviewed based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government’s needs during martial law).

Effective March 4, 2022, “swap” transactions were permitted with resident clients, if the first part of the transaction provides for a purchase of foreign currency from a resident client.

Effective March 21, 2022, transactions involving the purchase of foreign currency by clients on “forward” terms under forward contracts are permitted that were signed before February 23, 2022 (inclusive).

Effective April 4, 2022, “swap” transactions with clients were permitted under a foreign currency exchange for the group 1 Classifier. Effective April 30, 2022, banks are prohibited from entering into money market derivative contracts (other than swaps), on the basis of which the parties to such a contract incur an obligation to purchase or sell foreign currency/precious metals for hryvnias, as well as derivative money market contracts (other than swaps), the baseline for which is the exchange rate of the foreign currency to the hryvnia, the exchange rate (rates of several currencies) expressed in hryvnia, and the price of precious metals—in hryvnia. Effective June 15, 2022, banks are permitted to perform transactions on "swap" terms with a foreign bank/depository that has a securities account in the NBU, to purchase and sell foreign currency, if the first part of the transaction provides for the bank to sell foreign currency to a foreign bank/depositors that has a securities account in the NBU. Effective July 16, 2022, banks are permitted to transact on swap terms with a central counterparty, which has the right to provide CCP clearing services in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on Capital Markets and Regulated Commodity Markets, and has obtained a license from the NBU to perform settlements on currency swap transactions and settlements in foreign currency on transactions on bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency, as well as to carry out other currency transactions with securities.

Official cover of forward operations	No.	To prevent the spread of systemic risks resulting from market participants' foreign currency derivatives contracts, the NBU may adopt a decision regarding the date on which banks must create and hold reserves for forward transactions. Reserves must be held by banks in hryvnias in a correspondent account at the NBU in addition to their required reserves. The requirements of this provision do not extend to foreign currency forwards that are the second leg of foreign currency swaps.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements	Yes.
Controls on the use of domestic currency	Yes.	Payments to and receipts from all countries are settled in foreign currency and also in hryvnias.
For current transactions and payments	Yes.	Residents may conduct transactions in hryvnias with nonresidents through hryvnia correspondent accounts of nonresident banks with authorized Ukrainian banks for: (1) settlements between residents and nonresidents for exports and imports of goods (products, services, work, intellectual property rights, other non-property rights intended for sale/paid transfer); (2) transactions by residents with nonresidents under credit agreements/loan agreements related to the provision of funds (a credit/loan) by a nonresident to a resident borrower and/or the fulfillment of debt obligations to a nonresident for a credit/loan attracted by a resident borrower (repayment of a credit/loan, payment of interest, and other payments established under the relevant agreement); (3) transactions related to the performance of foreign investments in Ukraine and their return (including the return of profits, income, and other funds earned by foreign investors from investment activity in Ukraine). The regulatory legal acts of the NBU do not contain a ban on the recovery of foreign investment and the payment of dividends to a foreign investor by transferring funds in hryvnia by a resident legal entity to the account of a nonresident legal entity/investment account of a foreign investor opened with a Ukrainian bank. Such funds can currently be used by a foreign investor to make further investments in Ukraine;

(4) transfers of funds to accounts of foreign investors/nonresidents in Ukraine from a correspondent account with a Ukrainian bank held by a depository foreign bank that has a securities account at the NBU. Effective February 24, 2022, in accordance with Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, during martial law the transfer of funds in hryvnia-to-hryvnia correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in resident banks is prohibited, except for transactions on bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in national currency, where a party of such transaction is a nonresident bank (subparagraph 231 of paragraph 14 of Resolution No. 18);

(5) the posting of funds account holders receive from the sale of securities, ownership interest, or other assets in Ukraine that do not constitute foreign investment items in Ukraine for the owner of the account, as well as the receipt of income, profits, or other resources from such items;

(6) transactions involving guarantees/sureties provided by nonresident guarantors/sureties that ensure fulfillment of obligations of resident debtors to resident creditors;

(7) transactions involving guarantees/sureties provided by nonresident guarantors/sureties that ensure fulfillment of obligations of resident debtors to nonresident creditors (provided the obligation of the resident debtor that is backed by the guarantee/surety arises from contracts/transactions referred to under paragraphs 1–5 above);

(8) transactions involving guarantees provided by a resident guarantor (bank, nonbank financial institution) that ensure the fulfillment of obligations of resident debtors to nonresident creditors (provided the obligation of the resident debtor that is backed by the guarantee arises from contracts/transactions referred to under paragraphs 1–5 above);

(9) transactions related to the satisfaction of a nonresident's claims as a creditor through the sale of collateral for hryvnias or the payment of insurance compensation to a nonresident under insurance contracts within Ukraine if a resident debtor fails to fulfill its obligations under the relevant contract (provided the creditor's rights of claim with respect to the resident debtor's obligations arose from contracts/transactions referred to under paragraphs 1–5 above);

(10) transactions by the Personal Deposit Guarantee Fund, or authorized official of the Fund, related to the satisfaction of nonresident creditors' claims during the liquidation of a bank;

(11) transactions pursuant to a court ruling or a decision by other bodies (or officials) that is subject to enforcement;

(12) transactions related to the payment of taxes, levies, and other

mandatory fees according to the legislation of Ukraine and/or foreign states;

(13) transactions involving the transfer of funds from/to a nonresident bank's correspondent accounts at Ukrainian banks/the NBU;

(14) transactions involving the placement of deposits and the return of funds from such transactions, including interest on deposits and on balances of funds in the accounts;

(15) transactions involving the transfer of funds from/to correspondent accounts of other nonresident banks;

(16) transactions involving trade in foreign exchange assets;

(17) settlements under derivative contracts;

(18) transactions by a liquidator of a legal entity to satisfy claims of nonresident creditors during the liquidation of the given legal entity;

(19) transfers by a nonresident bank of funds to a current account opened for its representative office or branch in Ukraine;

(20) transactions between banks and nonresident legal entities under credit agreements and other types of agreements that stipulate for banks to provide nonresidents with hryvnias for the purchase by the nonresident of domestic government bonds of Ukraine, with the funds to be repaid to the bank no later than 14 business days from the day when hryvnias are provided;

(21) transactions involving the purchase/sale of domestic bonds, payment of income on them, and their redemption;

(22) transactions by nominal holders with securities in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on the Depository System of Ukraine;

(23) transactions involving the payment/receipt of a commission;

(24) transfers of funds from abroad to accounts of nonresidents in Ukraine;

(25) transfers of funds from accounts of nonresidents in Ukraine to nonresidents' accounts abroad;

Residents may conduct settlements with nonresidents on export and import transactions in hryvnias through hryvnia correspondent accounts of nonresident banks with authorized Ukrainian banks, provided they present to the servicing bank documents/information confirming the legality of the payment.

The bank servicing a resident must monitor compliance with the deadlines for settlements under export-import operations (timely receipt of export earnings for goods delivered or prepaid imported goods).

NBU Board Resolution No. 165, dated July 29, 2022, provides the particulars of regulation and supervision of activities involving trade in exchange assets in the form of cash during the period of martial law. End-user access to information, including the register of premises in which exchange transactions are carried out that involve the use of cash money in national and/or foreign currencies is regulated in accordance with Resolution No. 39, dated March 6, 2022, "Concerning Regulation of the Activities of Participants in the Nonbank Financial Services Market, Nonbank Financial Group, Payment Market Participants, Collection Agencies, and Legal Entities Possessing a License to Provide Banks with Cash Handling Services, During the Period of Martial Law in Ukraine." In accordance with Resolution of the NBU Board No. 18, effective February 24, 2022, "Regarding Banking System Functioning during Martial Law," a ban has been established on transborder transfers from Ukraine made by authorized institutions because of the imposition of martial law and on the transfer of funds to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnia/foreign currency, that have been opened in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform by order of their clients), other than transactions enacted separately (the list of transactions for which an exception from the ban on transfers is being reviewed based on the currency situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law).

For capital transactions	Yes.
Transactions in capital and money market instruments	Yes.	Effective July 14, 2022, central counterparty and banks are allowed to conduct cash leg settlement of transactions with domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine exclusively in the currency in which domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine are denominated. Previously, according to the currency law, the national currency of Ukraine, the hryvnia, could be used to settle transactions to purchase and sell domestic government debt securities denominated in both foreign currency and hryvnia.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	The Law of Ukraine on Capital Markets and Organized Commodity Markets regulates the conclusion and execution of derivative contracts, change of parties to derivative contracts and transactions with financial instruments in the capital markets. Pursuant to Resolution No. 18, effective April 30, 2022, banks are temporarily prohibited from entering into a number of money market derivative contracts (except for swaps), specifically: (1) contracts on the basis of which the parties to the contract have obligations to purchase or sell foreign currency or investment metals for hryvnia; (2) contracts based on the hryvnia exchange rate against foreign currencies, foreign currency index (exchange rates of several foreign currencies) denominated in hryvnia, and price of investment metals in hryvnia.
Credit operations	Yes.	Banks may grant loans to their resident clients in hryvnias and foreign currency (except consumer loans to individuals, who are granted loans only in hryvnias); nonresident banks and other nonresident legal entities may receive loans (the few allow currently) in foreign currency (loans in hryvnias—only where so provided); nonresident individuals may receive consumer loans in hryvnias. Residents (including banks and other financial institutions) are prohibited from issuing loans/providing financial assistance in hryvnia to nonresidents, except when: (1) a bank/nonbank financial institution issues consumer loan in hryvnia to nonresident individual; (2) a resident bank issues loan to a nonresident legal entity for the purposes of purchasing Ukrainian domestic government bonds by the nonresident with the loan maturity not later than 14 business days from the day of granting the hryvnia loan; (3) a credit (loan, financial aid) is transferred to an account of a foreign investor representative office under a production sharing agreement in the territory of Ukraine for the purposes of the production sharing agreement. It is prohibited to provide credit (loans) denominated in the currency of an occupying country (Russian rubles). Effective May 21, 2022, banks are prohibited from: - restructuring debt under credit agreements in a foreign currency, if such agreements were entered into by creditor banks with client borrowers (other than interbank loans) by replacing the currency used to fulfill the obligation under such a foreign currency bank loan with hryvnias (with the exception of isolated cases involving restructuring under consumer credit agreements as stipulated in Section IV, Item 7 of the Law of Ukraine "On Consumer Lending)"; - granting credit in hryvnias, to be used for a borrower client to pay off a bank loan in foreign currency.

Use of foreign exchange among residents	Yes.	The hryvnia is the sole legal tender in Ukraine, taking into account the special considerations established by the second part of Article 5 of the Law of Ukraine on Foreign Exchange and Foreign Exchange Operations (referred to hereinafter as the Law on Foreign Exchange). Foreign currency may be used by residents: (1) in the performance of operations by banks to provide banking and other financial services on the basis of a banking license; (2) in the performance of operations by nonbank financial institutions and postal service operators that have a license from the NBU to perform foreign exchange operations; (3) in the performance of operations involving the placement of, payment of monetary income on, and redemption of bonds and Treasury bills of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency, if so indicated in the securities prospectus (by the terms of their placement); (4) in the performance of operations involving the purchase/sale of government securities denominated in foreign currency, if the initiator or recipient of such a foreign exchange operation is a bank; (5) when performing transactions involving foreign investments, with the profits and income (including dividends) being returned to a foreign investor, and other funds that are received legally, as a result of foreign investment activities; (6) on other transactions as defined by the Customs Code of Ukraine and/or regulatory legal acts of the NBU. Regulation on transactions performed with exchange assets, approved by Resolution of the NBU Board No. 2, dated January 2, 2019, identified an additional number of transactions for which settlements may be conducted in foreign currency or in hryvnias within the territory of Ukraine; among others, such permitted transactions include:

- transactions performed by IFIs or on their behalf, if Ukraine is a member of such an IFI;

- transactions involving the sale of sovereign debt bonds of Ukraine, denominated in foreign currency, to residents by investment firms/nonbank financial institutions;

- transactions involving purchases by investment firms/nonbank financial institutions from residents (banks, investment firms, and individuals) of sovereign debt bonds nominated in foreign currency (without investment firms/nonbank financial institutions having the ability to purchase foreign currency by for purposes of performing settlements on such purchases from residents (other than banks));

- transactions of the central counterparty to sell bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency to investment firms (under contracts/deals/ transactions made in the own interest of investment firms and/or in the interest of their clients, who are residents, foreign investors, or nonresidents);

- transactions of the central counterparty to buy bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency from investment firms (under contracts/deals/transactions made in the own interest of investment firms and/or in the interest of their clients, who are banks, other investment firms, resident individuals, foreign investors, or nonresidents);

- transactions of the central counterparty to make and secure settlements for purchase or sale of bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency;

- transactions, where provided by international agreements of Ukraine;

- transactions performed by between a financial institution and the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine in the context of implementing an international agreement of Ukraine on credits/grants/loans.

Banks are prohibited from conducting settlements in foreign currency when buying government securities denominated in a foreign currency from residents (other than banks and individuals) (Regulation on Protective Measures and Identifying a Procedure for Performing Certain Transactions in Foreign Currency, approved by Resolution of the NBU Board No. 5, dated January 2, 2019, as amended).
Effective July 14, 2022, central counterparty and banks are allowed to conduct cash leg settlement of transactions with domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine exclusively in the currency in which domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine are denominated.

Effective February 24, 2022, banks are prohibited from issuing savings certificates denominated in a foreign currency.
In accordance with Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, effective February 28, 2023, residents have been allowed to transfer foreign exchange funds from within Ukraine and from abroad to a special fund-raising account of the NBU to support the Armed Forces of Ukraine and/or to the accounts of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, ministries and other public authorities of Ukraine, as well as to charities, the goals and activities of which are to consolidate the country's defense capability and mobilization readiness, and to support the Armed Forces of Ukraine and territorial defense forces.

Payments arrangements	Yes.
Bilateral payments arrangements	Yes.
Operative	No.
Inoperative	Yes.	There are arrangements with the Baltic countries, Russia, and the other FSU countries.
Regional arrangements	Yes.
Clearing agreements	No.
Barter agreements and open accounts	Yes.	Barter is one of the forms of trade of Ukrainian companies in their transactions, used largely with the Baltic countries, Russia, and other FSU countries. The use of barter in foreign trade transactions is prohibited for a group of goods determined by the Ukrainian Cabinet of Ministers.
Administration of control	Yes.	Foreign exchange supervision in Ukraine is administered by foreign exchange supervisory bodies and foreign exchange supervisory agents. According to the Law on Foreign Exchange, foreign exchange supervisory bodies are the NBU and the central executive branch authority responsible for the development and implementation of state tax policy. Authorized institutions (banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators that have obtained a license in accordance with the Law on Foreign Exchange) are foreign exchange supervisory agents that are accountable to the NBU. When foreign exchange transactions are performed, authorized institutions directly supervise compliance with the requirements of the foreign exchange legislation by residents (except for other authorized institutions) and nonresidents who are performing foreign exchange transactions through these authorized institutions. Foreign exchange supervision is not performed with regard to transactions involving exports and imports in an amount that is below the threshold established for financial transactions (stipulated in Article 20 of the Law of Ukraine on Preventing and Combating Money Laundering, the Financing of Terrorism, and the Financing of Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction (No. 361-IX, dated December 6, 2019). The procedure for the performance of foreign exchange supervision by foreign exchange supervisory agents is established by the NBU. Foreign exchange supervisory agents may request documents related to the performance of foreign exchange transactions from participants in foreign exchange transactions, and participants must provide such documents at the request of foreign exchange supervisory agents within the specified deadlines. In order for authorized institutions to prevent their customers from NBU on the day the transaction is performed. The above prohibition does not apply to: (1) interbank transactions and transactions involving the sale of precious metals by banks to enable resident customers to fulfill their obligations to the bank in bank metals under credit agreements; (2) transactions involving the purchase by legal entities/individual entrepreneurs of bank metals for noncash hryvnias on the condition that they need to do so as a result of their business activities. Effective February 24, 2022, banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving the purchase and sale of bank metals. Effective March 8, 2022, transactions involving the purchase of bank metals by customers were permitted, with physical delivery at branches and bank divisions located in territories that are under threat of occupation by an aggressor state/occupier state. Effective May 9, 2022, transactions involving the sale of bank metals to individual customers were permitted, with or without physical delivery. Effective August 20, 2022, customers are allowed to purchase bank metals with physical delivery in branches and offices of banks. Banks may sell bank metals with physical delivery to customers within the remaining stock of bank metals in the bank's vaults as of August 19, 2022. This remaining stock may be complemented by any excess of bank metals purchased and physically delivered over the volume of bank metals sold, for all bank metals with physical delivery, as calculated in troy ounces for each metal separately starting from August 19, 2022, and during the subsequent banking/working days. Effective December 13, 2022, the volume of bank metals that were purchased (paid for) prior to August 19, 2022, and entered in the books after that date may be added to the above-mentioned remaining stock.

On external trade	Yes.	Individuals/legal entities and banks must declare bank metals pursuant to a procedure established by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine. A legal entity may import or export bank metals into or beyond Ukraine without restrictions on the amounts, subject to a written declaration to the customs authority of the full amount, provided such import/export is necessitated by their business activities. A contract with a counterparty or equivalent document serves as the basis for a legal entity to import or export bank metals into or from Ukraine. A contract with a counterparty or a document serving in its place, or a contract for the delivery of bank metals to the NBU, serves as grounds for a legal entity to import bank metals (that were previously removed from the customs territory of Ukraine). Banks may perform the cross-border movement of bank metals on the basis of a banking license and relevant contracts with counterparties or a document serving in the place of such contracts. Legal entities/banks may export bank metals manufactured by Ukrainian producers with a written waiver from the NBU, declining to purchase such bank metals (produced by Ukrainian manufacturers) that are being exported. An individual may import into or export from Ukraine bank metals whose value does not exceed the equivalent of €10,000 without written declaration to the customs authority. An individual may import into or export from Ukraine bank metals whose value is equal to or greater than the equivalent of €10,000 with a written declaration of the full amount to the customs authority. The conversion of the value of bank metals to euros is performed at the cross-rate determined on the basis of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia to the corresponding currencies and bank metals established by the NBU on the day they cross the customs border of Ukraine, bank metals. Effective March 4, 2022, through March 12, 2022 (inclusively), because of the introduction of martial law in Ukraine, individual residents were allowed to move bank metals across the border without displaying confirmation documents.

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	Yes.	Individuals may import/export domestic currency cash in an amount that does not exceed the equivalent of €10,000 without written declaration to the customs authority. The conversion of the amount of cash to euros is performed at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia to the euro established by the NBU on the day the cash crosses the customs border of Ukraine. Exports of domestic currency by individuals in amounts equal to or greater than the equivalent of €10,000 require written declaration to the customs authority. When domestic currency cash is exported from Ukraine in an amount that exceeds the equivalent of €10,000, in addition to a written declaration to the customs authority, resident individuals must also present documents confirming the withdrawal of cash from their own bank accounts in the amount exceeding the equivalent of €10,000 on the day of exportation. Effective March 4, 2022, through March 13, 2022, individual residents were allowed to export domestic cash without submitting supporting documents. Legal entities (including banks) may export domestic currency cash from Ukraine through an authorized representative without restriction, subject to written declaration to the customs authority of the full amount, if such exportation is necessary for their business activities.
Foreign currency	Yes.	Individuals may export foreign currency cash in an amount that does not exceed the equivalent of €10,000 without written declaration to the customs authority. 		accounts for residents of Ukraine (legal entities, autonomous units thereof, autonomous units of nonresident legal entities doing business in Ukraine on behalf of a nonresident legal entity, sole proprietorships, independent professionals and private individuals), transaction accounts (for a nonbank provider of payment services, exclusively for purposes of ensuring the performance of payment transactions of their users) and correspondent accounts for other resident banks to carry out interbank payments. Banks may open accounts for their resident clients both in hryvnias and in foreign currencies. Effective August 1, 2022, the Law of Ukraine on Payment Services entitles nonbank payment service providers to open payment accounts to residents of Ukraine (legal entities, autonomous units thereof, autonomous units of nonresident legal entities doing business in Ukraine on behalf of a nonresident legal entity, sole proprietorships, and private individuals). Resident legal entities and sole proprietorships may freely open accounts in foreign currency with banks for the performance of settlements with respect to current transactions and transactions associated with capital flows, in accordance with Ukrainian law. Certain conditions apply to the use of these accounts, as specified in Resolution of the NBU Board No. 5, dated January 2, 2019. Time deposits may be paid back to the owner before the expiration of their term if so provided for in the time deposit agreement with the bank (amendment to the NBU Board Resolution No. 516 of December 3, 2003). By law (currently, pursuant to the Law of Ukraine “Securing the Rights and Freedoms of Citizens and Legal Order within the Temporarily Occupied Territory of Ukraine” from April 27, 2014):” - it is prohibited to attract deposits and/or issue loans (credit) denominated in the currency of the occupier state (Russian rubles); - it is prohibited to transfer funds between temporarily occupied territory and other areas of Ukraine. From February 24, 2022, through February 28, 2022, Resolution No. 18 established a ban on withdrawing foreign exchange cash from customer foreign exchange accounts in Ukraine. From March 1, 2022, such operations are allowed in an amount not exceeding the equivalent of UAH 30,000 a day, and from March 21, 2022, in an amount not exceeding the equivalent of UAH 100,000 a day (including cash withdrawn outside Ukraine).
Approval required	No.
Held abroad	Yes.
Approval required	Yes.	Residents may open accounts at foreign financial institutions and to perform foreign exchange transactions through these accounts. Residents must notify tax authorities of the use of their foreign currency accounts and provide statistical reporting to the NBU. When residents transfer foreign currency to their own accounts abroad, the transfer amount must not exceed the established annual limits (pursuant to Regulation No. 5, dated January 2, 2019).

		Resident legal entities may purchase and transfer foreign currency for placement in their accounts abroad in an amount not exceeding €2 million, or the equivalent in another currency, a year. This limit does not extend to banks' operations and transfers of funds by resident legal entities to accounts of their branch offices, representative offices, and other separate subdivisions without the creation of a legal entity, opened abroad, with the exception of those opened in states (territories) listed by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine as offshore zones and/or recognized by the Supreme Council of Ukraine as an aggressor or occupying state, and/or that do not comply with or do not comply properly with the recommendations of international or intergovernmental organizations involved in combating money laundering, terrorism financing, or financing of proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. From February 5, 2021, resident individuals may purchase and transfer foreign currency for placement in their accounts abroad in an amount not exceeding €200,000 a year or the equivalent in another currency. These limits do not extend to residents' placement in foreign accounts of foreign currency originating outside Ukraine; for example, funds received by residents outside Ukraine in the form of wages, stipends, pensions, child support, dividends, cash, etc., may be placed in foreign accounts without restriction. Banks must be prohibited from purchasing non-cash foreign currency on the instructions of resident clients for purposes of placing funds in deposit accounts in a bank, and/or an overseas account in a foreign financial institution. Because of the introduction of martial law through Regulation No. 18 of February 24, 2022, a ban was introduced effective February 24, 2022, on transborder transfers from Ukraine by authorized institutions, as well as funds transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnias or foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers conducted by authorized institutions under instructions from their clients), other than individual transactions (a list of transactions for which an exception is provided based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law). This ban extends to fund transfers from Ukraine for residents to replenish their own overseas accounts in foreign financial institutions.
Accounts in domestic currency held abroad	No.
Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency	Yes.	Foreign currency may be purchased if there are grounds/obligations supported by the relevant documents. These requirements do not apply to transactions involving individuals' purchase of small amounts of noncash foreign currency (see the definition under IV.E.1.). These transactions are performed without grounds/obligations. A bank performs such transactions (with the same individual on the same calendar day at the same bank) on the basis of a request or a remote instruction from a customer without the presentation of documents related to the performance of the foreign exchange transaction. Since July 20, 2021, residents (legal entities and individual entrepreneurs) are permitted to purchase noncash foreign currency as well and without having to indicate grounds/obligations that support the need to perform such a transaction (that is, without submitting documents to the servicing bank that confirm the need to purchase foreign currency for certain purposes, and accordingly, without indicating the reason for the purchase of the foreign currency): up to the daily limit of 100,000 euros (or the equivalent thereof) established for transactions by a single resident involving the purchase of foreign currency without grounds/obligations.

The provision requiring the sale of foreign currency by bank customers within 10 business days of the date it is posted to a current account if it is not used for needs indicated in the request to purchase the currency does not extend to individuals and the purchase of foreign currency up to the daily limit of €100,000 (or the equivalent at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the foreign currency set by the NBU).

The return of a time deposit prior to the expiration of the term established by the agreement is permitted if provided for under the bank time deposit agreement (Amendment to NBU Board Resolution No. 516 of December 3, 2003).

Pursuant to Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, under martial law conditions effective February 24, 2022, it is prohibited to perform transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), and/or to conduct transborder transfers from Ukraine, as well as funds transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnias or foreign currency that are held in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions carry out on instructions from their clients), other than standalone transactions. A separate list of transactions for which an exception from the ban has been made on trade in foreign currency, and a list of transactions for which an exception has been made from the ban on transfers from Ukraine, will be reviewed, based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law.

As of July 9, 2022, resident clients (legal entities) are required to use foreign currency purchased beginning July 11, 2022, following established procedure, within 2 days after it is credited to their current account for the needs noted in their request to purchase currency.

Effective August 29, 2023, banks have been authorized to sell to natural persons non-cash foreign exchange (without the need to confirm that such an operation is duly reasoned or obligated) in the amount not exceeding an equivalent of UAH 50,000 during a calendar month in one bank. The bank sells foreign exchange at the rate set by the bank on date of transaction. The foreign exchange purchased is credited by the bank to the current account of the natural person (the requirement of 2-day use of the foreign exchange purchased does not apply to such operations).

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.	Ukrainian banks may open deposit accounts, current accounts, and escrow accounts for nonresidents of Ukraine (legal entities, representative offices of such legal entities in Ukraine that are not doing business in Ukraine on behalf of a nonresident legal entity, official representations, international institutions and their autonomous offices that enjoy immunity and diplomatic privileges, as well as representative offices of other institutions located outside Ukraine that are established and operate under the laws of a foreign state and do not do business as defined by law, and private individuals), and correspondent accounts for other nonresident banks to carry out interbank payments. Banks may open accounts for their nonresident clients both in hryvnias and in foreign currencies.

Effective August 1, 2022, the Law of Ukraine on Payment Services has entitled nonbank payment service providers to open payment accounts for nonresidents of Ukraine (natural persons).

The procedure for the use of accounts by nonresidents is established by Regulation No. 5 of January 2, 2019 (in effect February 7, 2019).

Direct foreign investors may open nonresident corporate accounts, investment accounts, deposit accounts, and escrow accounts in Ukraine.

An investment account of a foreign investor in foreign currency may be used in accordance with Ukrainian law for:

(1) foreign investments in Ukraine and the return of foreign investments, income, profits, and other funds earned by the foreign investor from investment activity in Ukraine;

(2) trading in foreign currency;

(3) posting/transfer of funds from/to other accounts held by the foreign investor in Ukraine/abroad;

(4) posting of funds transferred by other nonresidents from abroad as authorized by the holder of the investment account for the performance of operations involving investment activity in Ukraine by the holder of the investment account;

(5) operations involving the posting of funds from a deposit account of another foreign investor opened at a bank in Ukraine, in connection with assignment to the holder of the investment account by the foreign investor of rights of claim under a bank deposit agreement with regard to the payment of a monetary sum (deposit) and interest earned on the deposit;

(6) posting of interest accrued on balances of funds on the foreign investor’s investment account;

(7) posting of funds mistakenly transferred from the account;

(8) settlements with customs authorities as specified by the legislation of Ukraine;

(9) the return of funds received in error.

The posting of foreign currency cash to investment accounts is not permitted.

There are no restrictions on the purchase and transfer abroad by residents, foreign investors, and nonresidents of foreign exchange for the return of foreign investments, income, profits, and other funds earned by a foreign investor from investment activity in Ukraine. Banks perform such operations, provided there is documentary confirmation that the return of funds is being performed in connection with foreign investment operations.

Accounts of permanent representative offices of foreign legal entities that conduct all or part of their business activities in Ukraine may be used to perform the following kinds of transactions:

(1) with cash and checks;

(2) trading in foreign currency;

(3) payment/return of funds for business travel abroad;

(4) posting of funds transferred from abroad in the name of the holder of the account through Ukrainian banks;

(5) posting of funds transferred within Ukraine in accordance with the legislation of Ukraine;

(6) posting of funds transferred within Ukraine from one's own current or deposit account/transfer of funds to one's own current or deposit account (including the posting of interest accrued on balances of funds on one's own current or deposit account);

(7) transfers in favor of a resident legal entity, if the payment of funds received from abroad specifies that these funds belong to the given resident in accordance with an agreement (contract, arrangement);

(8) transfers of funds to an account of a resident legal entity at a bank as a charitable donation;

(9) transfers of funds outside Ukraine to accounts of nonresident legal entities whose interests in Ukraine are represented by these permanent representative offices (also in the event such an account is being closed);

(10) posting of proceeds whose receipt is not in conflict with the legislation of Ukraine;

(11) transfers of funds to pay for participation in international symposiums, seminars, conferences, exhibitions, and athletic events.

During the period of martial law in Ukraine, because of Russia's military aggression against Ukraine, all exchange transactions must be carried out in consideration of the restrictions stipulated in NBU Board Resolution No. 18, dated February 24, 2022.
By law (currently, pursuant to the Law of Ukraine "Securing the Rights and Freedoms of Citizens and Legal Order within the Temporarily Occupied Territory of Ukraine" " from April 27, 2014):"
- it is prohibited within the territory of Ukraine to solicit deposits and/or provide loans (credit) denominated in the currency of the occupier state (Russian rubles);
- it is prohibited to transfer funds between the temporarily occupied territory of Ukraine and other areas of Ukraine.

Pursuant to Resolution No. 18, effective February 24, 2022, it is

		In accordance with Resolution of the NBU Board No. 18, effective February 24, 2022, under martial law it is prohibited to perform foreign currency trading transactions (including for clients), and/or perform transborder transfers from Ukraine, as well as money transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnia/foreign currency, that have been opened in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform by order of their clients), other than standalone transactions. Standalone transactions for which an exception from the ban on foreign currency trading is provided, and a list of transactions that qualify for an exception from the ban on transfers from Ukraine, will be reviewed based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's needs under martial law. As of March 4, 2022, a list of exceptions for transferring funds (other than Russian rubles/Belarusian rubles) was defined, to which the above ban does not apply (the list is not exhaustive and is reviewed based on the current situation).
Convertible into foreign currency	Yes.	The purchase of foreign currency from current accounts of permanent representative offices of foreign legal entities that do all or some of their business in Ukraine through these representative offices is performed for (1) transferring foreign currency to the account of the nonresident legal entity whose interests in Ukraine are represented by this representative office, within the limits of the balance of funds in the account; (2) the payment of expenses related to business travel outside Ukraine and operating expenses for vehicles traveling outside Ukraine; and (3) payment for participation in international symposiums, seminars, conferences, exhibitions, and athletic events. The purchase of foreign currency from current accounts of an official representative office and representative offices of nonresident legal entities that are not doing business is performed for the purposes of (1) transferring foreign currency to the account of the relevant bodies of a foreign state or to the account of the nonresident legal entity whose interests in Ukraine are represented by the given representative office; (2) the payment of expenses related to business travel outside Ukraine; and (3) the payment of wages to employees of official representative offices (including supplemental payments, allowances, bonuses, and other incentive and compensation payments) if the individuals are not Ukrainian citizens or are not permanent residents of Ukraine, are accredited by the Ukrainian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and work in Ukraine under valid employment agreements (contracts). Nonresident individuals may purchase foreign currency from hryvnia accounts within the limits of the balance of funds on these accounts (other than investment accounts) without providing to the bank documents related to the performance of a foreign exchange operation. In accordance with Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, under martial law, it is prohibited effective February 24, 2022, to trade in foreign exchange (including in the interest of clients) and/or conduct cross-border transfers from Ukraine, as well as transfer funds to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnia/foreign currency opened in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions carry out on behalf of their clients), except for individually designated transactions. A list of transactions to which the ban on foreign exchange trading does not apply, and a list of

Controls on credit operations	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Residents may extend commercial credit to nonresidents with a maturity of up to 365 days. The limitation is tied to the requirement to repatriate export proceeds and receive imports in compliance with the deadline for the performance of settlements established by the NBU (365 days) with regard to commodity export and import transactions after the date of delivery and payment, respectively. Effective April 5, 2022, the standards of Resolution No. 18, dated February 24, 2022, have reduced the time limits for settlements on transactions involving export/import of goods that are conducted beginning April 5, 2022:

		- a 90-day deadline was set for such transactions for the period from April 5, 2022, through June 7, 2022: Effective June 8, 2022, the deadline for the relevant transactions was increased to 120 calendar days: Effective July 9, 2022, the deadline for the relevant transactions was increased to 180 calendar days. For export-import transactions of goods that were performed before April 5, 2022, the deadline for settlements was not revised and comprises 365 calendar days.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Effective February 24, 2022, the NBU introduced temporary restrictions on transactions to pay for imported goods delivered before February 23, 2021 (that is, transactions to purchase and transfer foreign currency from Ukraine are banned). In terms of importing goods with the delivery after February 23, 2021, the purchase of foreign currency and transfer of funds from Ukraine are allowed for payment for goods specified in the Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine No. 153 on Certain Issues of Import Ensuring dated February 24, 2022.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Residents may not provide credits (loans, financial assistance) to nonresidents in hryvnias, with the exception of: (1) the granting of consumer credits to nonresident individuals by banks and nonbank financial institutions; (2) the granting of credits by banks to nonresidents for the purpose of the purchase by the nonresident of Ukrainian domestic government bonds, if the date for repayment to the bank of the given credit is more than 14 days from the date the credit is granted; (3) the granting of credits (loans, financial assistance) to the account of a representative office of a foreign investor under a production sharing agreement within the territory of Ukraine, which is done to meet the requirements of the production sharing agreement. Effective February 24, 2022, the standards of Regulation No. 18 have established a prohibition on transborder transfers from Ukraine/cash transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), which extends, among others, to residents' transactions involving provision of credit/loans to nonresidents (separate requirements are established for banks). Banks are prohibited from transferring funds from Ukraine for purposes of providing credit to nonresidents (except for foreign exchange loans to foreign financial institutions). Previously, banks could provide credits with no restrictions on the amount, while individuals and legal entities could provide loans within established limits.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Effective February 24, 2022, the standards of Regulation No. 18 have established a temporary prohibition on transborder money transfers from Ukraine/cash transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), other than standalone transactions. This prohibition on the transfer of cash from Ukraine extends, among others, to residents' transactions involving paying off credit/loans received from nonresidents (other than payoffs of loans by borrower banks in observance of the time limits established by lending agreements for such payments).

The temporary ban on funds transfers from Ukraine does not extend to individual cases, including transactions to fulfill resident obligations:
- that are guaranteed by the State of Ukraine;
- the creditors of which are IFIs of which Ukraine is a member, or IFIs under agreements with which Ukraine has obligated itself to ensure the legal regime that is granted to other international organizations;
- a bank's own transactions, including to pay off credit they have raised from nonresidents (but no earlier than the time limits set by the terms of the credit agreement).

Effective April 14, 2022, borrower banks have been prohibited from reducing the time limits for their fulfillment of debt obligations on credit and loans they had attracted under agreements with nonresidents (Resolution No. 18).

Later, the list of transactions permitted by Resolution No. 18 for the transfer of currency valuables from Ukraine was extended as follows:
- Effective June 16, 2023, transactions (except for early execution) of a resident borrower who is not a bank with a nonresident under a loan agreement if the loan under such an agreement (in whole or in part) is provided with the participation (by way of guarantee or surety) of IFIs or with the participation (by way of loan, insurance, guarantee, or surety) of a foreign export credit agency/foreign state through its authorized persons/foreign persons, whose participants (shareholders) include a foreign state or a foreign bank [provided a foreign state is a participant (shareholder) of this bank]. Effective October 7, 2023, funds may also be transferred from Ukraine for early fulfillment of obligations on those of these loans that are fully received and repaid after June 20, 2023;
- from June 21, 2023, transactions (except for early execution) of a resident borrower with a nonresident under a loan agreement concluded between them, whereby the provision/receipt of the total amount of the loan (including repayable financial assistance) is made only after June 20, 2023. The transfer of funds from Ukraine under such loans also requires compliance with separately established terms and conditions (the size of payouts should be limited at the maximum interest rate of 12% an annum; after June 20, 2023, funds under the loan agreement received from abroad must be credited to the current account of a resident borrower in a Ukrainian bank). For the purpose of transferring funds from Ukraine under such loan agreements, it is not allowed to buy foreign currency, as well as to use foreign currency, which is received as a loan from another resident (this restriction does not apply to loans with the maturity of more than 3 years. For such loans, it is allowed to buy foreign currency to transfer from Ukraine the amount of interest, and starting from the fourth year of the loan, foreign exchange can also be transferred to repay the principal of the loan).
- from September 16, 2023, transactions to fulfill the obligations of a resident borrower who is a state-owned enterprise or a company, 100% of shares (stocks) of which belong to the state, to a nonresident under a loan agreement between them, which were restructured on the terms agreed by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, as well as for making other payments related to servicing such restructured obligations. The standards of Regulation No. 18 of February 24, 2022, which prohibit transfers from Ukraine, do not apply to funds transfers within Ukraine that are performed between accounts of residents and nonresidents in Ukrainian banks on foreign exchange transactions, permitted pursuant to the rules of such accounts (account rules are established in Regulation No. 5 of January 2, 2019). Thus, resident borrowers may transfer funds (in foreign currency/UAH) to pay off credit/loans, they received from nonresidents to current accounts of nonresidents in banks within Ukraine.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to NBU Resolution No. 18, effective February 24, 2022, banks are temporarily prohibited from conducting settlements on documentary and reserve credits/guarantees/counter-guarantees that were opened (confirmed, issued) after February 24, 2022, unless otherwise agreed.

		currency from residents (other than banks, investment firms, central counterparty, and individuals) (Regulation on Protective Measures and Identifying a Procedure for Performing Certain Transactions in Foreign Currency, approved by Resolution of the NBU Board No. 5, dated January 2, 2019, as amended). Effective July 14, 2022, central counterparty and banks are allowed to conduct cash leg settlement of transactions with domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine exclusively in the currency in which domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine are denominated.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	In 2023, the NBU started to raise gradually and in a differentiated way reserve requirements to promote term deposits in hryvnia. As of beginning of 2023, the reserves requirements were 0% for deposits in domestic currency and 10% for those in foreign exchange. Effective January 10, 2023, the requirements were: 5% (previously 0%) for hryvnia demand deposits and 15% (previously 10%) for foreign exchange demand deposits, 0% for term hryvnia deposits, 10% for term foreign exchange deposits, 5% for hryvnia (previously 0%), and 15% (previously 10%) for foreign exchange deposits from other nonresident banks and loans from international (except for financial) institutions and other nonresident organizations. Effective February 11, 2023, the requirements were: 10% for hryvnia demand deposits and 20% for foreign exchange demand deposits, 0% for hryvnia term deposits, 10% for foreign exchange term deposits, 10% for hryvnia and 20% for foreign exchange deposits from other nonresident banks and loans from international (except for financial) institutions and nonresident organizations. Effective March 11, 2023, the requirements were: 10% for hryvnia retail demand deposits, 20% for corporate demand deposits, 20% for foreign exchange retail demand deposits, 30% for foreign exchange demand corporate deposits, 0% for term hryvnia deposits, 10% for term foreign exchange deposits, 10% for hryvnia and 20% for foreign exchange deposits from other nonresident banks and loans from international (except for financial) institutions and other nonresident organizations. Effective May 11, 2023, the requirements were: 10% for hryvnia retail demand deposits, 20% for foreign exchange retail demand deposits, 20% for corporate demand deposits, 30% for foreign exchange demand corporate deposits, 0% for term hryvnia corporate deposits, 20% for short-term (up to 92 days) hryvnia retail deposits, 0% for long-term hryvnia retail deposits, 10% for term foreign exchange corporate deposits, 30% for short-term (up to 92 days) foreign exchange retail deposits, 10% for long-term foreign exchange retail deposits, 10% for hryvnia and 20% for foreign exchange deposits from other nonresident banks and loans from international (except for financial) institutions and other nonresident organizations. Effective August 9, 2023, the requirements were set to: For current and short-term (up to 92 days) retail deposits: 20% in the hryvnia, 30% in foreign exchange; For long-term (over 92 days) retail deposits: 0% in the hryvnia, 10% in foreign exchange; For deposits of legal entities: 10% in the hryvnia, 20% in foreign exchange. The changes unified (leveled) reserve requirement ratios for corporate deposits, depending on maturity. The reasons behind the decision included the need to further minimize the risks associated with the banking system's structural surplus of liquidity and to address market distortions. Banks maintain reserve requirements on their correspondent accounts in the NBU in domestic currency.

Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The LCR requirement is set separately for all currencies and for the group of foreign currencies (while also monitored in domestic currency). The lists of eligible high-quality liquid assets (HQLAs) in all currencies and in foreign currencies differ somewhat. In particular, domestic government debt securities denominated in foreign currencies with residual maturity over 30 days are eligible for HQLAs in all currencies; however, they are not eligible for HQLAs in foreign currencies. The LCR requirement is 100% in total and for the group of foreign currencies.

Investment regulations	Yes.
Abroad by banks	Yes.	Banks may make investments abroad under a banking license, taking into consideration the restrictions established by legislative acts of Ukraine and NBU regulatory legal acts, in particular the Regulation on Protection Measures and Determination of the Procedure for the Performance of Certain Operations in Foreign Currency, approved by Resolution No. 5 of the NBU Board of January 2, 2019 (entered into force February 7, 2019, as amended). Pursuant to Article 50 of the Law of Ukraine on Banks and Banking, a bank may make direct investments with written permission from the NBU. In particular, a bank is prohibited from carrying out foreign exchange transactions for the transfer of foreign currency/hryvnia for the purpose of making its own investment abroad in securities of a foreign issuer, except for: (1) the purchase of securities whose foreign issuers have an official rating grade not lower than investment grade as confirmed by at least two leading world rating companies (Fitch Ratings, Standard & Poor's, Moody's) as of the date of purchase of such securities by the bank; (2) purchase of debt securities issued abroad for the purpose of financing a loan granted to this bank by a nonresident; (3) purchase of shares of Limited Liability Cooperative Company SWIFT.

In banks by nonresidents	Yes.	Entities who intend to acquire substantial interest in a bank, or increase it, such that an individual or entity directly and/or indirectly, independently or together with other entities or persons, owns 10%, 25%, 50%, or 75% or more of the authorized capital or voting rights in the authorized capital of a bank, and/or regardless of formal ownership, has significant influence over the management or activities of a bank must notify that bank and the NBU of with the simultaneous submission to the NBU of a full package of documents defined by the Law of Ukraine "On Banks and Banking Activities" and the NBU regulations, to agree on the acquisition or increase of a significant participation in the bank. The NBU may prohibit the acquisition of, or increase in, material participation in a bank.
Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	Following the NBU's methodology, banks calculate limits for the overall long and short open foreign exchange positions, taking into account a bank's reserves for its asset-related operations in foreign exchange and the sums of the delta equivalent of an exchange derivative built into a financial instrument with an indexed value, as well as an option contract. Off-balance-sheet items are included in the calculation of the open foreign exchange positions. The limits of the total (short/long) open currency position are set as a percentage of the regulatory capital. Pursuant to NBU Board Decision No. 1019-RS of December 28, 2019, the exchange position calculation also takes into account the sums of the delta equivalent of an exchange derivative built into a financial instrument with an indexed value. In addition, the requirements concerning financial instruments with indexed values were canceled. As of September 6, 2021, the calculation of banks' foreign exchange positions will include the sums of the delta equivalent of an option contract (with or without delivery of the underlying asset). Since December 1, 2021, the limit of the aggregate long open currency position of a bank (L13-1) may not exceed 15% (previously 10%) of the regulatory capital; the limit of the aggregate short open (L13-2) foreign exchange position may not exceed 15% (previously 10%) of its regulatory capital in accordance with NBU Board Decision No. 573 of November 16, 2021, which amended Decision 184-RS of March 29, 2018. A 100% of the reserves for asset-related banking operations in foreign currency are included in the calculation of the total (long/short) open foreign exchange position limits. Effective May 4, 2022, the limit on a bank's overall long currency position (L13-1) may not exceed 5% of its regulatory capital; the limit on a bank's overall short open exchange position may not exceed 5% of its regulatory capital, pursuant to Resolution No. 18.

		Effective September 2, 2022, in accordance with the Decision of the NBU Board No. 419 dated August 22, 2022, balances in the i-th foreign currency on accounts for accounting for reserves for active operations are included in the calculation of balance sheet and off-balance-sheet claims. Such balances are included in an amount that is not greater than the amount in the i-th foreign currency as of July 21, 2022, and which is recalculated in hryvnia equivalent at the official rate of the NBU on the date of calculation of the currency position limits. The exception is the amount of balances in reserve accounts for accrued interest income on active operations, which are not taken into account when calculating the Bi indicator as of July 21, 2022, but are taken in the current balance as of the date of calculation of the currency position limits.

On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.
Provisions specific to institutional investors	Yes.
Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Effective February 24, 2022, the standards of Regulation 18 of February 22, 2022, established a temporary prohibition on transborder transfers of funds from Ukraine/on transferring funds to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), including transfers from Ukraine on investment transactions abroad.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	There are no restrictions on investments using one's one funds, but pursuant to Directive No. 850 of June 7, 2018, of the National Commission, which is responsible for government regulation of the financial services markets, there are mandatory criteria and requirements regarding an insurer's capital adequacy, solvency, liquidity, profitability, asset quality, and operational risk. To meet solvency requirements, insurers are permitted to invest funds in stocks, bonds of Ukrainian issuers, local bonds, mortgage bonds, and government securities. To meet solvency requirements, an insurer may invest funds in bonds of IFIs, securities of foreign governments, securities of foreign issuers (stocks, bonds), provided securities of foreign issuers may be traded within Ukraine (the conditions for admitting securities of foreign issuers for trading within Ukraine are established by the National Commission for Securities and the Stock Market, Decision No. 34, dated February 21, 2021). Moreover, the credit rating of a foreign issuer's bonds must be no lower than A3/A. No limit is established. Insurers are also permitted to invest funds from insurance reserves in securities of issuers in foreign countries, corresponding to the established ratings (no lower than A3 or A), with the corresponding restrictions: for an insurer that has obtained a license to engage in life insurance – not more than 20% of insurance reserves, and for an insurer offering types of insurance other than life insurance – not more than 10% of insurance reserves. It is also permitted to enter into reinsurance agreements with reinsurers in currency (that meet the established requirements). Moreover, claims against resident insurers are accepted as coverage for insurance reserves – not more than 50% of insurance reserves, of which claims against nonresident insurers of a reinsurer that has obtained a license to engage in life insurance activities – not more than 40% of insurance reserves. These ceilings do not apply to nuclear reinsurance, air, water and land transportation, agricultural insurance, health insurance, as well as claims against reinsurers in the reported but unpaid claims reserves. Effective February 24, 2022, the standards of Regulation 18 of February 22, 2022, established a temporary prohibition on transborder transfers of funds from Ukraine/on transferring funds to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), including transfers from Ukraine on investment transactions abroad. Ukraine has also adopted the Law of Ukraine "On Insurance" (No. 1909-IX of November 18, 2021, entering into force January 1, 2024, except for certain transitional provisions that are postponed for 1–3 years), which is designed to meet the requirements of the EU Solvency II Directive, as well as the Law of Ukraine "On Financial Services and Financial Companies" (No. 1953-IX of December 14, 2021, entering into force January 1, 2024). The Law of Ukraine "On Insurance" envisages full-fledged transition to Solvency II requirements from January 1, 2027, for insurers that meet the size of business requirements. Before January 1, 2027, the solvency capital of all insurers will have to comply with the requirements of Solvency I, preceding EU Directive 2009/138. To implement the new law, the NBU has developed a draft regulatory act (replacing Directive No. 850), which will stipulate the need for currency alignment of all assets and liabilities, as well as insurance reserves and their covered assets, taking into account the requirements of the EU Solvency I Directives. This draft is planned to be approved and put into effect from January 1, 2024. It is also planned to lower the rating requirements of foreign issuers to BBB+.

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	There are no restrictions on investment with one's own funds but, pursuant to Directive of the National Committee for Financial Services No. 850, dated June 7, 2018, mandatory criteria and requirements for capital adequacy and solvency, liquidity, profitability, asset quality, and riskiness of the insurer's activities. To meet requirements concerning the solvency of insurers, it is permitted to invest funds in stocks and bonds of Ukrainian issuers, local loan bonds, mortgage bonds, and government securities. At the same time, the credit rating of a foreign bond issuer must be no lower than A3/A. Funds in current accounts, bank deposits and real estate investments are also allowed. No limits are established. Insurers are also permitted to invest funds from insurance reserves in securities of Ukrainian issuers, with the following limitations: - shares of Ukrainian issuers: no more than 10% of insurance reserves, with no more than 3% of insurance reserves in the shares of a single issuer; - bonds of enterprises of Ukrainian issuers: for an insurer that has obtained a life insurance license: no more than 40% of insurance reserves, including no more than 10% of insurance reserves in the bonds of a single issuer and, for an insurer engaged in insurance other than life insurance; - not more than 30% of insurance reserves, including no more than 10% of insurance reserves in bonds of a single issuer;

		- local loan bonds: no more than 10% of insurance reserves; - Ukrainian government bonds: no more than 95% of insurance reserves for an insurer that has obtained a license to engage in life insurance and, for an insurer practicing insurance other than life insurance, not more than 80% of insurance reserves; - bank deposits: no more than 90% (from March 6, 2022; previously 70%) of insurance reserves, of which bank metal deposits not more than 15% of insurance reserves (new limits are set for the period of martial law according to Resolution No. 39 of March 6, 2022); - real estate: not more than 20% of insurance reserves, of which not more than 10% of insurance reserves per investment target. Claims to resident insurers are accepted as a component of insurance reserves, but not more than 50% of insurance reserves (including claims to nonresidents), of which claims to resident reinsurers for an insurer licensed to provide insurance other than life insurance - not more than 10% of insurance reserves. These limits do not apply to reinsurance contracts for nuclear risks, air, water and land transportation, insurance of agricultural products, health insurance, as well as the claims to reinsurers for reported but not paid losses.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.	In 2021, the NBU developed a draft regulation to replace Directive No. 850, and to implement the new Law of Ukraine "On Insurance" No. 190- IX of November 18, 2021, which will provide for the need for currency alignment of all assets and liabilities850, insurance reserves and the assets they cover, in light of the EU Solvency I requirements, which preceded EU Directive 2009/138. Nonetheless, Ukraine adopted the Law of Ukraine "On Insurance," No. 1909-IX, dated November 18, 2021, which is to be put into effect January 1, 2024, and was developed in light of the requirements of EU Directive. The National bank will develop regulations in adopting this Law, including ones concerning requirements on investing insurer funds. Requirements and restrictions have been established for the composition of acceptable insurer assets, with regard to shares and bonds of foreign issuers, bonds of IFIs, and securities of foreign states (Law of Ukraine on Financial Services and State Regulation of the Financial Services Market). Directive of the National Commission for State Regulation in Financial Services Markets No. 850, dated June 7, 2018, establishes mandatory criteria and standards of capital adequacy and solvency, liquidity, profitability, and asset quality and risk exposures of the operations of insurers, but does not contain requirements on exchange reconciliation as to asset composition and insurers' obligations, but when placing insurance reserve funds the insurer must observe requirements as to quality, security, profitability, liquidity, and diversification of assets. Along with this, the NBU developed a draft regulation to replace Directive No. 850, which stipulates the need for exchange reconciliation of insurance reserves and the assets they cover, taking into account the requirements of Directives 2009/138/ES. However, the adoption of these changes was suspended because of the introduction of martial law in Ukraine.

Exchange Measures

Exchange measures imposed for security reasons
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	02/24/2022	Under a state of martial law pursuant to Resolution No. 18 of February 24, 2022, the performance of transactions by servicing banks involving the transfer of funds from accounts of residents of Russia/the Republic of Belarus (with the exception of standalone transactions within Ukraine) has been halted for accounts of legal entities (other than banks) whose ultimate beneficiary owners are residents of Russia/the Republic of Belarus (excepting standalone transactions within Ukraine). In addition, authorized institutions are prohibited from performing any exchange transactions: (1) using Russian rubles/Belarusian rubles; (2) in which one of the participants is a legal entity or individual whose location (of registration or permanent residence) is in Russia/the Republic of Belarus; (3) to fulfill obligations to legal entities or individuals whose location (of registration or permanent residence) is in Russia/the Republic of Belarus.
	02/22/2023	Sectoral sanctions were imposed on financial institutions of Russia.
	05/27/2023	Sectoral sanctions were imposed on the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Exchange Arrangement

Classification
Stabilized arrangement	02/23/2022	Since February 2022, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar with one realignment in July 2022. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to stabilized from floating.
Official exchange rate	01/04/2022	The calculation of the official UAH/USD exchange rate takes into account the information on all "tod", "tom", and "spot" deals on the purchase/sale of US dollars in a volume from US$100,000 through US$5 million that were conducted on the foreign exchange market of Ukraine by banks with other banks and with the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) on the day of calculating the official exchange rate, and which were reported to the NBU via the Bloomberg trading and information system through relevant information exchange channels by 3:00 p.m.

The information on the official hryvnia exchange rate against foreign currencies and the calculated accounting prices for investment metals are published on the NBU's official website no later than 3:30 p.m. on the day of setting/calculation and is sent to subscribers of the NBU email service.

The calculation methodology provides for a three-stage cut-off system for transactions with extreme parameters.

Previously, the official hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar was calculated based on information about all transactions involving the purchase and sale of US dollars on "tod," "tom," and "spot" terms, which on the day of calculation of the official exchange rate took place in the interbank currency market of Ukraine between banks and between banks and the NBU, and information whereof was provided by the NBU trading information systems until 3:30 p.m. of the current business day.

The method of calculation provided a two-stage system for cutting off transactions with extreme parameters. The method had been in place since August 1, 2018, at the NBU.

02/24/2022 In the period of martial law, the reduced effectiveness of market instruments and high uncertainty in the conditions of the full-scale war make it impossible to implement monetary policy in the format of inflation targeting with a floating exchange rate. The hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar was fixed at the level of 29.2549 hryvnia per US dollar. The official exchange rate of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and the SDRs, as well as the accounting prices of bank metals were fixed.

03/21/2022 The official exchange rates of the hryvnia against other foreign currencies and SDR have been set, and the accounting prices of bank metals have been calculated in accordance with the procedure that was in effect before the introduction of martial law, that is based on the official exchange rates of the hryvnia against the US dollar and Bloomberg fixing quotations in accordance with the Regulation on the setting of the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against foreign currencies and on the calculation of the reference exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar and of the accounting prices of bank metals, as approved by the Resolution No. 148 of the Board of the National Bank of Ukraine of December 10, 2019 (as amended).

07/21/2022 The National Bank of Ukraine set and fixed the hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar at the level of 36.5686 hryvnia per the US dollar.

10/03/2023 The National Bank of Ukraine has re-introduced the methodology of calculating the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which was in effect before the full-scale invasion, as it transitioned to a managed floating exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which meant eliminating the provision whereby the exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar was set and fixed and resuming the establishment of the exchange rate in the manner that was practiced before the beginning of the large-scale invasion.

U.S. dollar	02/24/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) fixed the USD/UAH exchange rate to preserve macroeconomic stability in Ukraine, curb the panic and prevent uncontrolled inflationary spiral. Amid high uncertainty caused by the war, the fixed exchange rate acted as the main anchor for stabilizing expectations and the key tool for achieving the NBU's goals. Previously, it was inflation-targeting. The NBU will return to the usual principles of inflation targeting with a floating exchange rate as conditions permit. This commitment is formalized in the Monetary Policy Guidelines for the Duration of Martial Law (adopted by the NBU Council on April 15, 2022). Returning to inflation targeting is the ultimate goal of the implementation of Strategy for Easing Foreign Exchange Restrictions, Transition to Greater Exchange Rate Flexibility, and Return to Inflation Targeting.
Foreign exchange market	02/24/2022	The hryvnia has been pegged to the US dollar as at UAH 29.2549 to the US dollar.
	02/24/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine has established regulation for the purpose of determining aspects of the functioning of the money and exchange markets during the period of martial law, assisting in increasing the volumes of transactions with sovereign bonds of Ukraine.
	02/24/2022	Banks' operations were pegged to the official rate of the National Bank of Ukraine in effect on the day of a transaction.
	02/24/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) has made changes to the procedures under which nonbank financial institutions and postal service operators are issued licenses to perform exchange transactions. The NBU has established a procedure for banking system operations during the period of martial law for the purpose of ensuring reliability and stability in banking system functions.
	03/01/2022	Banks' operations were conducted at a rate that could deviate by no more than 1% from the official rate of the National Bank of Ukraine as in effect on the day of the transaction.
	05/21/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) lifted restrictions on the exchange rate at which market participants were selling cash foreign exchange to their customers (between April 14, 2022, and May 20, 2022, these transactions were allowed to use a rate that could not deviate by more than 10% from the official rate of the NBU, effective on the day of a transaction).
	07/21/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine has set and fixed the exchange rate of the hryvnia to the USD at 36.5686 hryvnias to the US dollar.
	10/07/2022	Before October 2022, the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) Resolution No. 26 on Approval of the Regulation on Procedure of Licensing Currency Valuables dated March 26, 2021, was in force. This Regulation was repealed by NBU Board Resolution No. 216 amending NBU Board Resolution No. 153 on Approval of the Regulation on the Licensing and Registration of Financial Service Providers and Requirements for Providing Financial Services dated December 24, 2021. These amendments were intended to unify approaches to licensing financial service providers, financial payment service providers, and providers of limited payment services. Specifically, this regulation regulates the procedure for issuing a license to trade in currency valuables.
	10/03/2023	A managed floating exchange rate regime was introduced. Correspondingly, the exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar was resumed to be set in the manner that had been practiced before the large-scale invasion.
	10/03/2023	The National Bank of Ukraine abolished the pegging of the hryvnia exchange rate on banks' operations to the official hryvnia exchange rate for non-cash foreign currency purchase and sale operations by banks (including on instructions of their clients). Banks can buy and sell non-cash foreign exchange (including on instructions of their clients) at the rate set by the bank on the date of the transaction.

Spot exchange market	02/24/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) established exchange rate rules for the purchase and sale of cash foreign exchange. Banks and nonbank financial institutions were buying cash foreign exchange from their customers at the official rate of the NBU in effect on the day of the transaction
	02/24/2022	Banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers are permitted to perform only transactions that involve the purchase of foreign currency from clients (the sale of foreign currency in cash to clients is prohibited). Banks are prohibited from conducting transfers of individuals on current non-commercial transactions, other than the cases defined in Resolution No. 18 (this list is not exhaustive and is revised based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law conditions).
	04/14/2022	Banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service providers are permitted to perform transactions involving the sale of foreign currency in cash to individual clients (previously not permitted) at a rate that cannot deviate by more than 10% from the official exchange rate of the National Bank of Ukraine, which is in effect on the day of the transaction. Cash foreign exchange may only be sold within the amount that exceeds the total purchase of foreign exchange over the total sales of foreign exchange. The excess amount must be calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and for the following transaction/working days.
	04/14/2022	Banks and nonbank financial institutions were allowed to buy foreign exchange cash from their customers at a rate that was not lower than the official rate of the National Bank of Ukraine in effect on the day of the transaction.
	05/21/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine lifted restrictions on the rate at which banks and nonbank financial institutions are allowed to sell cash foreign exchange to their customers, and henceforth such transactions are carried out at the rate effective on the day of the transaction.
	07/27/2022	The sale of foreign currency in cash to clients must be conducted within the limits of an amount defined as the sum of two components: the amount by which a purchase of foreign currency in cash exceeds the amount of its sale for all foreign currencies, calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and the subsequent transaction/working days, and 50% of the amount of a purchase of non-cash foreign currency from individuals for all currencies, calculated beginning April 13, 2022, and the subsequent transaction/working days. The total of these components is calculated in dollar equivalent. To convert it one uses the official exchange rate of the hryvnia to the foreign currency, as set by the National Bank of Ukraine as of the date of this calculation. Previously, it was only the first component.
	08/06/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine removed restrictions on the rate at which banks and nonbank financial institutions were buying cash foreign exchange from their customers, and such transactions use an exchange rate in effect on the day of the transaction.
	09/06/2022	Banks are allowed to include in the calculation of the volume of sale of cash foreign exchange 100% of non-cash foreign exchange purchased from individuals in all foreign currencies, which is calculated starting from April 13, 2022, and over the subsequent banking/working days.
	04/21/2023	Banks are allowed to include in the calculation of the volume of sale of cash foreign exchange 120% (previously 100%) of non-cash foreign exchange purchased from individuals in all foreign currencies, which is calculated starting from April 13, 2022, and over the subsequent banking/working days.

	09/16/2023	Banks, nonbank financial institutions, and postal service operators were allowed to include in the calculation of the volume of sales of cash foreign exchange sales the balances of foreign exchange cash on hand at these institutions as of April 13, 2022.
Operated by the central bank	02/24/2022	With the imposition of martial law, the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) temporarily changed its approach to foreign exchange interventions which are no longer conducted under the Foreign Exchange Intervention Strategy of the NBU (approved by the NBU Board decision dated December 29, 2020, No. 769-рш) but according to the following procedure. Since the beginning of the full-scale war of Russia against Ukraine, the NBU enters daily into US and Euro sale and purchase transactions with banks and IFIs. Such transactions are effected without limiting the amount on "tod" terms (from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.) and "tom" terms (starting from 3 p.m.) through the functionalities of Refinitive and Bloomberg or (if Refinitive and Bloomberg are unavailable) by phone against prepayment by the bank. To perform the transactions the amount of US dollars to be sold or purchased need to be no less than US$100,000. Exchange rate for: (1) purchases by the NBU from banks/IFIs of the US dollars is set at the level of the official exchange rate of hryvnia to the US dollar effective as of the day of the transaction; (2) sales by the NBU to banks/IFIs of the US dollars is set at the level of the official exchange rate of hryvnia to US dollar effective as of the day of the transaction increased by 1% and rounded to four decimal places. Banks will be permitted to conduct foreign exchange transactions with the NBU, provided they have complied with the net long open foreign exchange position for the preceding 10 days. Previously, as per Foreign Exchange Intervention Strategy of the NBU (approved by the NBU Board decision dated December 29, 2020, No. 769-рш), the NBU conducted four types of foreign exchange interventions: (1) foreign exchange auctions; (2) single-rate intervention; (3) best rate intervention; and (4) targeted intervention.
	05/10/2022	The National Bank of Ukraine stopped the daily purchase and sale of Euro with banks and international financial institutions and began conducting operation solely in US dollars.
	10/03/2023	On business days from 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) has been transacting with banks on "tod" terms to buy and sell US dollars through the Refinitive and/or Bloomberg trading and information systems to fulfill the following tasks: (1) covering the structural component of net demand for foreign exchange in the currency market of Ukraine by selling (usually daily) US dollars in the amount that corresponds to the estimates of the NBU of the size of the above-mentioned structural component of net demand; (2) smoothing Ukraine's foreign exchange market operations by buying or selling US dollars in the event of abnormal changes in the quotations of the hryvnia exchange rate against the US dollar and/or limited capacity of the foreign exchange market to balance and/or temporary loss of pricing benchmarks by the foreign exchange market. The said transactions will be conducted in the form of interventions at a single rate, interventions at the best rate and currency auctions. The NBU conducts daily operations with banks (on working days starting at 3:30 p.m.) to buy and sell US dollars on "tom" terms. The bank is entitled to participate in such operations on "tom" terms, as defined in paragraph 18 of the Resolution, only if such operations are carried out by the bank to meet the defense needs of Ukraine. Such operations must be carried out at the official exchange rate of the hryvnia against the US dollar, which is set on the day of the operation and will be valid on the next working day after the day of setting. The banks communicate to the NBU through the Refinitive and Bloomberg trading and information systems or by telephone (at the telephone numbers which the NBU informs the banks separately) the amount of US dollars to be sold or purchased on "tom" terms, which may not be less than US$100,000.

Interbank market	02/24/2022	Banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), with the exception of certain transactions, a list of which is established in Resolution No. 18 (the list is not exhaustive and is revised based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements in conditions of martial law). Per Resolution No. 18, as of February 24, 2022, banks must perform transactions involving trade in foreign currency in accordance with the exchange-rate rules established by the NBU for exchange transactions (transactions involving the purchase and sale of cashless and cash foreign currency, for transactions with electronic means of payment).
Forward exchange market	02/24/2022	Banks were prohibited from performing transactions involving trade in foreign currency (including for clients), with the exception of certain transactions, a list of which is established by Resolution No. 18 (the list is not exclusive and is reviewed based on the current situation on the exchange market and the government's needs during martial law).
	03/04/2022	Swap transactions were permitted with resident clients, if the first part of the transaction provides for a purchase of foreign currency from a resident client.
	03/21/2022	Transactions involving the purchase of foreign currency by clients on "forward" terms under forward contracts are permitted that were signed before February 23, 2022 (inclusive).
	04/04/2022	Swap transactions with clients were permitted under a foreign currency exchange for the group 1 Classifier.
	04/30/2022	Banks are prohibited from entering into money market derivative contracts (other than swaps), on the basis of which the parties to such a contract incur an obligation to purchase or sell foreign currency/precious metals for hryvnias, as well as derivative money market contracts (other than swaps), the baseline for which is the exchange rate of the foreign currency to the hryvnia, the exchange rate (rates of several currencies) expressed in hryvnia, and the price of precious metals—in hryvnia.
	06/15/2022	Banks are permitted to perform transactions on "swap" terms with a foreign bank/depository that has a securities account in the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU), to purchase and sell foreign currency, if the first part of the transaction provides for the bank to sell foreign currency to a foreign bank/depositors that has a securities account in the NBU.
	07/16/2022	Banks are permitted to transact on swap terms with a central counterparty, which has the right to provide CCP clearing services in accordance with the Law of Ukraine on Capital Markets and Regulated Commodity Markets, and has obtained a license from the National Bank of Ukraine to perform settlements on currency swap transactions and settlements in foreign currency on transactions on bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in foreign currency, as well as to carry out other currency transactions with securities.

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Prescription of currency requirements
Controls on the use of domestic currency
For current transactions and payments	02/24/2022	A ban has been established on transborder transfers from Ukraine made by authorized institutions because of the imposition of martial law and on the transfer of funds to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnia/foreign currency, that have been opened in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform by order of their clients), other than transactions enacted separately (the list of transactions for which an exception from the ban on transfers is being reviewed based on the currency situation on the exchange market and the government's requirements under martial law).
	02/24/2022	During martial law, the transfer of funds in hryvnia-to-hryvnia correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in resident banks is prohibited, except for transactions on bonds of the domestic government loan of Ukraine denominated in national currency, where a party of such transaction is a nonresident bank.
For capital transactions
Transactions in capital and money market instruments	07/14/2022	Central counterparty and banks are allowed to conduct cash leg settlement of transactions with domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine exclusively in the currency in which domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine are denominated. Previously, according to the currency law, the national currency of Ukraine, the hryvnia, could be used to settle transactions to purchase and sell domestic government debt securities denominated in both foreign currency and hryvnia.
Transactions in derivatives and other instruments	04/30/2022	Pursuant to Resolution No. 18, banks are temporarily prohibited from entering into a number of money market derivative contracts (except for swaps), specifically: (1) contracts on the basis of which the parties to the contract have obligations to purchase or sell foreign currency or investment metals for hryvnia; (2) contracts based on the hryvnia exchange rate against foreign currencies, foreign currency index (exchange rates of several foreign currencies) denominated in hryvnia, and price of investment metals in hryvnia.
Credit operations	05/21/2022	Banks are prohibited from: - restructuring debt under credit agreements in a foreign currency, if such agreements were entered into by creditor banks with client borrowers (other than interbank loans) by replacing the currency used to fulfill the obligation under such a foreign currency bank loan with hryvnias (with the exception of isolated cases involving restructuring under consumer credit agreements as stipulated in Section IV, Item 7 of the Law of Ukraine "On Consumer Lending"); - granting credit in hryvnias, to be used for a borrower client to pay off a bank loan in foreign currency.
Use of foreign exchange among residents	02/24/2022	Banks are prohibited from issuing savings certificates denominated in a foreign currency.
	07/14/2022	Central counterparty and banks are allowed to conduct cash leg settlement of transactions with domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine exclusively in the currency in which domestic sovereign bonds of Ukraine are denominated.
	02/28/2023	Residents have been allowed to transfer foreign exchange funds from within Ukraine and from abroad to a special fund-raising account of the National Bank of Ukraine to support the Armed Forces of Ukraine and/or to the accounts of the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, ministries and other public authorities of Ukraine, as well as to charities, the goals and activities of which are to consolidate the country's defense capability and mobilization readiness, and to support the Armed Forces of Ukraine and territorial defense forces.

Controls on trade in gold (coins and/or bullion)
On domestic ownership and/or trade	02/24/2022	Banks are prohibited from performing transactions involving the purchase and sale of bank metals.
	03/08/2022	Transactions involving the purchase of bank metals by customers were permitted, with physical delivery at branches and bank divisions located in territories that are under threat of occupation by an aggressor state/occupier state.
	05/09/2022	Transactions involving the sale of bank metals to individual customers were permitted, with or without physical delivery.
	08/20/2022	Customers are allowed to purchase bank metals with physical delivery in branches and offices of banks. Banks may sell bank metals with physical delivery to customers within the remaining stock of bank metals in the bank's vaults as of August 19, 2022. This remaining stock may be complemented by any excess of bank metals purchased and physically delivered over the volume of bank metals sold, for all bank metals with physical delivery, as calculated in troy ounces for each metal separately starting from August 19, 2022, and during the subsequent banking/working days.
	12/13/2022	The volume of bank metals that were purchased (paid for) prior to August 19, 2022, and entered in the books after that date may be added to the remaining stock as of August 19, 2022 (previously this was not included).
On external trade	03/04/2022	Through March 12, 2022 (inclusively), because of the introduction of martial law in Ukraine, individual residents were allowed to move bank metals across the border without displaying confirmation documents.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes
On exports
Domestic currency	03/04/2022	Through March 13, 2022, individual residents were allowed to export domestic cash without submitting supporting documents.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted
Held domestically	02/24/2022	A ban on withdrawing foreign exchange cash from customer foreign exchange accounts in Ukraine was established.
	03/01/2022	The withdrawal of foreign exchange cash is allowed in an amount not exceeding the equivalent of UAH 30,000 a day.
	03/21/2022	The withdrawal of foreign exchange cash is allowed in an amount not exceeding the equivalent of UAH 100,000 (previously UAH 100,000) a day (including cash withdrawn outside Ukraine).
	08/01/2022	The Law of Ukraine "On Payment Services" grants the right to open payment accounts for nonbank payment service providers for account servicing.
Held abroad
Approval required	02/24/2022	A ban was introduced on transborder transfers from Ukraine by authorized institutions, as well as funds transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in hryvnias or foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers conducted by authorized institutions under instructions from their clients), other than individual transactions (a list of transactions for which an exception is provided based on the current situation on the exchange market and transborder transfers from Ukraine/cash transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), which extends, among others, to residents' transactions involving provision of credit/loans to nonresidents (separate requirements are established for banks). Banks are prohibited from transferring funds from Ukraine for purposes of providing credit to nonresidents (except for foreign exchange loans to foreign financial institutions). Previously, banks could provide credits with no restrictions on the amount, while individuals and legal entities could provide loans within established limits.

To residents from nonresidents	02/24/2022	The standards of Regulation No. 18 have established a temporary prohibition on transborder money transfers from Ukraine/cash transfers to correspondent accounts of nonresident banks in UAH/foreign currency in resident banks (including transfers that authorized institutions perform on instructions from their clients), other than standalone transactions. This prohibition on the transfer of cash from Ukraine extends, among others, to residents' transactions involving paying off credit/loans received from nonresidents (other than payoffs of loans by borrower banks in observance of the time limits established by lending agreements for such payments). The temporary ban on funds transfers from Ukraine does not extend to individual cases, including transactions to fulfill resident obligations: - that are guaranteed by the State of Ukraine; - the creditors of which are international financial institutions (IFIs) of which Ukraine is a member, or IFIs under agreements with which Ukraine has obligated itself to ensure the legal regime that is granted to other international organizations; - a bank's own transactions, including to pay off credit they have raised from nonresidents (but no earlier than the time limits set by the terms of the credit agreement). The standards of Regulation No. 18 of February 24, 2022, which prohibit transfers from Ukraine, do not apply to funds transfers within Ukraine that are performed between accounts of residents and nonresidents in Ukrainian banks on foreign exchange transactions, permitted pursuant to the rules of such accounts (account rules are established in Regulation No. 5 of January 2, 2019). Thus, resident borrowers may transfer funds (in foreign currency/UAH) to pay off credit/loans, they received from nonresidents to current accounts of nonresidents in banks within Ukraine.
	04/14/2022	Borrower banks have been prohibited from reducing the time limits for their fulfillment of debt obligations on credit and loans they had attracted under agreements with nonresidents (Resolution No. 18).
	06/16/2023	The list of transactions permitted by Resolution No. 18 for the transfer of currency valuables from Ukraine was extended to transactions (except for early execution) of a resident borrower who is not a bank with a nonresident under a loan agreement if the loan under such an agreement (in whole or in part) is provided with the participation (by way of guarantee or surety) of international financial institutions or with the participation (by way of loan, insurance, guarantee, or surety) of a foreign export credit agency/foreign state through its authorized persons/foreign persons, whose participants (shareholders) include a foreign state or a foreign bank [provided a foreign state is a participant (shareholder) of this bank].

	06/21/2023	The list of transactions permitted by Resolution No. 18 for the transfer of currency valuables from Ukraine was extended to transactions (except for early execution) of a resident borrower with a nonresident under a loan agreement concluded between them, whereby the provision/receipt of the total amount of the loan (including repayable financial assistance) is made only after June 20, 2023. The transfer of funds from Ukraine under such loans also requires compliance with separately established terms and conditions (the size of payouts should be limited at the maximum interest rate of 12% an annum; after June 20, 2023, funds under the loan agreement received from abroad must be credited to the current account of a resident borrower in a Ukrainian bank). For the purpose of transferring funds from Ukraine under such loan agreements, it is not allowed to buy foreign currency, as well as to use foreign currency, which is received as a loan from another resident (this restriction does not apply to loans with the maturity of more than 3 years. For such loans, it is allowed to buy foreign currency to transfer from Ukraine the amount of interest, and starting from the fourth year of the loan, foreign exchange can also be transferred to repay the principal of the loan).
	09/16/2023	The list of transactions permitted by Resolution No. 18 for the transfer of currency valuables from Ukraine was extended to transactions to fulfill the obligations of a resident borrower who is a state-owned enterprise or a company, 100% of shares (stocks) of which belong to the state, to a nonresident under a loan agreement between them, which were restructured on the terms agreed by the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, as well as for making other payments related to servicing such restructured obligations.
	10/07/2023	Funds may also be transferred from Ukraine for early fulfillment of obligations on those of these loans (resident borrower who is not a bank with a nonresident under a loan agreement if the loan under such an agreement (in whole or in part) is provided with the participation (by way of guarantee or surety) of international financial institutions or with the participation (by way of loan, insurance, guarantee, or surety) of a foreign export credit agency/foreign state through its authorized persons/foreign persons, whose participants (shareholders) include a foreign state or a foreign bank [provided a foreign state is a participant (shareholder) of this bank]) that are fully received and repaid after June 20, 2023.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The bid-ask spread and foreign exchange commissions are determined at banks' discretion.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	As of June 30, 2023, there were 61 commercial and Islamic banks operating in the UAE (23 domestic, 27 foreign) and 11 wholesale banks. All banks may engage in foreign exchange transactions. In addition, there are 83 foreign exchange bureaus, commonly called exchange companies or moneychangers. These institutions may maintain accounts and engage in foreign exchange transactions with the CBUAE and may have nostro accounts abroad with the CBUAE approval. There are three types of exchange companies: (1) Category 1, which may buy and sell only currency notes and traveler's checks; (2) Category 2, which may process remittances, buy, and sell currency notes and traveler's checks; and (3) in addition to transactions allowed for Category 2, they may also process wage protection systems (WPS) payments.
Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The CBUAE transacts daily in the spot market to convert net capital flows (mostly USD) and services the foreign exchange demand by banks and the government (which is structurally net seller of USD).
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The CBUAE buys and sells unlimited USD and AED to registered counterparties at the official exchange rate. Counterparties use the Reuters dealing code CBEM to deal with the CBUAE, which also executes purchases and sales of foreign currency against AED with the federal government and ministries, local governments, and public institutions through their CBUAE accounts.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	The interbank market remains small with secondary market trading clustered around CBUAE's biweekly M-Bill auctions. All licensed banks participate in the interbank market, which is dominated by the six primary dealer banks for M-Bills. There are no limits set by the Inoperative	No.

Regional arrangements	Yes.	The UAE is a member of the GCC Customs Union. CBUAE is part of the Arab Regional Payment System (ARPS) (so called "BUNA"), which is a centralized multicurrency platform to enhance opportunities for financial integration and support economic and investment ties with the trading partners of Arab countries. BUNA aims to enable financial institutions, including commercial and CBs, to send and receive cross-border payments across the Arab region and beyond in Arab currencies, as well as key international currencies, in an efficient, cost-effective, risk-controlled and transparent environment. CBUAE joined the Arabian Gulf System for Financial Automated Quick Payment Transfer (AFAQ) effective December 13, 2023. The system is part of the regional infrastructure that Gulf Payments Company (GPC) – owned equally by the six GCC CBs, has developed to underpin inter-GCC payment systems through enabling real-time gross settlement (RTGS) transfers among the CBs of the member states.

Foreign nationals may own up to 100% of commercial companies within the country after the company obtains the approval of the Department of Economic Development to increase foreign ownership and the approval of the company's general assembly to amend the articles of association and the approval of the Securities and Commodities Authority (SCA) on the assembly's decision, subject to some restrictions in strategic impact industries. Specifically, they may have majority ownership if their activity is in a sector set out in the positive list adopted in Cabinet Resolution No. 16/2020. For all other sectors, the requirement of a majority shareholding of more than 50% held by an UAE national still applies, with higher thresholds being applicable in certain sectors (for example, in banking, it is no less than 60% pursuant to Article 76 of the CBUAE Law). The same provision applies to investment funds unless their Prospectus states otherwise. In free zones, foreign ownership is permitted up to 100%. There are no minimum holding requirements either.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The issuance of capital market securities by nonresidents is allowed, provided the sellers/issuers comply with the listing requirements issued by the markets namely the Dubai Financial Market (DFM) and Abu Dhabi Securities Exchange (ADX). Pursuant to SCA Chairman of the Board Resolution No. (11/R.M) of 2016 on the Regulations for Issuing and Offering Shares of Public Joint-Stock Companies, among other requirements, shares issued for offer may not exceed 30% of the issuing company's capital. Pursuant to Chairman of the Authority's Board of Directors' Resolution No. (05/Chairman) of 2023 on the Registration of Securities for Listing, any securities may be listed on the market only after registration with the Authority and in accordance with the conditions specified in the registration form prepared by the Authority. The Authority may require that the application for registration of securities be submitted by a listing advisor licensed by the SCA. The following regulations apply to the issuance of Depository Receipts and their listing on a market: (1) Depository Receipts may not be issued through a public offering or listed on a market without the approval of the Authority in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations; (2) Depository Receipts issued outside the State may not be offered through public offering inside the UAE or listed on a market without the approval of the Authority in accordance with the provisions of these Regulations.

		the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 20%; (6) the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in other invested assets is 10%; and (7) the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in real estate sector is 30%. Strong and very strong rating by an independent agency for investments inside or outside the UAE refers to ratings equivalent to or better than the following weighted average ratings for each asset class portfolio: "A" by Standard & Poor's (S&P), Fitch, A.M. Best, or "A2" by Moody's. The limits apply to total invested assets. The limits on aggregate exposure differentiate between investment abroad and at home pursuant to Article 3 of the Financial Regulations for Insurance Companies. The COVID-19-related discounts on motor insurance (up to 50%) were eliminated pursuant to Notice CBUAE/BIS/2023/4075 effective August 11, 2023. The reduction by AED 1 million to the previous value of the letter of guarantee to Insurance Brokers is still valid. New regulations and standards were issued in compliance with the Insurance Core Principles issued by the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) in particular (ICP 7 – Corporate Governance) and (ICP 8 – Risk Management and Internal Controls) as follows: - Corporate Governance Regulation and Standards for Insurance Companies effective December 15, 2022. The main areas of focus are creating a corporate governance framework, requiring a risk management system, three lines of defense, board composition, compensation, internal controls, financial reporting, senior management and communications. - Risk Management and Internal Controls Regulation and Standards for Insurance Companies effective April 29, 2023. The main areas of focus are requiring an effective system of risk management and internal controls, control functions, stress testing of material risk, own risk solvency assessment (ORSA), outsourcing and countering fraud in insurance. - New Takaful Regulation and Standards were issued effective December 30, 2022, to introduce the "Higher Shari'ah Authority" and to clarify some articles. - "Clarifications re ESCROW Accounts requirements" effective February 3, 2023, which requires intermediaries (that is, brokers, agents and third party administrators) to deposit policyholder monies in ESCROW accounts, for the purposes of providing protection for such funds from unauthorized withdrawals.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Pursuant to Article 3, Section 1 of the Financial Regulations for Insurance Companies, the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in government securities/instruments issued by A-rated countries is 80%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 25%, and the maximum limit for aggregate exposure in equity instruments of listed and unlisted companies outside the UAE is 20%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 10%.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Requirement on domiciling of investments (Article 6, Section 1): Insurance companies are permitted to hold, for the purpose of investment, assets of its insurance fund for the UAE policies in a foreign jurisdiction with a sovereign rating, which is better or at least equivalent to the sovereign rating of the UAE. Total invested assets held outside the UAE may not exceed 50% of the total invested assets or 100% of the total technical provisions for policies outside the UAE only (excluding unit-linked funds), whichever is greater. The maximum limit for aggregate exposure in equity instruments of listed and unlisted companies outside the UAE is 20%, and the sub-limit for exposure to a single counterparty is 10%.

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution

Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	Insurance companies must invest at all times in the UAE the assets required to match the technical provisions, for policies inside the UAE only. The minimum limit and the maximum exposure to a single counterparty for aggregate exposure in cash at banks in the UAE and deposits with banks in the UAE (for example, current account, demand deposits, term deposits, notice deposits, and CDs) are 5% and 50%, respectively.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurance companies adhere to the IFRS regarding the accounting for currency-matching. The Financial Regulations for Insurance and Takaful Companies in Section 1 (Regulations Pertinent to the Basis of Investing the Rights of the Policyholders), Article 1 (General Requirements for Investments) states that (1) for the purpose of matching of assets and liabilities, the assets held by an insurance company to cover its technical provisions and all other long-term insurance liabilities must: (a) have characteristics of safety, yield, and marketability which are appropriate to the type of business carried on by the company and (b) be diversified and adequately spread. (2) The assets must be of a sufficient amount, and of an appropriate currency and maturity, to ensure that the cash inflows from those assets will meet the expected cash outflows from the company's insurance liabilities as they become due. The IFRS 17 Insurance Contracts issued on May 18, 2017, entered into force effective January 1, 2023.

Applications for the registration of foreign and domestic mutual funds (CISs) are sent to the Emirates SCA for review and approval, which will grant or deny application within a 30-day period. Licenses are renewable on an annual basis. Mutual funds established in the UAE are subject to the SCA jurisdiction and are required to prepare a detailed prospectus which must be approved by the SCA and which must include information on the management, the company's board of directors, capital requirements, internal governance of the fund, investment policy, the manner in which the CIS units are issued and redeemed, subscription rights, redemption, rights of shareholders, method of evaluating fund assets and NAV, safe custody rules, policy and limits and controls of borrowing or funding as well as the funds' investments guidelines and scope of investment. The regulations also ensure that provisions for certain types of mutual funds including master funds, feeder funds (a public mutual fund affiliated to an umbrella fund excluded from investing in tradable securities and some other investments as determined by the SCA, with approximately 85% of their assets invested in the units of a public master fund or public foreign fund), umbrella funds, and fund of funds. Master funds and feeder funds must satisfy the conditions for licensing. Management companies are required to obtain licenses from the SCA to establish and run mutual funds or CISs. Management companies are obliged to meet and adhere to the following standards: (1) regulate the management of the fund as well as management of administrative services; (2) legally represent the fund before third parties; (3) manage risks; (4) ensure the separation of client assets and correct custody; (5) appoint an SCA-approved safe custodian; (6) assess and value assets, calculate NAV of units, distribute profits as well as abide by all disclosure requirements; and (7) execute sale and purchase transaction in the markets using the principle of "best execution" and maintaining strict fiduciary duty/responsibilities for their clients.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	There are different maximum limits on the portion of the investment portfolio held abroad; the limits depend on the type of mutual fund. For Public Close-Ended Mutual Fund, the management company must invest the funds in accordance with the following investment policy guidelines: (1) The ratio of investment in securities issued by one entity may not exceed 10% of the net value of the funds' assets or 10% of the issued capital; (2) the ratio of investment in unlisted securities may not exceed 10% of the fund's NAV; (3) the ratio of investment may not exceed 20% of the fund's NAV in securities listed in a foreign market, provided such a market is subject to a peer regulator comparable to the SCA; and (4) investment in financial derivatives may not exceed 1% of the fund's NAV.

Circulation of domestic central bank digital currency (CBDC)—retail and/or wholesale	No.	The CBUAE is currently implementing a multi-year Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) Program. CBUAE's CBDC the Digital Dirham aims to unlock innovation, accelerate the digital economy, and serve unmet needs. The program includes wholesale, retail, and cross-border CBDC. During 2023, the CBUAE established a robust and comprehensive legal and policy framework to support the issuance of CBDC as a legal tender. The policies formulated aim to ensure monetary and financial stability, counter financial crime and promote financial inclusion. The CBUAE enacted amendments to Central Bank Law in October 2023, the CBUAE may now issue currency in digital form alongside notes and coins. A number of UAE licensed financial institutions have been tested and connected to our CBDC infrastructures.

Floating
Free floating	Yes.	The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating. The exchange rate of the pound sterling is determined on the basis of supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. The Bank of England (BOE) has a separate pool of foreign exchange reserves, which it uses at its discretion to intervene in support of its monetary policy objectives. A monthly press release issued by Her Majesty's Treasury (HMT) reports HMT and BOE intervention.
Official exchange rate	Yes.	The BOE calculates indicative exchange rates on a daily basis and publishes these on its website. These are not official rates. Exchange rates are determined as middle spot rates prevailing in the market at a given point in time. Separately, the BOE provides exchange rates to the IMF for SDR calculations and these rates are published daily by the IMF on their website.

Monetary aggregate target
Inflation-targeting framework	Yes.
Target setting body	Yes.
Government	Yes.	The BOE's monetary policy objective is to deliver price stability and, subject to that, to support the government's economic objectives including those for growth and employment. Price stability is defined by the government's inflation target of 2% measured by the 12-month increase in the Consumer Prices Index. The remit recognizes the role of price stability in achieving economic stability more generally, and in providing the right conditions for sustainable growth in output and employment. The government's definition of the inflation target is specified at least once in every period of 12 months, announced each year by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the remit for the MPC.

Point target	Yes.	The BOE pursues an explicit inflation target set by HMT – currently 2% on the CPI measure.
Target with tolerance band
Band/Range
Target measure	Yes.
CPI	Yes.	The inflation target of 2% is expressed in terms of an annual rate of inflation based on the CPI. The remit is not to achieve the lowest possible inflation rate. Inflation below the target of 2% is judged to be just as bad as inflation above the target. The inflation target is therefore symmetrical.
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The framework is based on the recognition that the actual inflation rate will on occasion depart from its target as a result of shocks and disturbances. Such factors will typically move inflation away from the target temporarily. Attempts to keep inflation at the inflation target in these circumstances may cause undesirable volatility in output because of the short-term trade-offs involved, and the MPC may therefore wish to allow inflation to deviate from the target temporarily.
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.	The MPC currently influences monetary conditions in two main ways. First, it sets Bank Rate (and takes steps to ensure it is passed through to households and businesses). Second, it can use asset purchases, also known as "quantitative easing (QE). The Bank's first operational target currently is to keep overnight rates in wholesale sterling markets close to Bank Rate. We apply Bank Rate to reserves balances held with us by eligible financial firms. The MPC sets Bank Rate eight times a year, and its level remains fixed between each MPC announcement. Second, the Bank manages the MPC's asset purchases, which comprise a stock of U.K. government bonds and sterling non-financial investment-grade corporate bonds. In February 2022, the MPC voted to begin to reduce the stock of U.K. government bond purchases by ceasing to reinvest maturing assets. In September 2022, the MPC voted to begin sales of the gilts held to support the MPC's monetary policy remit; the Committee judged that over the 12 months from September 2022, a reduction in the stock of purchased gilts by around £80 billion would be appropriate. Sales auctions began on November 1, 2022. Since February 2022, the stock of government bond purchases has fallen from £875bn to £803bn as at end-June 2023. In September 2023, the MPC voted to increase the pace of unwind of its asset purchases, with a target of reducing the stock of purchased gilts by a further £100bn in the 12 months from September 2023. In February 2022, the MPC also set a target to unwind fully the stock of corporate bond purchases by no earlier than toward the end of 2023. Sales of these corporate bonds began in September 2022. In June 2023, the Bank announced that it had completed its sales of sterling non-financial investment-grade corporate bonds – the stock of corporate bond holdings was reduced from £19.1bn to £0.8bn. The remaining very short maturity bonds will be held in the portfolio and will mature fully by April 5, 2024.
Policy rate	Yes.	As of September 2023, the Bank Rate set by the MPC was an overnight rate of 5.25%.

Target corridor band	No.

Accountability	Yes.
Open letter	Yes.	Each year, the Chancellor of the Exchequer writes a letter to the Governor confirming the inflation target and the MPC's remit for monetary policy. If the target is missed by more than 1 percentage point in either direction, that is, if the annual rate of CPI inflation is more than 3% or less than 1%, the Governor of the BOE must write an open letter to the Chancellor setting out: (1) the outlook for inflation and, if relevant, the reasons why inflation has moved away from the target or is expected to move away from the target; (2) the policy action the Committee is taking in response; (3) the horizon over which the Committee judges it is appropriate to return inflation to the target; (4) the trade-off that has been made with regard to inflation and output variability in determining the scale and duration of any expected deviation of inflation from the target; and how this approach meets the government's monetary policy objectives.
Parliamentary hearings	Yes.	Four times a year, typically when the BOE publishes its Monetary Policy Report (called the Inflation Report prior to November 2019), MPC members attend a public meeting with the House of Commons Treasury Committee.
Other	No.
Transparency	Yes.
Publication of votes	Yes.	The minutes of the MPC meetings publish the votes of the individual members of the Committee.
Publication of minutes	Yes.	The MPC is committed to the greatest possible degree of transparency around its decision-making. The minutes of the MPC meetings are published simultaneously with the interest rate decision. They also record the votes of the individual members of the Committee. The minutes give a full account of the policy discussion, including differences of view.
Publication of inflation forecasts	Yes.	In addition to the MPC minutes, the BOE publishes its Monetary Policy Report (called the Inflation Report prior to November 2019). This report gives an analysis of the U.K. economy and the factors influencing policy decisions. The Monetary Policy Report also includes the MPC's latest forecasts for inflation and output growth.

Exchange tax	No.
Exchange subsidy	No.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Participants may freely determine their exchange rates and commissions in their transactions with clients. Where transactions take the form of Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID) business, including business that takes the form of ancillary services such as the MiFID Annex 1 B4 ancillary service of "foreign exchange services where these are connected to the provision of investment services," MiFID-based conduct requirements may apply, such as those in the Conduct of Business Sourcebook (COBS) 2.3.A.5R, 2.3.8R, and 4.5.10UK. 		based requirements in the Principles for Businesses also apply.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange bureaus engaged only in spot foreign exchange transactions are not subject to licensing or regulation by the BOE as CB, the Prudential Regulation Authority as prudential regulator, or the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) as financial conduct regulator. The U.K. version of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/565 is identical in scope to the regulation in force in relation to instruments covered. Spot contracts which meet the criteria in the U.K. version of Article 10(2) of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/565 are specifically excluded from the scope of financial instruments for the purposes of MiFID II-based obligations, so that firms only doing business in relation to such contracts are not subject to MiFID II-based authorization requirements. However, businesses that conduct spot foreign exchange transactions may engage in other activities that require FCA authorization. In addition, some firms may be subject to the separate authorization and registration obligations of the Payment Services Regulations 2017. Also, many foreign exchange bureaus that do not engage in activities that require FCA authorization must register with Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs (HMRC) under the Money Laundering, Terrorism Financing, and Transfer of Funds (Information on the Payer) Regulations 2017 (MLRs), which require foreign exchange bureaus (as well as money transmitters and check cashers) to investigate customers as part of customer due diligence. Banks and investment firms engaged in foreign exchange services connected with the provision of investment services are subject to certain conduct and other obligations for foreign exchange services pursuant to U.K. requirements imposed as part of MiFID II implementation and which form part of "retained EU law" under the EU (Withdrawal) Act 2018 (at the end of 2023, "retained EU law" will be renamed so that it will be known as "assimilated law").

Interbank market	Yes.	The market is not formally regulated; participants are encouraged to adhere to the foreign exchange Global Code which is a voluntary code of conduct. Although the foreign exchange Global Code has no direct statutory underpinning, noncompliance (depending on the circumstances, seriousness, frequency, and duration of the incidents) may raise issues, such as the integrity or competence of a market firm, relevant to the firm's authorization requirements under the Financial Services and Markets Act (FSMA) of 2000 and the FCA's Principles for Businesses. The FCA recognized the updated version of the foreign exchange Global Code (July 2021) as of November 19, 2021, and the three-year recognition period will last until November 22, 2024. This means that behavior that is in line with the foreign exchange Global Code will tend to indicate that a person subject to the FCA's Senior Managers and Certification Regime (SM&CR) is meeting their obligation to observe proper standards of market conduct under the FCA Principles for Business. The majority of the interbank market is made up of the 30 largest

Over the counter	Yes.	Trading in wholesale interbank spot foreign exchange is facilitated by a multivenue direct and intermediated market structure. A large number of trading platforms attract liquidity from wholesale institutions authorized by the Prudential Regulation Authority and the FCA.
Brokerage	Yes.	The interbank market actively trades via brokers. Brokerage firms offer voice and electronic execution and provide multiclient trading venues.
Market making	Yes.	Many participants are market makers in the foreign exchange markets.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The forward exchange market for contracts falls outside the scope of financial instruments for the purpose of MiFID-based regulation where it amounts to a means of payment as set out in Article 10 of the U.K. version of the Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No. 2017/565 of April 25, 2016. The BOE participates in the forward foreign exchange market for reserves management and customer banking.

Three considerations are currently specified: plurality of the media, financial stability, and maintaining in the U.K. the capability to combat and to mitigate the effects of public health emergencies. Under Section 58 of the Enterprise Act, ministers may add considerations with parliamentary approval. Use of the intervention powers means the competition authorities must consider the public interest issue identified by the minister in addition to competition issues raised by the merger. Ministers are bound by the findings of the competition authorities on the competition issues raised by the case, but decide whether a merger should be cleared, cleared subject to conditions, or blocked on the grounds of the specified public interest consideration. There are statutory timetables for considering a case and reaching decisions. Effective January 4, 2022, the National Security and Investment Act 2021 is the basis for the U.K.'s national security screening system for acquisitions of control over qualifying entities (such as businesses) and qualifying assets (land, physical assets, and intellectual property). The Act applies to all qualifying acquisitions of control, regardless of the nationality of the acquirer. Certain acquisitions within 17 sectors of the economy (specified in "Notifiable Acquisition Regulations") are subject to mandatory notification and clearance requirements before they can take place. Other acquisitions (including those in the wider economy) can be voluntarily notified to receive a decision from the U.K. government about whether they will be "called in" for a full national security assessment. There is a statutory timetable – both for the initial screening of notifications and for full national security assessments. At the end of a national security assessment, the U.K. government must either issue a "final notification," in effect clearing the acquisition and confirming no further action will be taken under the Act, or make a "final order," imposing conditions on the acquisition to address the national security risk. This could include, as a last resort, blocking or unwinding an acquisition. The Deputy Prime Minister in the Cabinet Office is the quasi-judicial decision maker for all cases, and is supported by the Investment Security Unit. Businesses, investors, advisers, and others can contact the Unit to discuss current or future acquisitions that may be subject to the Act. Criminal and civil sanctions are available in the event of non-compliance. In addition, controls apply to the following: (1) non-EU investment in EU-based airlines is capped at 49% to ensure that the controlling stake remains within the EU; exceptions are allowed but require a signed agreement between the EU and the non-EU country; (2) investment in certain broadcasting licenses (including, in particular, commercial television, teletext, and radio licenses) other than by nationals of, or enterprises originating in, EU member countries; (3) acquisition of U.K. flag vessels, except through an enterprise incorporated in the U.K.; and (4) to the extent that under EC Directive No. 85/611, a depository of a UCITS must have its registered office either in the same EU country as that of the enterprise or be established in the EU country if its registered office is in another EU country. Restrictions apply to operations between residents of the Channel Islands and nonresidents: (1) Acquisition in Alderney of real property by non-EU nationals and enterprises from non-EU countries requires authorization unless the investor is forming or investing in a land-owning company. (2) Ownership in Sark of tenements is reserved for British nationals. Purchases of real estate in Jersey depend on economic and social needs tests or acquisition through the purchase of shares in a property holding company.

The required deposit is based on the average of reported eligible liabilities over a six-month period in excess of the equivalent of £600 million. This rule applies to building societies as well as to banks. The Bank consulted CRD payers in 2021 on the proposal of replacing the CRD scheme with a levy. This proposal to replace the CRD scheme with a levy to raise the funds to meet the costs of the BOE's policy functions was included in the financial services bill presented to parliament in 2023. Under expected timelines, the CRD scheme will continue until March 1, 2024, when the scheme will be replaced by a levy.
On resident assets and liabilities	Yes.	If the sum of an institution's overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position exceeds a 2% threshold of own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk by multiplying the net open position by 8%. This requirement is applied to all firms and is reported via Common Reporting.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.	If the sum of an institution's overall net foreign exchange position and its net gold position exceeds a 2% threshold of own funds, the institution must calculate an own funds requirement for foreign exchange risk by multiplying the net open position by 8%. This requirement is applied to all firms and is reported via Common Reporting.
Provisions specific to institutional investors	Yes.
Insurance companies	Yes.	U.K. insurers are subject to on-shored Solvency II regulation and are therefore subject to risk-based capital requirements to cover the risk of loss of own funds over a one-year period to the 99.5% confidence level. In addition to capital requirements, firms must ensure that their investments are consistent with the Prudent Person Principle, a qualitative set of risk management requirements. Smaller U.K. firms are subject to a different regulatory framework. This different regime applies to almost all direct insurance firms that fall below the S II Article 4 thresholds (and which therefore have less than £5M annual premium income), and to some special cases such as Pool Re. Most of these very small firms are mutual friendly societies writing life and health insurance business. These firms generally have fairly simple business plans, are not seeking to grow significantly in size, and are relatively risk adverse.

U.K. insurers are subject to on-shored Solvency II regulation and are therefore subject to capital requirements and the Prudent Person Principle. The most relevant requirement of the Prudent Person Principle in this case is the requirement that assets backing technical provisions (insurance liabilities) are invested in a manner appropriate to the nature and duration of the liabilities.
Pension funds	No.	The U.K. uses the Prudent Person Principle: There are no explicit quantitative restrictions on pension funds' investments. Firms that manage personal or stakeholder pensions are subject to FCA authorization and FCA Handbook requirements and Prudential Regulation Authority Rulebook requirements. There are also occupational pension schemes which are the regulatory responsibility of the Pensions Regulator and the restrictions imposed by the Occupational Pension Schemes (Investment) Regulations 2005 apply.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.	There are no explicit limits on the amount of assets an investment firm may hold in the form of foreign exchange products or that must be held locally. However, investment firms, including firms executing client orders, managing portfolios, and dealing on their own behalf, are subject to risk requirements comprising foreign exchange components and own funds requirements relating to foreign exchange. A new prudential regime for MiFID investment firms be as of January 1, 2021, including the rules contained in the FCA's prudential sourcebook for MiFID investment firms (MIFIDPRU). A key provision is MIFIDPRU 4.12.2R – this obligation captures any positions in foreign exchange (see MIFIDPRU 4.11.1G). For non-MiFID investment firms, there are foreign exchange-related requirements in the Interim Sourcebook for Investment Business of the FCA's Handbook of rules and guidance (IPRU-INV). Authorized retail investment funds (UCITS and non-UCITS retail schemes) are subject to limits on investment in certain types of financial instruments pursuant to Chapter 5 of the FCA Handbook (FCA COLL) sourcebook and in chapter 15 of the same sourcebook in the case of 'long term asset funds'. There are also investment restrictions under the U.K.'s qualified investor scheme regime pursuant to Chapter 8 of the FCA COLL sourcebook. Other such restrictions arise in the case of fund types in the form of the requirements of the U.K. versions of the following regulations, which enable continuity in law application after EU law ceased to apply to the U.K.: The Money Market Funds Regulation (EU) No. 2017/1131, the U.K. version of the European long-term investment funds Regulation (EU) No. 2015/760, the U.K. version of the European venture capital funds Regulation (EU) No. 345/2013, and the U.K. version of the European social entrepreneurship fund Regulation (EU) No. 346/2013. As regards other collective investment funds (not traded on trading venues), there are generally no regulatory limits on their investments in securities issued by nonresidents, investment portfolios held abroad, and asset and liability composition. A collective investment fund may also impose its own limits according to its prospectus and investment objectives, and managers of AIFs may be subject to the retained EU law requirements in respect of the AIFMD (EU) No. 2011/61. More generally, where an open-ended or closed-ended fund is admitted to trading on a trading venue, such as a stock exchange, admission to trading and trading in the fund is subject to the rules of the venue. Where the venue is a trading venue in the form of a regulated market, multilateral trading facility or organized trading situation in and in relation to Syria; certain persons subject to sanctions pursuant to the Protecting Europe's Energy Security Act; certain persons contributing to the situation in Hong Kong SAR; and certain persons engaged in specified harmful foreign activities of the Government of the Russian Federation. Further, Treasury prohibits the purchase or sale of publicly traded securities, or publicly traded securities that are derivative of or are designed to provide investment exposure to, such securities—according to certain timelines—of persons identified on the Non-SDN Chinese Military-Industrial Complex Companies List. Treasury also prohibits, under Executive Order 13662, the provision of financing for, and other dealings in new debt of longer than 14-day maturity (Directive 1), 30-day maturity (Directive 3), 60-day maturity (Directive 2), or new equity (Directive 1), persons identified on the Sectoral Sanctions Identification List. Treasury prohibits US banks from participating in the primary or secondary market for ruble- or non-ruble-denominated bonds issued by the Russian sovereign or lending ruble or non-ruble-denominated funds to the Russian sovereign (Directive 1A under Executive Order 14024 and the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1991 [CBW Act Directive]). Treasury maintains correspondent or payable-through account and transaction processing restrictions on certain Russia-related financial institutions (Directive 2 under Executive Order 14024). Treasury prohibits certain transactions in new debt or new equity of certain Russia-related entities (Directive 3 under Executive Order 14024). Treasury also prohibits transactions involving the CB, National Wealth Fund, or the MOF of the Russian Federation (Directive 4 under Executive Order 14024). Restrictions on transactions imposed by Treasury are specified under the following: (1) Cuban Assets Control Regulations, 31 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) part 515; (2) Iranian Assets Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 535; Iranian Transactions and Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 560; Iranian Financial Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 561; Iranian Human Rights Abuses Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 562 and Executive Orders 13606 (April 22, 2012) and 13608 (May 1, 2012) and Subtitle D of Title XII of Public Law No. 112-239; Executive Order 13846 (August 6, 2018), Executive Order 13871 (May 8, 2019), Executive Order 13876 (June 24, 2019), and Executive Order 13902 (January 10, 2020); and Executive Order 13949 (September 21, 2020); (3) Darfur Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 546; (4) Syrian Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 542; Caesar Syria Civilian Protection Act of 2019, Public Law No. 116-92, and Executive Order 13894 (October 17, 2019); (5) Zimbabwe Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 541; (6) Belarus Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 548, and Executive Order 13405 (June 20, 2006) and Executive Order 14038 (August 9, 2021); (7) Western Balkans Stabilization Regulations, 31 CFR part 588, and Executive Orders 13219 (June 26, 2001), 13304 (May 23, 2003), and 14033 (June 8, 2021); (8) Foreign Interference in US Elections Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 579, and Executive Order 13848 (September 12, 2018); (9) Terrorism List Government Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 596; (10) Foreign Terrorist Organizations Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 597; (11) Global Terrorism Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 594; (12) WMD Proliferators Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 544; (13) Narcotics Trafficking Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 536; (14) Foreign Narcotics Kingpin Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 598; (15) Democratic Republic of the Congo Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 547, and Executive Order 13671 (July 8, 2014); (16) Iraq Stabilization and Insurgency Sanctions Regulations, 31 CFR part 576; (17) Lebanon

Treasury administers measures imposed against sanctions targets, including those related to blocked accounts. The assets of many individuals, entities, and some governments are blocked, and most transactions with them are prohibited, pursuant to sanctions, including, for example, specified foreign persons and foreign persons determined to have committed or to pose a significant risk of committing acts of terrorism that threaten national security, foreign policy, the US economy, or the security of US nationals; persons owned or controlled by, or acting for or on behalf of, terrorists or their supporters; persons providing assistance, financial, material, or technological support for, or financial or other services to or in support of, terrorists or acts of terrorism; and persons otherwise associated with any of the foregoing persons. Certain funds and other properties blocked under these sanctions programs will remain blocked until provisions are made to address claims or encumbrances with respect to such funds and property. Treasury also (1) prohibits imports and exports of rough diamonds that are not controlled through the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme (under the Rough Diamonds Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 592) and (2) prohibits imports from certain entities that proliferate nuclear, biological, or chemical weapons, under the WMD Trade Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 539. The United States has introduced the following measures on payments and transfers for current

Free floating	Yes.	The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are free floating; the exchange rate of the US dollar is determined freely in the foreign exchange market. Foreign exchange interventions are not formally ruled out in the United States, but they are rarely used. The secretary of the Treasury is responsible for the formulation and implementation of international monetary and financial policy, including foreign exchange market intervention policy. The Federal Reserve (Fed) has separate legal authority to engage in foreign exchange operations, which are conducted in close and continuous consultation and cooperation with the Treasury to ensure consistency with US international monetary and financial policy. The Treasury and the Fed have closely coordinated their foreign exchange operations since early 1962, when the Fed commenced such operations at the request of the Treasury. Operations are conducted through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as fiscal agent of the United States and as the operating arm of the Federal Reserve System. Interventions are announced when they occur, and the size of the interventions is reported in the Treasury and Federal Reserve Foreign Exchange Operations quarterly bulletin. US authorities last intervened in the foreign exchange market in March 2011, following the earthquake in Japan, in a coordinated G7 effort to sell Japanese yen. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York publishes quarterly reports on Treasury and Federal Reserve foreign exchange operations.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	Monetary policy aims at maintaining the long-term growth of the monetary and credit aggregates commensurate with the economy's long-term potential to increase production, so as to promote maximum employment, stable prices, and moderate long-term interest rates. The Federal Open Market Committee's (FOMC) longer-term goals, include targeting inflation that averages 2% over time, as measured by the annual change in the price index for personal consumption expenditures. In setting monetary policy, the FOMC will seek to mitigate deviations in inflation from its longer-term goal and employment shortfalls from the FOMC's assessment of its maximum level. FOMC meeting minutes are published online.

Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants. The Fed's participation in the interbank market is not limited, but it does not regularly intervene in the foreign exchange market.
Over the counter	Yes.	The foreign exchange market in the United States operates primarily over the counter. The key participants are the large money center banks, investment and insurance firms, branches and subsidiaries of foreign banks, brokerage firms, and principal trading firms. Some of these participants serve as market makers. A fraction of total foreign exchange trading takes place on futures and options exchanges; most trading takes place through direct dealing, on electronic trading systems using either multibank dealing or single-bank proprietary platforms, or through electronic brokerage systems.
Brokerage	Yes.	Some market participants are brokerage firms.
Market making	Yes.	Some market participants are market makers.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The Fed does not participate in the foreign exchange derivatives market.

Negative list	Yes.	Imports from the Islamic Republic of Iran, DPRK, the Crimea region of Ukraine, and the Donetsk People's Republic or Luhansk People's Republic regions (or other covered regions) of Ukraine; petroleum or petroleum products of Syrian origin; and charcoal of Somali origin are prohibited unless specifically authorized by the US government. The importation of rough diamonds is prohibited unless controlled by the Kimberley Process Certification Scheme. In addition, the importation of most goods and services from Cuba is prohibited.
Open general licenses	Yes.	With certain exceptions, general licenses authorize, among other things, the importation of goods or services into the United States for the conduct of official business by missions of the Islamic Republic of Iran to international organizations in the United States and the Iranian Interests Section of the Embassy of Pakistan in the United States. There are also broad exemptions for the importation of informational materials. This is not an exhaustive list of general licenses available under these sanctions programs, and many of these general licenses are subject to various conditions and restrictions that must be satisfied to comply with the terms of the license. The general licenses can be found either in the regulations referred to in Section II.B.1 above and/or on the website (listed in the References column) within the individual sanctions programs.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	No.

Export licenses	Yes.	The Department of Commerce controls exports and reexports of dual-use and less-sensitive military commodities, technology, and software for reasons of national security, foreign policy, nonproliferation, and short supply. Except for shipment to US territories and possessions, which are treated as part of the United States, most exports from the United States are subject to the Export Administration Regulations and to varying license requirements depending on destination, end use, and end user. The Department of Commerce Bureau of Industry and Security administers and enforces the Export Administration Regulations. Several agencies of the US government maintain export controls on products other than those subject to the Export Administration Regulations, including the Departments of State and Energy and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.
Without quotas	Yes.	In accordance with 22 US Code 2778-2780 of the Arms Export Control Act (AECA) and the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (22 CFR parts 120–130), the Directorate of Defense Trade Controls in the Department of State is charged with controlling exports and temporary imports of defense articles and defense services covered by the United States Munitions List in the International Traffic in Arms Regulations. Generally, ammunition for military use may be exported only under a license issued by the Directorate of Defense Trade Controls.

On collective investment securities	Yes.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Public offers made in the United States by foreign investment companies are prohibited under the Investment Company Act, unless the SEC issues an order to permit such foreign investment companies to make a public offer. To issue such an order, the SEC must find that, by reason of special circumstances or arrangements, it is both legally and practically feasible to enforce the provisions of the Investment Company Act of 1940 against the foreign investment company, and that the issuance of the order is otherwise consistent with the public interest and the protection of investors.
Purchase abroad by residents	No.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	No.	Offers and sales of securities outside the United States by residents generally are not required to be registered under the Securities Act of 1933 if covered by Regulation S or other exemption from such registration as applicable.

Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	Controls apply to investment transactions with or involving persons subject to sanctions.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	Controls apply to investments that may be restricted by laws on inward direct investment and on establishments in (1) atomic/nuclear energy; (2) broadcasting (radio and television), common carrier, aeronautical en route or aeronautical fixed radio station licenses in accordance with 47 US Code Section 310, except as authorized under 47 US Code Section 310(b)(4); (3) air transport; (4) coastal and domestic shipping (including dredging and salvaging in coastal waters and transporting offshore supplies from a point within the United States to an offshore drilling rig or platform on the continental shelf); (5) ocean thermal energy, hydroelectric power, geothermal steam, or related resources on federal lands; mining on federal lands, the outer continental shelf, or the deep seabed; fishing in the "exclusive economic zone;" and deepwater ports, except through a company incorporated in the United States; and (6) branches of foreign insurance companies, to the extent that they are not permitted to provide surety bonds for US government contracts. Investments involving ownership interest in banks are subject to federal and state banking laws and regulations. Controls apply to investment transactions with persons subject to sanctions. Section 721 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 authorizes the interagency Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States to review transactions that could give control of a US business to a foreign person ("covered transactions") to determine their effect on national security. It further authorizes the president, on the committee's recommendation based on its investigation, to suspend or prohibit any covered transaction that threatens national security.
Controls on liquidation of direct investment	No.
Controls on real estate transactions	Yes.
Purchase abroad by residents	No.
Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Ownership of agricultural land by foreign nationals or by corporations in which foreign owners have an interest of at least 10% or substantial control must be reported to the Department of Agriculture. Certain states in the United States impose various controls on foreign nationals' purchases of land within their borders.

Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	No.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.
Pension funds	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Most private sector US-based pension plans are subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) of 1974. Except with respect to securities issued by a plan's sponsor (or an affiliate) and real estate leased to a sponsor (or an affiliate), ERISA does not impose quantitative limits on the percentage of plan assets that may be invested in particular types of assets. Instead, ERISA establishes a set of general principles (for example, prudence and diversification) that plan fiduciaries must observe in making and holding plan investments. ERISA also prohibits any fiduciary from maintaining the indicia of ownership of any assets of a plan outside the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, except as authorized by regulations issued by the secretary of labor.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	No.
Investment firms and collective investment funds	Yes.	As is the case with domestic securities, foreign securities must have a "ready market" or their value is deducted in full when computing a broker-dealer's regulatory "net capital." Securities that are listed on many major foreign securities exchanges are considered to have a ready market. In addition, securities that have a ready market are subject to haircut deductions that vary depending on the type of security. To account for currency risk, an additional haircut charge is required for securities denominated in a foreign currency. However, broker-dealers generally may reduce or eliminate the additional currency risk haircut charge by holding an offsetting position denominated in the same currency. See Securities Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-1, 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1. In addition, broker-dealers holding balances of foreign currency are subject to certain haircut deductions to account for currency risk. Broker-dealers apply a lower haircut for certain major foreign currencies, and securities denominated in those currencies, and a higher haircut for other foreign currencies and securities denominated in those foreign currencies. See Securities Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-1, 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1. A broker-dealer may pledge certain foreign sovereign debt and foreign currencies as collateral when borrowing fully paid securities from a customer. A certain amount of additional collateralization is required when the securities or currency that is pledged differs from the securities that are borrowed. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 47683 (April 16, 2003). For purposes of this response, the term "broker-dealer" includes any entity registered with the US SEC as a broker or dealer.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Although broker-dealers are not subject to a quantitative limit on the number or value of securities issued by nonresidents, foreign securities must have a "ready market" to have value for broker-dealer regulatory "net capital" purposes. Securities that are listed on many major foreign securities exchanges are considered to have a ready market.

Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Although broker-dealers are not quantitatively limited as to the portion of their portfolio that can be held abroad, broker-dealers that hold securities abroad generally must have the foreign locations approved by the SEC. Securities that are listed on many major foreign securities exchanges are considered to have a ready market. See Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-3(c), 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1(c).
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	No.	Broker-dealers are not required to hold a minimum portion of their portfolio locally.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	To account for currency risk, an additional net capital charge is required for securities denominated in a foreign currency. However, broker-dealers generally may reduce or eliminate the additional currency risk haircut charge by holding an offsetting position denominated in the same currency. See Securities Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3-1 (c)(2)(vi), 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1 (c)(2)(vi). In addition, broker-dealers holding balances of foreign currency are subject to certain deductions to account for currency risk. Broker-dealers apply a lower deduction for certain major foreign currencies and securities denominated in those currencies and a higher deduction for other foreign currencies and securities denominated in those foreign currencies. See Securities Exchange Act Rule No. 15c3 -1(c)(2)(vi), 17 CFR § 240.15c3-1(c)(2)(vi).

Digital Currencies and Crypto Assets

Circulation of domestic central bank digital currency (CBDC)—retail and/or wholesale	No.	The United States does not have any central bank digital currency (CBDC), whether wholesale or retail, in circulation. For retail, this means that there is no digital CB liability that can be held by nonbank firms or individuals. Reserves held by banks at the Federal Reserve are digital, but the infrastructure supporting the use of reserves does not use distributed ledger technology (DLT) or have some other characteristics often associated with a CBDC.
Retail	No.
Wholesale	No.
CBDC launched by another jurisdiction in circulation—retail and/or wholesale	Yes.	If a crypto-asset is a "security" under the US federal securities laws, then the US federal securities laws will apply with respect to the crypto-asset itself, as well as to crypto-asset service providers (and others) engaging in activities relating to the crypto-asset. The US federal securities laws also will apply with respect to any derivatives on or based on the value of a crypto-asset that is a security, as well as to crypto-asset service providers (and others) engaging in activities relating to those derivatives. Under the Securities Act of 1933 (Securities Act), any offer and sale (including any resale) of a crypto-asset that is a security must be made by filing a registration statement under the Securities Act with the US SEC or be conducted pursuant to an available exemption from registration under the Securities Act. Offerings of derivatives on crypto-assets that are securities may be subject to different registration and exemption provisions under the Securities Act. The registration requirements apply to any primary offer or sale of the crypto-asset that is a security by the issuer, an underwriter or other participant in the offering, and to any subsequent resale of such securities, including transactions on trading platforms. Exemptions from the registration requirements of the Securities Act might be available for primary offerings of crypto-assets that are securities and for resales of such crypto-assets, if the conditions of those exemptions are met. Offerings of crypto-assets that are securities that are made on a registered basis under the Securities Act require the filing of a registration statement (which includes a prospectus) with the SEC, and the registration statement must be declared effective by the SEC before any sales of the securities can be made. A prospectus included in the registration statement must include disclosure about the material terms of the transaction and the business of the issuer, including financial statements. In offerings conducted in reliance on exemptions from the registration requirements of the Securities Act, the disclosures available to investors vary depending on the specific exemption being relied on. Certain exemptions provide issuers with discretion in determining what to disclose to investors, while other exemptions require specific disclosures. The issuer of a crypto-asset that is a security may become subject to the periodic and current reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Exchange Act). These reporting requirements arise either because, depending on the characteristics of the crypto-asset that is a security or where it is traded, among other factors, the issuer of a crypto-asset that is a security (1) is required to register the crypto-asset as a class of security under the Exchange Act or (2) has registered an offering of the crypto-asset under the Securities Act. In these cases, an entity must file certain reports with the SEC, including annual, periodic, and current reports. These reports are available to the public through the SEC's EDGAR database. These entities also may be subject to other Exchange Act disclosure requirements, such as those relating to proxy solicitations and tender offers. All securities offerings and transactions, whether registered or exempt, are subject to the antifraud provisions of the US federal securities laws. The SEC enforces the US federal securities laws through civil and administrative proceedings. Private parties also can bring actions under certain provisions of the US federal securities laws. Also, there are remedies available to investors if the offerings are not registered with the SEC under the Securities Act or not made pursuant to an available exemption from such requirements. For example, if a purchaser were sold a security in violation of the registration provisions of the Securities Act, the purchaser may be entitled to recover the consideration paid for such security plus interest (minus income received thereon) or damages if the purchaser no longer owns the security. US institutions that deal in these foreign CBDCs have the same AML reporting obligations to which they are currently obligated under the Bank Secrecy Act.

Banking organizations are neither prohibited nor discouraged from providing banking services to customers of any specific class or type, as permitted by law or regulation. However, a bank must at all times conduct its business and exercise its powers—including with respect to crypto-asset-related activities—with due regard to safety and soundness. See 12 U.S.C. § 1831p-1; 12 CFR Part 30, Appx. A; 12 CFR Part 208, Appx. D-1; 12 CFR Part 364, Appx. A. In 2023, the US federal banking agencies (FBAs) (that is, the Federal Reserve Board (FRB), the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC)) issued the following with respect to crypto-assets: On January 3, the US FBAs issued a joint statement on the risks to banking organizations associated with crypto-assets and crypto-asset sector participants. On February 23, the FBAs issued a statement focused on the liquidity risks presented by certain sources of funding from crypto-asset-related entities. On January 27, the FRB issued a policy statement clarifying that, in general, state member banks and their subsidiaries may engage as principal in only those activities that are permissible for national banks—in each case, subject to the terms, conditions, and limitations placed on national banks with respect to the activity—unless the activity is permissible for state banks under federal law. See 12 CFR 208.112. The preamble to the policy statement noted that the FRB has not identified any authority permitting national banks to hold most crypto-assets; therefore, the FRB would presumptively prohibit state member banks from holding most crypto-assets as principal. The preamble also notes that nothing in the policy statement would prohibit a state member bank from providing safekeeping services for crypto-assets in a custodial capacity (that is, a non-principal activity) if such activities are conducted in a safe and sound manner and in compliance with law. US institutions that deal in these foreign CBDCs have the same AML reporting obligations to which they are currently obligated under the Bank Secrecy Act.

See 12 CFR 208.112. The preamble noted that the issuance of dollar-denominated tokens (for example, stablecoins) using DLT by national banks is subject to certain conditions by the OCC, including a supervisory nonobjection requirement; as a result, the FRB expects that state member banks would similarly receive a supervisory nonobjection from FRB supervisors before issuing stablecoins. On August 8, the Federal Reserve published a procedural document (SR/CA 23-08) describing the process by which a state member bank may request a supervisory nonobjection before conducting certain activities (for example, issuing, holding, or transacting) as principal involving "dollar tokens" using DLT or similar technologies to facilitate payments. With respect to stablecoins, SEC staff are looking closely at so-called "stablecoin" projects and the federal securities laws implications that they could present. Consistent with the above, whether a particular crypto-asset is a security depends on whether it falls into the definition of security under the federal securities laws. In analyzing the appropriate characterization of a stablecoin, simply calling a crypto-asset a "payment means" or "currency" or "stablecoin" does not mean that it is not a security. Whether a particular transaction involves the offer and sale of a security—regardless of the terminology used to identify the digital asset—will depend on the facts and circumstances, including the economic realities of the transaction. Thus, whether a particular crypto-asset called a stablecoin implicates the federal securities laws depends on the particular structure and arrangements of the so-called "stablecoin." While the publicly available information about many of the outstanding stablecoins makes claims about their structures and the rights of the holders of such stablecoins, much of the information is not verifiable from public sources. Consequently, additional examination and information would be needed before a conclusion could be reached about the specific characterization of any particular stablecoin.

Controls on crypto exchanges and trading platforms	Yes.	If a crypto-asset is a "security" under the US federal securities laws, then the US federal securities laws will apply with respect to the crypto-asset itself, as well as to crypto-asset service providers (and others) engaging in activities relating to the crypto-asset. The US federal securities laws also will apply with respect to any derivatives on or based on the value of a crypto-asset that is a security, as well as to crypto-asset service providers (and others) engaging in activities relating to those derivatives. For example, the following types of entities would be subject to regulation by the SEC in connection with the crypto-asset or activity: issuers, exchanges, broker-dealers, clearing agencies, investment companies, investment advisers, and transfer agents, among others. Depending on the particular services provided by a crypto-asset service provider with respect to crypto-assets that are securities, the crypto-asset service provider may be required to register with the SEC in some capacity, unless there is an available exemption from the applicable registration requirements. For example, it may be required to register under the Exchange Act as a national securities exchange or broker-dealer or under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (Advisers Act) as an investment adviser. Depending on the facts and circumstances, an entity holding, investing, or trading in crypto-assets that are securities may be required to register with the SEC as an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940. Depending on the nature of the business, crypto exchanges and platform types may have regulatory obligations as Money Services Business.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2022.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Under Article 17 of Law No. 17,835 of September 23, 2004, on Strengthening the Control and Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing, financial intermediation institutions are required to inform the Central Bank of Uruguay's (CBU's) FIU of assets linked to (1) persons identified as terrorists or as belonging to organizations associated with terrorism on the relevant lists prepared by the UN and (2) persons declared terrorists by final decision of a national or foreign court of law. In addition, Article 6 authorizes the FIU to prevent all transactions giving rise to reasonable suspicion of a link with criminal organizations related to money laundering, as described in Article 17, from being carried out for a period of 72 hours. The law further provides that the FIU's decision must be communicated immediately to the criminal courts, which will determine whether the assets should be frozen without notice.
Other security restrictions	No.

Floating	Yes.	The de jure and de facto exchange rate arrangements are floating. The exchange rate of the peso is determined on the basis of supply and demand, although the CBU reserves the right to intervene to cushion abrupt changes in a concentrated market of few transactions. The intervention currency is the US dollar. The CB can intervene in the exchange markets (spot as well as forward and future markets) to smooth excess exchange rate volatility without affecting its fundamentals-driven trends. The CBU publishes information on intervention on its website on a daily basis, a few minutes after the market closes.
Free floating
Official exchange rate	No.	The exchange rate is freely determined by the market. The end-of-day official exchange rate is the weighted average of all spot operations undertaken in the interbank market (BEVSA, Bolsa Electrónica de Valores del Uruguay S.A., Electronic Stock Exchange).

Government and Central Bank	Yes.	The MPC (COPOM in Spanish) consists of the three Board of Directors as members and three other senior officers appointed by the Board according to their specific tasks in the monetary policy process. The Committee serves the following functions: (1) provides advice to the Board for determining monetary policy guidelines and parameters and (2) monitors and evaluates the money market, the short-term macroeconomic situation, and the financial program. COPOM decisions are taken by majority. Furthermore, there is the Macroeconomic Coordination Committee (CCM in Spanish), which

Point target
Target with tolerance band
Band/Range	Yes.	The inflation target band at the 24-month horizon is 3%–6% effective September 1, 2022.
Target measure	Yes.
CPI	Yes.	One of the main targets of the CB is price stability, to preserve the currency value—the purchasing power of the Uruguayan peso. To achieve this, our institution implements an inflation-targeting regime through which it undertakes to make every necessary effort to keep inflation and inflation expectations within the target range established by the CCM.
Core inflation
Target horizon	Yes.	The target horizon is 2 years (24 months).
Operating target (policy rate)	Yes.
Policy rate	Yes.	Current monetary policy rate (MPR) is the overnight rate.
Target corridor band	No.	There is no explicit band. The CB objective is that the monthly average rate (weighted by the amounts traded) was located in an environment of +/ 25 bps with respect to the MPR.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The peso is freely traded, primarily on the Electronic Securities Exchange of Uruguay (BEVSA) and Uruguay Futures Exchange (UFEX), although there is also an OTC market through exchange brokers. Formal exchanges in the foreign currency market must accept offers to buy or sell foreign currency with a minimum price fluctuation of Ur$0.01 of a preexisting offer, if the counterparty is dealing in pesos. Authorized intermediaries may freely determine the bid-ask spread and exchange commissions with their customers (Circular No. 2095). Daily OTC transactions involving financial institutions are compiled and published by BEVSA and UFEX. (Articles 155.7 to 155.9 of CBU Operations Manual).
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Institutions authorized to operate in the foreign exchange market are banks, finance houses, foreign financial institutions, financial intermediation cooperatives, financial services firms, exchange houses, pension funds, and certain insurance companies. Eleven banks (including 2 state-owned), one finance house, one financial intermediation cooperative, 19 financial services firms, 48 exchange houses, 5 pension funds, and 5 insurance companies are allowed to participate in this market. These institutions are supervised by the Superintendency of Financial Services.

Average daily turnover is USD 22,2 million (data up to October 31).
Over the counter	Yes.	The market operates over the counter. Daily OTC reports are provided by BEVSA and UFEX but include transactions by authorized financial institutions. (Articles 155.7 to 155.9 of CBU Operations Manual).
Brokerage	Yes.	Participants may also operate in the OTC market, through brokers.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The CBU established a market for forward purchases and sales of US dollars. The CBU resumed operations on the US dollar forward market on November 3, 2009, being the main counterparty in all operations. In December 2010, it began operating with foreign exchange futures. These are standardized daily settlement contracts. Currently, the CBU trades futures and forwards (with and without delivery). Interbank swap operations have not yet been implemented. On December 3, 2018, the regulation authorized specialized investors to participate in the foreign exchange market. These are

Reserve requirements	Yes.	Mandatory reserve ratios for banks, financial intermediation cooperatives, financial houses, retail banks, and retail financial intermediation cooperatives depend on their tenor, currency, and type of client (resident/nonresident). The reserve position in pesos, foreign currency, and indexed units (linked to CPI) are based on the daily average for the current month, including weekends and holidays. The domestic currency and the indexed unit are considered jointly. Effective August 1, 2023, according to Circular No. 2435, reserve requirement in domestic currency earns interest at 60% of the MPR (previously 50% of MPR, Communication No. 2020/0290); reserve requirement in foreign currency earns interest at the MPR minus 0.50% (previously 0% interest for deposits in USD and MPR minus 0.60% for other currencies, Circular No. 2342). No interest is earned

Open foreign exchange position limits	Yes.	Banks, finance houses, and financial intermediation cooperatives may not have a net open position (assets excluding fixed assets minus liabilities) in foreign currency exceeding 150% of their net worth minus fixed assets. Excluding financial derivatives, the net open position may not exceed 170% of net worth minus fixed assets. For this purpose, the definition of fixed assets includes claims more than two years overdue that have not been yet provisioned, investments in companies other than portfolio investment, property, plant and equipment, and intangible assets.
On resident assets and liabilities	Yes.	The limits on foreign currency positions do not distinguish between assets and liabilities based on residence.
On nonresident assets and liabilities	Yes.	The limits on foreign currency positions do not distinguish between assets and liabilities based on residence.
Provisions specific to institutional investors	Yes.
Insurance companies	Yes.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	Yes.	Investment in foreign securities rated at least “investment grade” by internationally recognized risk rating agencies and supervised by the appropriate authority in the country of origin may not exceed 30% of the sum of minimum capital requirement plus nonpension reserves.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Investment in foreign securities rated at least “international investment grade” by internationally recognized risk rating agencies and supervised by the appropriate authority in the country of origin may not exceed 30% of the sum of minimum capital requirement plus nonpension reserves.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	No minimums are expressly established by the current laws and regulations. However, of the maximum for investment in foreign securities, set at 30%, at least 70% must be held locally.
Currency-matching regulations on assets/liabilities composition	Yes.	Insurance companies must match assets with liabilities in each currency. Nonpension obligations derived from insurance and reinsurance contracts payable in foreign currency, or in currency with a readjustment clause, must be covered by investments in the same currencies, with the same readjustment clauses or, failing that, in other currencies authorized by the Superintendency of Financial Services.

Pension funds	Yes.	For foreign currency, the same-day buy and sell ceiling for pension funds is 0.4% of assets or the equivalent of US$8 million. However, if 0.4% of assets is less than US$4 million, pension funds may trade up to that amount daily. Trading the same instrument on the same day is limited to 1.5% of the pension fund assets for the previous day.
Limits (max.) on securities issued by nonresidents	No.
Limits (max.) on investment portfolio held abroad	Yes.	Pension funds are forbidden to invest in securities issued abroad other than fixed-income securities issued by multilateral lending institutions or highly rated countries. Investing in such assets is subject to limits of 30%, 25%, or 20% of total assets depending on the fund profile, effective May 10, 2023. Previously, it was 15% for all fund profiles. Moreover, pension funds can invest up to 10% of total assets in financial derivatives issued by Uruguayan or foreign institutions with a high international credit rating with the sole objective of hedging risks.
Limits (min.) on investment portfolio held locally	Yes.	No minimum is explicitly set on investment portfolio to be held locally. Notwithstanding, effective May 10, 2023, the limits of 30%, 25%, and 20% on investment portfolio held abroad impose a minimum of portfolios to be held locally of 70%, 75%, and 80% depending on the fund profile

Crawl-like arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The exchange rate is determined based on foreign currency supply and demand on Uzbekistan's currency exchange. The Central Bank of the Republic of Uzbekistan (CBU) is a direct buyer of precious metals produced in Uzbekistan (gold and silver), acting as supplier in the foreign exchange market in amounts equivalent to the value of precious metals purchased from producers. The CBU also intervenes in the foreign exchange market to smooth out undue short-term volatility. Foreign exchange sales by the CBU in the foreign exchange market are driven exclusively by the aim of sterilizing additional liquidity from the CBU purchases of precious metals. The exchange rate of the sum to the US dollar is used as an operational benchmark because the vast majority of the country's trading operations are carried out in US dollars. Data on the CBU interventions are published on the CBU website in quarterly "Survey of the Domestic Exchange Market" publications. From March 2022 through June 2022, the exchange rate increased its flexibility while still being managed. Beginning in June 2022, the sum has followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar. Accordingly, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified twice: (1) to other managed from crawl-like, effective March 11, 2022, and (2) to crawl-like from other managed, effective June 28, 2022.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	The official exchange rate of the sum against the US dollar is determined by the CBU on a daily basis as the weighted average exchange rate based on trading on the Currency Exchange for the previous day, and it remains in effect until the exchange rate is determined on the following day. Exchange rates of other currencies are calculated using the cross rate with respect to the US dollar on the basis of the average rate as of 3:00 p.m. Tashkent time (on the day the rate is published) from the Refinitiv system (or Bloomberg). The CBU exchange rate is used for accounting purposes, statistical and other reporting on foreign exchange operations, and calculating customs and other mandatory payments within the Republic of Uzbekistan.

Inflation-targeting framework	Yes.	As of January 1, 2021, the CBU started the transition to inflation targeting and set an initial inflation target of 5% for 2023 (as per Decree of the President of November 18, 2019, No. UP-5877). At present, the monetary policy regime can be characterized as advanced transition toward inflation targeting. Monetary policy decisions are made on the basis of forecasting and policy analysis systems (FPAS). Since 2018, the CBU oriented its monetary policy on the stability of prices in the economy. Since the start of 2020, the CBU's main objective is to lower the rate of inflation (as measured by the change in the CPI), through the implementation of its monetary policy within an inflation-targeting regime. Because of the global inflation conditions, the CBU delayed the target timeframe until 2026. Monetary policy is determined by deviations in intermediate inflation forecasts from the short-term and medium-term targets, using the new operational framework to achieve the operational goal via the management of short-term interest rates in the money market through a set of instruments introduced specifically for that purpose: - the CBU's key rate and a symmetrical interest rate corridor of 4 percentage points (overnight lending and deposit facilities, at 2 percentage points higher and lower, respectively, than the CBU's key rate, which is at the center of the corridor); - the CBU's money market operations with a term of one week at the CBU rate (deposit auctions to mop up excess liquidity); - overnight standing facilities, forming the upper and lower bounds of the interest corridor.

CPI	Yes.	The inflation target is set in terms of the headline CPI and is measured as year-on-year rate of change. The CPI is calculated by the State Committee on Statistics, based on IMF standards (using fixed weights for all types of goods and services) according to the results of the observation of prices and rates. A representative sample of 510 types of goods and services is included in observations. Of those, 170 are foodstuffs, 250 are nonfoods, and 90 are services. In calculating CPIs, a modified Laspeyres formula with annual fixed weights is used. The structure of consumer spending based on household survey data is used as weights for calculating the indices.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	In accordance with the Law of the Republic of Uzbekistan on Foreign Exchange Regulation, No. ZRU-573 of October 22, 2019, repatriation of assets in foreign trade transactions constitutes a partial or complete fulfillment of a nonresident's obligations by means of the following: receipt of money or goods (performance of work, rendering of services) against nonresident's obligations; termination of a nonresident's obligation via set-off; termination of an obligation that existed between the parties via a different obligation between the same parties that calls for a different subject or method of performance; receipt of insurance payout. In the event of a resident's assignment to another resident of a right of claim against a nonresident, the responsibility to ensure the fulfillment of repatriation of assets moves to the resident that received the right of claim. A resident (nonresident) is obliged to ensure repatriation of assets in foreign trade transactions. The Republic of Uzbekistan has procedures according to which: (1) the time period for the receipt of proceeds or the re-import of goods under export transactions must not exceed 180 days from the date a freight customs declaration is prepared under the "export" customs regime – for goods, and from the date an acceptance certificate is signed for work performed – for services (work). (2) in the event of force majeure circumstances, the time period for the receipt of proceeds in foreign exchange is extended for the duration of the force majeure circumstances, as confirmed by the competent state authority where the force majeure circumstances occurred; (3) residents that failed to repatriate foreign trade transaction assets during the period exceeding, effective March 11, 2022, 45

(previously 30) days (90 days for small business entities; previously 60 days) after the expiration of 180 days from the date of payment or export to a nonresident pay a fine to the republic budget:
(a) in the equivalent of, effective March 11, 2022, 5% (previously 10%) of the amount of non-repatriated assets if the asset repatriation is delayed by up to 365 days (previously 180 days) from the date of payment or export to a nonresident;
(b) in the equivalent of an additional, effective March 11, 2022, 10% (previously 20%) of the amount of non-repatriated assets if the asset repatriation is delayed by 365–545 days (previously 180-365 days) from the date of payment or export to a nonresident;
(c) in the equivalent of an additional, effective March 11, 2022, 35% (previously 70%) of the amount of non-repatriated assets if the asset repatriation is delayed beyond 545 days (previously 365 days) from the date of payment or export to a nonresident.

In the event of a force majeure, the asset repatriation period is extended by the force major period. The force majeure is confirmed by an authorized body in accordance with the legislation of the country where it occurred.
If insurance proceeds are received to resident accounts (in local and/or foreign currency) under an export contract insurance policy, the amount of accounts receivable under the export contract for the purposes of financial sanctions is reduced by the amount of the received insurance proceeds.

No fines are applied for a failure to repatriate foreign trade transaction assets in the following cases:
(1) during the period for the delivery of equipment and/or components under import contracts, in which the delivery periods are established at more than 180 days, depending on their technical characteristics and specific features;
(2) effective March 11, 2022, when a document is presented that is issued by an authorized body and confirms the destruction or seizure by government authorities of goods that became unusable during transportation or storage for reasons beyond the control of the parties;
(3) effective March 11, 2022, when there is no breach of deadlines established in import contracts concluded under projects implemented by resolutions by the President and Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan or in import contracts approved by the Management Committee under the implementation of product sharing agreements;
(4) if the total amount of the past-due accounts receivable on export transactions does not exceed 10% of the foreign currency earnings during the 36 months preceding the date on which the past-due accounts receivable occur;
(5) effective March 11, 2022, for the amount of repatriated assets under this Law pending the court decision in a fine application case.

Effective March 11, 2022, if the fine is paid voluntarily within 10 days proportionally to the amount of assets repatriated in foreign trade transactions within a 90-day period, the paid fine is reimbursed to the resident.
In the event of a full repatriation of assets in foreign trade operations within 90 days from the moment the court ruling takes effect the fine is reimbursed, the proceedings in the fine application case are discontinued and all enforcement measures are cancelled.

The collection of fines in excess of 20% of the amount of current

The Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014, establishes quotas and the procedure for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. Item 4 of the Regulation establishes the conditions for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. According to Item 5 of the Regulation, securities issued by nonresidents may be placed in Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), through the issuing of an Uzbek Depositary Receipt (UDR) representing the given securities. UDRs are subject to state registration by the authorized government agency.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The placement of assets by legal entities outside Uzbekistan is governed by foreign exchange regulation law. The procedure for the acquisition of securities in foreign currency by residents is established by the MOF, together with the CBU. The acquisition of securities by institutional investors is performed within the limits established by law. The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the existing practice) that investment activities above US$10,000 by transferring the funds by residents on accounts abroad to directly invest in share capital of foreign companies, or to add operational funds to own foreign subsidiaries are permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Pursuant to the Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014, securities issued by a resident may be placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), unless otherwise established by the laws of the Republic of Uzbekistan; the placement and circulation of securities issued by a resident outside Uzbekistan are carried out according to the laws of the respective country on securities of foreign issuers, unless otherwise established by international agreements of the Republic of Uzbekistan; securities issued by a resident are placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in the form of depositary receipts issued by a foreign depositary, in accordance with the laws of the country in which their placement and circulation are allowed.

Bonds or other debt securities	Yes.	The Republic of Uzbekistan Law on the Securities Market (No. ZRU-387 of June 4, 2015), the Law on Joint-Stock Companies and Protection of Shareholders' Rights (No. ZRU-370 of May 7, 2014), and the Regulations on the Issuing of Securities and State Registration of Issuable Securities (Registration No. 2000 of August 30, 2009) establish the conditions for the issuing and procedures for the state registration of corporate and infrastructure bonds. According to Article 6 of the Law on the Securities Market of June 4, 2015, corporate bonds are issued in observance of the following conditions: within the limits of the issuer's equity capital as of the date the decision is made to issue the bonds; if the amount of corporate bonds exceeds the issuer's equity capital, the issuer is required to provide security for the excess amount; by issuers that have posted positive profitability, solvency, financial stability, and liquidity indicators for the past year; presence of an audit opinion on the financial statements for the last year before the bond issue; with the participation of commercial banks performing the functions of payment agents when issuers pay funds because of investors. Infrastructure bonds are issued in observance of the following conditions: within the limits of the issuer's equity capital as of the date the decision is made to issue the bonds; if the amount of corporate bonds exceeds the issuer's equity capital, the issuer is required to provide security for the excess amount; presence of an audit opinion on the financial statements for the last year before the bond issue; funds from the placement of infrastructure bonds are used for the financing of a project provided for in a decision of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan or the Republic of Uzbekistan Cabinet of Ministers. Companies in which the state holds a stake of 50% or more, as well as state-owned enterprises, issue bonds with the consent of the Republic of Uzbekistan MOF. Additional conditions for issuing corporate and infrastructure bonds are established by the authorized government agency for regulation of the securities market. In addition, Article 30 of the Law on Joint-Stock Companies and Protection of Shareholders' Rights states that a company has the right to issue and place corporate bonds and other securities in accordance with the legislation and its charter. A company's corporate bonds may be securities that are convertible to the company's shares. A company issues corporate bonds, including those that are convertible to shares, on the basis of a decision by a general shareholders' meeting or the company's supervisory board, if the company's supervisory board has the right to make such a decision in accordance with the company's charter or a decision by a general shareholders' meeting. In the event that a company issues corporate bonds that are convertible to shares on the basis of a decision by the company's supervisory board, such a decision must be adopted unanimously by all of the board members. Pursuant to Article 53 of the Law on the Securities Market of June 4, 2015, the issuing of corporate bonds prior to the formation of the issuer's statutory capital is prohibited (with the exception of cases involving the formation of commercial banks' statutory capital), and it is also prohibited to issue bonds for the purpose of replenishing statutory capital or covering losses related to the issuer's financial and commercial activities; after a bond issue has been registered, the issuer may not make changes to a decision to issue bonds with regard to the rights under the bonds as established in the decision.

		government short-term bonds and bondholders. State medium-term bonds are placed by commercial banks and resident legal entities and serve as collateral for loans, and as provision for REPO and reverse REPO (transactions of purchase and sale of securities with a buyback). In accordance with the Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan of December 14, 2016, No. 1016, government securities (with the exception of Central Bank bonds) may be placed among residents and nonresidents of the Republic of Uzbekistan. The annual volume of government securities placed among nonresidents is determined by the MOF in agreement with the Central Bank.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The Regulation "On quotas and the procedure for admitting to the placement and circulation of securities," approved by the Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers No. 239, dated August 20, 2014, establishes quotas and determines the procedure for admitting securities issued by nonresidents to the placement and circulation in Uzbekistan. Article 4 of the Regulations establishes the conditions for admitting securities issued by nonresidents to the placement and circulation in the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan. In accordance with Article 5 of the Regulations, securities of a nonresident are allowed to be placed on the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan in an amount not exceeding 25% of the total number of issued securities of this type (category or type), by issuing an UDR representing these securities. UDRs are subject to state registration by an authorized state body.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Investment activities in excess of US$10,000 are permitted subject to the relevant decisions of the President, the Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of the Republic of Uzbekistan. Banks are allowed to conduct such operations in accordance with banking license.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	In accordance with the Regulation "On quotas and the procedure for admitting to the placement and circulation of securities" approved by the Resolution of the Cabinet of Ministers No. 239, dated August 20, 2014, securities of a resident can be placed and circulated outside the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan in an amount not exceeding 25% of the total number of issued securities of a given type (category or type), unless otherwise established by the legislation of the Republic of Uzbekistan. Placement and circulation of the resident's securities are carried out outside the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan in accordance with the legislation of the respective country on securities of foreign issuers, unless otherwise provided by international treaties of the Republic of Uzbekistan; securities of a resident are placed and circulated outside the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan in the form of depositary receipts issued by a foreign depository, in accordance with the legislation of the country in which they are allowed for placement and circulation.
On collective investment securities	Yes.	The Republic of Uzbekistan Law on Investment and Mutual Funds of August 26, 2015 (No. ZRU-392 of August 25, 2015), and the Regulation on Investment Funds, approved by the Cabinet of Ministers Resolution of September 25, 1998, establish procedures governing the activities of investment and mutual funds that stipulate that they must be managed by licensed management companies (investment fund fiduciary managers). The recording of titles to securities issued and belonging to investment funds is handled by the Central Depository, unless otherwise established by law. The registration of a mutual fund is performed by the Central Securities Depository through the recording of investment shares after the mutual fund has been entered in the Uniform Registry of Mutual Funds.

Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	Nonresidents may purchase for domestic and foreign currency any securities admitted for circulation in Uzbekistan, unless their terms of issue prohibit nonresidents from holding these securities.
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	The Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014, establishes quotas and the procedure for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. Item 4 of the Regulation establishes the conditions for allowing the placement and circulation of securities issued by nonresidents in Uzbekistan. According to Item 5 of the Regulation, securities issued by nonresidents may be placed in Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), through the issuing of a UDR representing the given securities. UDRs are subject to state registration by the authorized government agency.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	The legislation on foreign exchange regulation governs the placement of assets by legal entities outside Uzbekistan. The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that investment activities above US$10,000 by transferring the funds by residents on accounts abroad to directly invest in share capital of foreign companies, or to add operational funds to own foreign subsidiaries are permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Pursuant to the Regulation on Quotas and the Procedure for the Admission and Circulation of Securities, approved by Cabinet of Ministers Resolution No. 239 of August 20, 2014: securities issued by a resident may be placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in an amount that does not exceed 25% of the total volume of issued securities of the same kind (category or type), unless otherwise established by the laws of the Republic of Uzbekistan; the placement and circulation of securities issued by a resident outside Uzbekistan are carried out according to the laws of the respective country on securities of foreign issuers, unless otherwise established by international agreements of the Republic of Uzbekistan; securities issued by a resident are placed and traded outside Uzbekistan in the form of depositary receipts issued by a foreign depositary, in accordance with the laws of the country in which their placement and circulation are allowed.
Controls on derivatives and other instruments	Yes.	The Republic of Uzbekistan Law on the Securities Market of June 4, 2015, defines “derivative securities,” “securities futures,” and “options.” Article 7 of the Law establishes the following conditions for issuing stock options: the conditions for issuing stock options may establish restrictions on their circulation; a joint-stock company does not have the right to place stock options if the volume of declared shares of the given company is less than the volume of shares that may be acquired under the stock options; the volume of shares of a certain type that may be acquired under stock options may not exceed 5% of the shares of the given type that have been placed as of the date the documents are filed for the state registration of the stock option issue; the placement of stock options is possible after a joint-stock company’s statutory capital has been paid in fully on its establishment. In addition, the Procedure for the Issuing and Circulation of Derivative Securities, registered with the Ministry of Justice on April 2, 1997, under No. 320, governs the procedure for the issuing and circulation of derivative securities within Uzbekistan.

Purchase locally by nonresidents	No.	There is no organized derivative trading in Uzbekistan. However, there are no legal restrictions to buy derivatives. Generally, nonresidents may purchase for domestic and foreign currency any securities admitted for circulation in Uzbekistan, unless their terms of issue prohibit nonresidents from holding these securities, pursuant to Items 13 and 14 of the Regulation on the Procedure for the Circulation of Securities in Foreign Currency in the Republic of Uzbekistan, the Acquisition of Securities in Foreign Currency by Residents, and the Acquisition by Nonresidents of Securities Issued by Residents (Registration No. 1692 of June 22, 2007).
Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	There is no organized derivative trading in Uzbekistan. Generally, pursuant to Article 15 of the Law No. ZRU-387 of June 3, 2015, on the Securities Market, securities are admitted for placement and circulation within the Republic of Uzbekistan following their state registration, unless otherwise established by law. The Republic of Uzbekistan Cabinet of Ministers establishes quotas and the procedure for the admission of securities issued by nonresidents for placement and circulation within the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	All international foreign exchange operations, which are not classified as current international operations, are considered capital movement operations. Capital movement operations are regulated in accordance with CBU Regulation on the Procedures for Performing Certain Foreign Exchange Operations Associated with the Movement of Capital.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	Pursuant to Article 15 of the Law No. ZRU-387 of June 3, 2015, on the Securities Market, the Republic of Uzbekistan Cabinet of Ministers establishes quotas and the procedure for the admission of securities (including derivative instruments) issued by residents for placement and circulation outside the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan, with the exception of international bonds.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.	Agreements and guarantees pertaining to government external borrowing must be registered with the MOF; agreements not guaranteed by the government must be registered with the CBU.
Commercial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that providing loans in the form of credit, cash, goods (services), or leasing operations by residents to nonresidents is permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.
To residents from nonresidents	No.	These must be registered by banks for accounting purposes. Transactions in connection with loans from nonresidents guaranteed by the government must be registered for accounting purposes with the MOF. Credits not guaranteed by the government are subject to CBU registration based on a notification procedure for statistical purposes; it is not a permitting procedure because the CBU is notified that a transaction has been performed.
Financial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that providing loans in the form of credit or cash by residents to nonresidents is permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.

Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	Founders establish entities abroad by a decision of a founder's governing authority whose competence includes, under constituent documents, the decision to establish entities abroad. The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that investment activities above US$10,000 by transferring the funds by residents on accounts abroad to directly invest in share capital of foreign companies, or to add operational funds to own foreign subsidiaries are permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	Pursuant to the Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, there are no restrictions on the attraction of FDIs into Uzbekistan and the repatriation of them, or on the exercise of rights acquired in connection with making direct foreign investments. Investors may establish foreign investment enterprises (FIEs), a form of direct investment, by registering with the Ministry of Justice and its regional offices. A firm may acquire FIE status as follows: (1) It must have at least US$50,000 (400 million sum) in statutory capital. (2) One participant must be a foreign legal entity or individual. (3) At least 15% of its statutory capital must be foreign investment. Nonresidents must obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition of the securities of resident banks above the established threshold. Individuals and legal entities or persons acting together, including nonresidents, are obliged to obtain the prior permission of the CBU before acquiring, directly or indirectly, a stake that will constitute 5% or more in the authorized capital of a bank as a result of one or several transactions. The need to obtain the prior permission of the CBU for the acquisition by nonresidents of shares of resident banks is not a form of control of the movement of capital. Pursuant to the Law on Banks and Banking: - the total share of nonresidents – individuals and legal entities that are not international financial institutions, foreign banks and other credit organizations, should not exceed 50% of the authorized capital of the bank; - the following may not be direct or indirect holders of bank shares: nonresident individuals who live in a state or a territory that offers preferential tax treatment and/or does not stipulate the disclosure of the identity of the ultimate beneficial owners and the provision of information in the course of financial transactions, as well as legal entities whose participants (shareholders), the ultimate beneficial owners are registered in such a state or territory.

Provisions specific to commercial banks and other credit institutions	Yes.	Commercial banks' operations with foreign currency are performed on the basis of a banking license.
Borrowing abroad	No.	The CBU registers agreements on external borrowing not guaranteed by the government in accordance with the Law on External Borrowing, Law on Foreign Exchange Regulation, and Regulations on the Procedures for Performing Certain Foreign Exchange Operations Associated with the Movement of Capital, registered under No. 2536 of December 17, 2013, based on a notification procedure for statistical purposes; it is not a permitting procedure because the CBU is notified that a transaction has been performed.
Maintenance of accounts abroad	No.	Banks may open correspondent accounts in local and foreign currencies on the basis of agreements with foreign banks and use these accounts for the purposes stated in the agreement.
Lending to nonresidents (financial or commercial credits)	Yes.	The CBU Resolution No. 31/2 of November 11, 2017, clarified (formalizing the current practice) that providing loans in the form of credit, cash, goods (services), or leasing operations by residents to nonresidents is permitted if there are the relevant decisions of President, Cabinet of Ministers of the Republic of Uzbekistan, or international treaties of Republic of Uzbekistan.
Lending locally in foreign exchange	Yes.	Lending is permitted to (1) refinance foreign lines of credit and (2) for investment projects.
Purchase of locally issued securities denominated in foreign exchange	Yes.	Securities issued in Uzbekistan must be denominated in domestic currency.
Differential treatment of deposit accounts in foreign exchange	Yes.
Reserve requirements	Yes.	Required reserves for liabilities in domestic and foreign currencies are formed through the transfer of funds to a reserve account at the CBU in the domestic currency. No interest is paid on required reserves. During the time that required reserves are held in reserve accounts at the CBU, they may be used in accordance with an averaging ratio, taking into account reserve requirement standards. The mandatory reserve requirement norms are as follows: (1) For deposit obligations of banks in national currency: from individuals and legal entities: - 4% for term deposits of more than 2 years; - 4% for term deposits between 1 and 2 years; - 4% for demand deposits and other deposits (of less than 1 year). (2) For deposit obligations of banks in foreign currency: from individuals and legal entities: - 18% for term deposits of more than 2 years; - 18% for term deposits between 1 and 2 years; - 18% for demand deposits and other deposits of less than 1 year.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The LCR is the ratio of highly liquid assets to the net outflow in the next 30 days. The LCR must not be less than 100%. LCR must be differentiated by currency and should be no less than 100%: in all currencies; in domestic currency; in foreign currency (total for all foreign currencies). The ratio of liquid assets to total assets must not be less than 10%. However, this ratio is not differentiated by currency.

Other managed arrangement	Yes.	Since 1988, Vanuatu has officially maintained an adjustable peg exchange rate arrangement. Currently, the exchange rate of the vatu is linked to a transaction-weighted (trade and tourism receipts) basket of currencies whose weights and composition are not publicly disclosed and are adjusted periodically. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed, because the composite weights are not disclosed and cannot be confirmed, and, in practice,

Other monetary framework	Yes.	The main objectives of monetary policy are (1) low and stable inflation and (2) a sufficient level of official foreign exchange reserves. Specifically, the RBV aims for CPI inflation in the 0%–4% range and aims to maintain foreign reserve cover of at least four months of imports. The RBV achieves these objectives by pegging the vatu to an undisclosed basket of currencies, targeting excess reserves in the banking system through its open market operations, and periodically adjusting its rediscount rate and the statutory reserve requirement in line with economic and financial conditions.
Exchange tax	No.
Exchange subsidy	No.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks may freely trade within a band set by the RBV.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Foreign exchange bureaus may operate after obtaining a license from the Department of Finance (government). Such bureaus may not deal directly with the RBV. Currently, there are three focusing on exchange and transfer and three Chinese stores that include exchange in their retail activity.
Operated by the central bank	Yes.
Foreign exchange standing facility	Yes.	The RBV has a dealing facility with the local commercial banks for the purchase and sale of US dollars and Australian dollars against the vatu.
Allocation	No.
Auction	No.
Fixing	No.
Interbank market	Yes.	Five commercial banks participate in the interbank foreign exchange market. There are no limits on the bid-ask spreads and commissions of market participants.
Over the counter	Yes.	Banks operate mainly over the counter.
Brokerage	No.
Market making	No.
Forward exchange market	Yes.	The RBV does not deal in the forward exchange market; however, commercial banks provide forward exchange facilities to their customers at their own expense. The RBV does not deal in derivative instruments.

The importation of frozen chicken pieces, T-shirts bearing a Vanuatu motif, firearms and ammunition, animals and plants, and transistor and telephone equipment is restricted through import-licensing arrangements. A similar restriction is applied to the importation of rice, sugar, flour, canned fish, and tobacco products. Bans are in effect for health reasons on imports of animals and animal products from Europe and the United Kingdom, as well as on imports of chicken and poultry products from Victoria and New South Wales, Australia.
Open general licenses	n.r.
Licenses with quotas	n.r.
Other nontariff measures	Yes.	The RBV has the authority to restrict import requests to the equivalent of US$100,000 an individual.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	The import duty structure consists of eight rates, ranging from 0% to 30%, with the 30% rate applying to most goods. Most basic items are subject to a 5% duty. Approved goods imported under the MSG, PICTA, and PACER trade agreements are duty-free. These goods require certificates of origin issued to exporters and importers by the member countries. Goods imported or delivered from bonded houses are also duty-free. A 35% duty applies to certain imported products in the protected goods category, except for six items covered under the MSG trade agreement, to which a 40% duty applies. In addition, a 40% duty, which decreases by 2% a year, is applied to ice cream, fruit juice, meat, and soap, and duties of VT 350 and VT 315 a liter are applied to fuel and paint, respectively. As a result of free trade under the MSG trade agreement, excise tax rates have been increased and extended to additional excisable products (domestic and imported). Customs uses the harmonized system of tariffs (2007 version). Vanuatu became a WTO member in 2012 and has agreed to bind all its tariff rates.

Export licenses	Yes.	The exportation of logs and flitches is banned for environmental reasons. Under special circumstances, small parcels of logs may be exported if they cannot be processed in Vanuatu. Proposals to export logs require approval of the council of ministers. Export permits – whose issuance is coordinated by the Environment Unit and the Forestry Department – are required for rare and endangered species. The exportation of sandalwood logs is banned, and sandalwood must be processed locally before exportation.
Without quotas	Yes.	For conservation purposes, exports of certain products, including trochus, green snails, bêches-de-mer, mother-of-pearl, aquarium fish, crustaceans, and coconut crabs, are subject to authorization. The annual quota of bêches-de-mer that may be exported from Vanuatu is 26 tons, and they must be of a specified size. Exports of copra and cocoa take place through the Vanuatu Commodities Marketing Board. Exports of kava, a prescribed commodity under the Vanuatu Commodities Marketing Board, must be authorized by the Quarantine Office. Exports of artifacts of exceptional value, either as a result of ceremonial use or because they are more than 10 years old, are subject to authorization from the Vanuatu Cultural Center.

Multiple	Yes.	Complementary Floating Market Exchange Rate (DICOM) is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the Exchange Agreement (EA) No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at BsF/US$5,189.56 (buying) and BsF/US$5202.57 (selling) on May 13, 2019. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 13, 2019, the parallel exchange rate stood at 5698.53 bolivars per dollar, according to DolarToday. Since March 10, 2016, the rate was established as the DICOM under Exchange Rate Agreement No. 35 of March 9, 2016 (G.O. No. 40.865 of the same date). Pursuant to Article 17 of that Agreement, until the alternative foreign exchange markets provided for in EA No. 33 are replaced, the DICOM will be the rate referenced in Article 24 of the latter EA. It should also be noted that pursuant to Article 13 of the aforesaid EA No. 35, all foreign exchange operations not expressly stated in the EA will be settled through the alternative foreign exchange markets regulated by the exchange regulations at the DICOM. The transactions of sale of foreign currency for payment of consumption and advances of cash with credit cards and acquisition of cash for minors, because of trips abroad, were applied the DICOM rate of exchange in effect at the time when the transaction is made or when the cash is delivered. The sale of foreign currency from the activities of exportation to the BCV made by natural persons and private legal persons was made at the DICOM rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%. Individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interacted under BCV’s control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks. The BCV continues publishing the DICOM rate daily, resulting in two legal foreign exchange rates.

The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the EA No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. According to DolarToday. Article 31 of the EA No. 39 establishes that the conversion of foreign currency for the determination of the taxable amount of tax obligations derived from customs operations will be carried out at the DICOM exchange rate in effect on the date of the operation. Article 33 indicates that the exchange rate to be used for foreign currency conversion for the determination of the amounts to be paid because of the customs and tax penalties regimes will be the DICOM exchange rate at the date of the corresponding sanction. The tax obligations established in special laws, as well as the rates, commissions, surcharges, and public prices that have been set in the corresponding regulations in foreign currency, may be paid alternatively in the currency in which they are denominated, in their equivalent in other foreign currency in accordance with the price published for that purpose by the BCV, or in bolivars applying the DICOM in force at the date of the transaction. (EA No. 39, Article 34). Individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interacted under BCV's control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks. The BCV continues publishing the DICOM rate daily. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed. This classification is based on the information as of end-April 2021.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	DICOM is the single official exchange rate in Venezuela. The DICOM rate is determined through an auction system. Article 28 of the EA No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM rate stood at Bs/US$79,800 (buying) and Bs/US$80,000 (selling) on May 29, 2018. The operations of sale of foreign currencies to the BCV must be carried out at the exchange rate set forth in Article 11 of EA No. 39, reduced by 0.25% (EA No. 39, Article 28). The value of the exchange rate in bolivars resulting from the auction will be the lowest price proposed by the legal entities demanding foreign currency that is awarded, that is, the marginal value on the claims awarded to legal persons (EA No. 39, Article 3). All operations for settlement of foreign currencies not expressly provided for in this EA will be processed through the alternative markets regulated in the exchange regulations, at the DICOM (EA No. 39, Article 30). Pursuant to Article 17 of that Agreement the DICOM will be the rate referenced in Article 24 of the latter EA. It should also be noted that pursuant to Article 13 of the aforesaid EA No. 35, all foreign exchange operations not expressly stated in the EA will be settled through the alternative foreign exchange markets regulated by the exchange regulations at the DICOM. The transactions of sale of foreign currency for payment of consumption and advances of cash with credit cards and acquisition of cash for minors, because of trips abroad, were applied the DICOM rate of exchange in effect at the time when the transaction is made or when the cash is delivered. The sale of foreign currency from the activities of exportation to the BCV made by natural persons and private legal persons was made at the DICOM rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%.

As per BCV's Resolution No. 2019-05-01 establishes that the price published daily by BCV will be the official rate as per Article 9 of EA No. 1: New Exchange Framework. The BCV will publish a reference rate based on the daily weighted average exchange rate of the transactions conducted by exchange operators. The reference exchange rate must apply to all foreign currency settlement operations of public and private sector banks. Foreign currency sales operations carried out by the BCV will be carried out at the reference exchange rate, while foreign currency purchase operations will be at the reference rate reduced by 0.25%.

In addition to the official DICOM exchange rate, there is a parallel market that is widely used by the private sector and individuals. As of May 30, 2018, the parallel rate stood at 1,684,848 bolivars per US dollar, according to BolivarCucuta; at 1,614,820 bolivars per dollar according to AirTM; and at 2,151,163 bolivars per dollar according to Cotizaciones. In comparison, DICOM was trading at only 80,000 bolivars per dollar during the same period. EA No. 39 regulates three types of transactions: (1) auctions of foreign currency, conducted through the new system at the supplementary floating market exchange rate (DICOM), (2) direct sales of foreign currency, and (3) transactions involving the negotiation in local currency of securities denominated in foreign currency issued by private sector issuers. EA No. 39 revokes EA Nos. 38 and 35. Article 37 stipulates that EA No. 39 has precedence over any other regulation issued in the past. Individuals and legal entities who wish to sell foreign currency for an amount of €8,500 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency, or less, can sell such foreign currency directly to the authorized exchange operators (which are, essentially, universal banks incorporated or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to act in such capacity by the exchange control governmental authorities), at the DICOM exchange rate in force and effect as of the date of such sale, without having to resort for that purpose to the auctions of foreign currency conducted through the new DICOM system (EA No. 39, Article 15). The authorized exchange operators must make the sale of the foreign currencies received: (1) In the case of foreign currencies acquired on the occasion of the settlement of purchase operations through bank account transfers, they must be offered in full in the Market Floating Supplementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%. If the said position is not awarded, it may be acquired by the BCV. (2) In the case of foreign currency in cash, they must be sold weekly to the BCV, at the exchange rate of acquisition, increased by 1%, under the terms indicated in the instructions issued for this purpose (EA No. 39, Article 15). The exchange rate of reference for the sale of the securities referred to in this Chapter must be that provided for in Article 11 of this EA, and the exchange rate applicable for the purchase must be the same rate of exchange reduced by 0.25%, applicable to the market value of the negotiable instrument, or to the value freely agreed by the parties involved in the transaction, when the instrument has no reference value in the market (EA No. 39, Article 22). Foreign exchange allocated by Centro Nacional de Comercio Exterior (National Foreign Trade Center—CENCOEX) is sold by foreign exchange dealers licensed by the BCV once CENCOEX has approved the foreign currencies in question. Trading, in domestic currency, of foreign exchange regulated by Chapter II of EA No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6.171 of the same date), is settled on the second business day following the agreement. Retail foreign exchange operations regulated by Chapter III of EA No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6.171 of the same date), are settled by foreign exchange dealers the same day. Trading, in domestic currency, of securities regulated by Chapter IV of EA No. 33 of February 10, 2015 (Special G.O. No. 6.171 of the same date), is settled three bank business days from the date of the agreement for value on that day. Individuals and private companies can buy and sell foreign currency through local commercial banks and exchange houses with no constraints on prices or amounts. The new market has been established where private foreign exchange buyers and sellers interact under BCV's control. Individuals are still transacting small amounts in euros in cash in DICOM with government-owned banks.

Article 28 of the EA No. 39 indicates that the exchange rate to be used by public and private sectors for all settlement operations in foreign currency will be the DICOM exchange rate. The DICOM system allows the sale and purchase of foreign currency (typically, euros) in exchange for local currency, through auctions of foreign currency administered, regulated, and directed by the Committee of Foreign Currency Auctions (the Committee), which is an internal specialized body within the BCV. Individuals and legal entities of the private sector can participate in the new DICOM system as offering parties (sellers) or bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency. On the other hand, public sector legal entities cannot participate in such system. To participate in the DICOM system, the respective person must electronically register with the system and provide certain information, make a sworn statement as to the origin and destination of the funds, hold a demand or term account denominated in foreign currency with a universal bank organized or domiciled in Venezuela and authorized to operate as such under Venezuelan banking legislation (a Local Account in Foreign Currency), and be up to date with the national tax obligations and the social security. The Committee must call auctions at least once a week and the calls must be made two banking days prior to the date of the auction. To participate in an auction of foreign currency, the bidding parties (purchasers) of foreign currency must submit their bids in terms of price and amount, and the offering parties (sellers) of foreign currency must submit their offers in terms of amount, electronically through the system, and indicate the validity term for their bids and offers (which can be no less than seven days nor greater than 30 days). The award of foreign currency starts by awarding foreign currency to the purchaser–bidders of foreign currency who have submitted bids for the highest admissible exchange rate and thereafter to the other purchaser–bidders of foreign currency based on the exchange rate submitted in their bids from the highest to the lowest exchange rate, until the point where the foreign currency offered (and, therefore, the foreign currency that can be awarded) at the respective auction is exhausted. In addition, the system is designed so that at least 10% of the foreign currency offered at each auction is awarded to individuals. The exchange rate applicable to each sale and purchase transaction of foreign currency conducted through the auctions can differ for each transaction because the same will be, for each such transaction, the exchange rate that the respective purchasing–bidding party of foreign currency, to whom the foreign currency has been awarded, submitted in its bid. The settlement of the foreign currency awarded through the auctions will be made by crediting them to a Local Account in Foreign Currency. The auctions of foreign currency are conducted on the basis of a floating exchange rate system, based on an American auction type, where the offer (sale) and demand (purchase) bids of foreign currency are technologically matched (EA No. 39, Article 2). The BCV publishes on its website the exchange rate resulting from every auction of foreign currency. This exchange rate will be the lowest exchange rate at which a bid for the purchase of foreign currency was submitted in the auction by a legal entity (as opposed to by an individual) and was awarded foreign currency at the auction (which the rules refer to as the "marginal value of the awarded bids"). The exchange rate in force and effect at any given moment will be this exchange rate published by the BCV for the latest auction conducted as of the relevant moment (EA No. 39, Article 3). The Committee has discretion to determine the methodology for the award of the foreign currency under the new DICOM system. The DICOM system has limitations on the maximum amount of foreign currency purchases made through it. Individuals can purchase up to a maximum of €420 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a calendar quarter. Private sector legal entities can purchase a monthly amount equal to 30% of the average monthly gross income declared for income tax purposes in the immediately preceding fiscal year, provided such amount does not exceed €340,000 or its equivalent in any other foreign currency a month. On the other hand, the said system has no limitations on the maximum amount of the sales of foreign currency (EA No. 39, Article 9). The current exchange rate will be that of the last auction. As well as the amounts awarded of foreign currencies, the list of individuals and legal entities (who won the auction) will be published on the website of the BCV, as well as on the website www.dicom.gob.ve, of the Market Floating Complementary Exchange Rate System (DICOM), corresponding to every auction made (EA No. 39, Article 11). The institutions of banking, insurance and securities market sectors, as well as savings banks and funds, trust funds, companies, and reciprocal guarantee and venture capital funds may not participate in the DICOM (EA No. 39, Article 19). Special foreign exchange and/or securities auctions are held by CENCOEX through Sistema Complementario de Asignación de Divisas (SICAD—Complementary Foreign Exchange Administration System) and are administered and managed directly by it in accordance with the provisions of EA No. 26 of April 3, 2014 (G.O. No. 40.391 of April 10, 2014). CENCOEX is solely responsible for regulating the terms and conditions of these special auctions. CENCOEX handles the bid selection process for each auction based on the methodology approved for this purpose by its board of directors and informs the CB so that it may determine the exchange rate applicable to the auction in question, or the implicit exchange rate generated by the bid price for the purchase and sale in bolivars of securities denominated in foreign currencies, as appropriate.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted Yes.

Held domestically Yes. Exchange Rate Agreement No. 20, which came into force in June 2012, allowed accounts in foreign currency under certain conditions. Legal entities not domiciled in the national territory could maintain accounts in foreign currency sourced from abroad and could mobilize them only through total or partial withdrawals in Venezuelan legal tender at the current exchange rate. The law also allowed resident legal entities and natural persons to maintain foreign currency accounts, but the funds had to come from the settlement of securities issued by the government or another entity through the official systems for receiving foreign currency.

This agreement established the maintenance of foreign currency in the universal banks but did not allow operations or transactions in foreign currency. Deposits could be mobilized exclusively through their withdrawal in bolívares. Likewise, banks with deposits in foreign currency had to keep them in foreign currency accounts at the BCV.

With the repeal of the Law of the Exchange Regime and its Illicit Acts in 2018, new rules were established for the market, which contemplated the free convertibility of the currency in the national territory and the centralization in the BCV of purchases and sales of foreign currency by the universal banks. This agreement allowed citizens to use foreign currency for daily operations and led to a significant increase in dollarization in the country.

Regarding possession of accounts in dollars, the new EA allows individuals within Venezuela, as well as national and foreign legal entities, to maintain accounts in foreign currencies sourced from abroad or from the Venezuelan financial system itself. These funds may be mobilized by means of transfers and checks from the bank with its correspondents abroad.

In 2019, a number of different national banks offered accounts to legal entities to deposit their foreign currency cash. These accounts are called "free convertibility accounts" and are used mostly by the private sector.

At the beginning of 2020, the list of banks offering accounts for the deposit of foreign currency in cash was expanded. As of October 9,

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution

		2020, the BCV issued a circular ordering the cessation of products or services that facilitated payment for goods and services in Venezuela in foreign currency through local agents' foreign currency accounts in domestic banks. The "free convertible accounts" were maintained, but their only function is to safeguard such money, and they may not be mobilized or used in transactions, except through physical withdrawals or deposits or transfers from branches abroad. Foreign exchange accounts may be held in the national financial system by (1) individuals who are of age and resident in the national territory and legal entities domiciled in the country; (2) Petróleos de Venezuela S.A. and its subsidiaries; (3) public sector agencies and entities with BCV authorization or with an account with the BCV; and (4) Venezuelan nationals with a license from the Ministry of Popular Power for Petroleum and Mines to engage in the activities referred to in Chapter V of the Organic Law on Gaseous Hydrocarbons. New measures announced in January 2021 allow accounts in foreign currency, but transfers and other operations in foreign currency between local banks are not yet authorized.
Approval required	Yes.	Approval is required in the following cases: Public sector entities require the authorization of the board of directors of the BCV (except in cases in which the foreign exchange account is held with the BCV). Resolution No. 13-07-02 of July 25, 2013, issued by the BCV sets out provisions on the holding by the public sector of foreign currency funds in any form, establishing that these funds may be held in accounts opened for that purpose with the BCV, in universal banks in the domestic banking system, or in financial institutions abroad. The circular issued by the BCV on August 10, 2015, regulates the requirements for public sector entities subject to the measure for the centralization of foreign exchange and public banking institutions designated by the said entities as banking agents for the provision of financial services on special foreign exchange accounts to be held with the BCV, for compliance with the aforementioned measure, and the execution of financial services on the aforementioned accounts. Article 1 of EA No. 13 of December 3, 2009, establishes that the board of directors of the BCV may authorize private sector legal entities to hold foreign exchange accounts with the BCV.
Held abroad	Yes.
Approval required	Yes.	Public sector agencies and entities require authorization from the board of directors of the BCV under Article 18 of EA No. 1 of February 5, 2003; consistent with Article 11 of EA No. 11 of December 18, 2014, with the exception of the waivers provided under the Single Paragraph of the aforesaid EA No. 11; Resolution No. 13-07-02 of July 25, 2013, issued by the BCV, which establishes the rules on the holding of foreign currency funds of any kind by the public sector and provides for such funds to be maintained in accounts opened with financial institutions abroad. Petróleos de Venezuela S.A. may hold foreign currency funds with the approval of the Board of Directors of the BCV, along with its subsidiaries. In accordance with Article 5 of EA No. 9, companies created under partnership agreements signed by Petróleos de Venezuela S.A. under the framework of the now repealed Organic Law Reserving Industry and Trade in Hydrocarbons for the State, semipublic enterprises referred to in the Organic Law on Hydrocarbons and the Organic Law on Gaseous Hydrocarbons, and semipublic enterprises created under the provisions of the Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Organic Law for the Development of Petrochemical Activities

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.	Legal entities not domiciled in the territory of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela that are participating in the implementation of public investment projects for the development of the national economy or the stimulation of productive capacity may hold foreign exchange accounts in the national financial system. Article 1 of EA No. 13 of December 3, 2009, establishes that the board of directors may authorize private sector legal entities to hold foreign exchange accounts at the BCV.
Approval required	Yes.	Approval of the BCV board of directors is required for accounts at the BCV.
Domestic currency accounts	Yes.	The Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Law on Banking Sector Institutions makes no distinction with regard to the residency status of persons who may open accounts. Resolution No. 119.10 of March 9, 2010, issued by the banking supervisory authority establishes the documents that must be presented by foreign individuals who are not residents of Venezuela and legal entities that are not domiciled in Venezuela for the purpose of opening accounts.

		intended for imports of capital goods, inputs, and raw materials by companies in Venezuela's manufacturing and processing sectors. Resolution No. 3.276 issued by the then Ministry of Popular Power for Economy and Finance establishes the said guidelines and updates the list of goods that benefit from the streamlined procedures for obtaining the AADs and ALDs, which may not exceed US$50,000. Ordinance No. 121 of October 30, 2013, corrected for material error by the Official Notice of November 19, 2013, regulates the requirements and procedure for obtaining the AAD and ALD intended for imports of capital goods, inputs, and raw materials indicated by Resolution of the Ministry of Popular Power for Economy and Finance under Decree No. 6.168 of June 17, 2008. As well, applications for authorization to purchase foreign exchange referred to in the said ordinance may be made up to a maximum amount of US$50,000 or its equivalent in other currencies for each customs import operation, as understood in the terms indicated in the said ordinance. Commission for Foreign Exchange Administration (CADIVI) Ordinance No. 063 of November 30, 2004, establishes the regime for obtaining AADs for the payment, inter alia, of imports of non-tangible goods. Joint Resolution Nos. DM/3240, DM/044, DM/077, DM/063, DM/086, DM/073, and DM/024 issued by the Ministries of Popular Power for Planning and Finance; Trade; Basic Industries and Mining; Agriculture and Land; Health; Energy and Oil; Science, Technology and Intermediate Industries; and Food establish the lists of goods that do not require a Certificate of Insufficient Production (CIP) or Certificate of No National Production (CNP) and the goods that do require such certificates for purposes of AAD. Under Decree No. 1.192 of August 25, 2014, CENCOEX is responsible for the centralized issuance, modification, granting, and revocation of Import Licenses, CNPs and CIPs; authorization may be granted only with the prior approval of the Executive Vice-President.
Domiciliation requirements	Yes.	CADIVI Ordinance No. 119 of September 24, 2013, establishes the requirements and procedure for the authorization of the purchase of foreign exchange for imports. Under Resolution No. 13-07-01 of July 2, 2013, issued by the BCV and containing the "General Rules of the SICAD," only individuals and legal entities residing or domiciled in the national territory, respectively, may submit bids for the purchase of foreign exchange or securities denominated in foreign currencies through SICAD. In accordance with the provisions of EA No. 33 of February 10, 2015, only persons holding accounts in the national financial system, as referred to in EA No. 20 of June 14, 2012, and its regulations, may bid for foreign exchange or securities on the high-value or securities markets. Similarly, requests for foreign exchange via retail foreign exchange operations may be made only by resident individuals.

Reserve requirements	Yes.	Article 6 of BCV Resolution No. 14-03-02 established that the reserve requirement for foreign exchange operations must be established in legal tender (bolívares); however, the calculation, reporting, and monitoring of the reserve requirement for foreign exchange operations will take place separately from the reserve requirements for operations in domestic currency. Article 1 of BCV Resolution No. 14-08-01 of August 21, 2014, authorizes the board of directors of the BCV to grant exceptions to the requirement to authorized banks that receive foreign exchange deposits to credit these deposits to the BCV within the framework of its exchange policy implementation strategy. Article 55 of the Decree with the Status, Effect and Force of Law on the BCV allows the portion of the reserve requirement deposited with the BCV to bear interest for monetary and financial policy reasons under the relevant terms and conditions established by the board of directors of the BCV. As of January 20, 2020, as per the BCV rules on the legal reserves requirement ("Resolution"), banking institutions must maintain minimum legal reserves equal to the aggregate of the following: (1) 85% of net obligations in bolívares; (2) 31% on operations that are in foreign currency; and (3) 85% of the assigned investments for banking institutions authorized to carry out operations in the money market. Microfinance institutions and development banks that promote public or private microfinance initiatives and whose index of credit intermediation is at least 50% must maintain a reserve requirement of 40% of the total net obligations in bolívares and assigned investments. The legal reserve position of each institution is determined in five-day periods from Monday to Friday, based on the average of the daily balances of the operations subject to legal reserves during the period. The BCV determines the position of the legal reserve requirement weekly.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	No.	No restrictions as reported in the latest IMF staff report as of December 31, 2022.
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	Yes.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	Yes.	Vietnam maintains certain exchange restrictions for the preservation of national and international security. These restrictions are imposed on financial transactions, and measures have been implemented to freeze accounts belonging to individuals and entities associated with terrorism in accordance with (1) UNSC resolutions and (2) the list of current organizations associated with terrorism maintained by the US Secretary of State.

Stabilized arrangement	Yes.	Clause 2, Article 15 of Decree No. 70/2014/ND-CP of July 17, 2014, states that: (1) the official exchange rate is determined based on demand and supply in the foreign exchange market under State Bank of Vietnam (SBV) regulations. The SBV regulates the exchange rate by deploying monetary policy instruments and intervening in the foreign exchange market. (2) The de jure exchange rate arrangement is managed floating and is determined by the SBV based on a currency basket of countries with trade, financing, and investment relationships with Vietnam, consistent with macroeconomic targets of each period. Decision No. 2730/QD-NHNN specifies that the central exchange rate is announced daily, based on reference of the interbank-weighted exchange rate, exchange rate developments in global markets of some currencies that are of Vietnam's major investment, credit, and trading partners, monetary and macroeconomic balances, and monetary policy targets. The dong–US dollar exchange rate might fluctuate around the average interbank foreign currency market exchange rate announced by the SBV within a daily transaction band of ±3%. In October 2022, the exchange rate was subjected to substantial depreciation pressures because of Fed tightening cycle and strong USD. At its peak, the DXY index reached over 113 in October 2022. During this period, on October 17, 2022, the SBV raised the daily transaction band from ±3% to ±5% to allow for more flexible foreign exchange movement. In October 24, 2022, the interbank VND/USD rate depreciates by around 9% (at 24,857 VND/USD). Since October 2022, the exchange rate stabilized within a 2% band against the US dollar with one realignment in December 2022. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate has been reclassified to stabilized from crawl-like, effective October 21, 2022. By the end of 2022, as pressures from the strong USD subsided and both external and domestic conditions stabilized, the VND recovered but still depreciated by around 3.5% year-over-year. In 2023, the USD/VND exchange rate continued to fluctuate flexibly in both ways. Because of recent strengthening of USD and divergence in monetary policy, VND depreciated by around 4% against USD in 2023 (similar to other currencies such as TWD, CNY, MYR, and KRW). The SBV does not publish data regarding foreign exchange market intervention.

Exchange tax	No.
Exchange subsidy	No.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The exchange rate band applies only to dong–US dollar transactions. Credit institutions (CIs) may set their own rates in transactions for all foreign currencies, except US dollars. ADs may freely set their exchange rates in transactions with their clients within the dong–US dollar band.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	As of December 31, 2022, there were 120 CIs and foreign bank branches authorized by the SBV to provide foreign exchange services, including four state-owned commercial banks and joint-stock commercial banks in majority state ownership, including Agribank, Vietinbank, Vietcombank, and Bank for Investment and Development of Vietnam (BIDV); 31 joint-stock commercial banks, 3 joint-venture banks, 9 banks that are 100% foreign owned, and 49 foreign bank branches. Foreign exchange bureaus operate as agents for CIs. There were 657 such bureaus licensed by SBV branches in cities and provinces as of December 31, 2022. These bureaus may not conduct foreign exchange transactions directly with the SBV. They may use dong to buy foreign exchange from individuals, but may not sell foreign exchange to individuals for dong (except bureaus located at international border gates in isolated areas). The SBV does not publish data regarding spot exchange market.
Operated by the central bank	No.
Foreign exchange standing facility	No.

Interbank market	Yes.	The CIs must have permission and register with the SBV to become members of the foreign exchange interbank market as follows: They must be credit organizations and/or foreign bank branches (1) permitted under the Law on Credit Organizations; (2) licensed by the SBV for the operation, business, and provision of foreign exchange services in Vietnam's foreign exchange market; and (3) have the necessary systems to carry out foreign exchange transactions, such as the Reuters Dealing System or other means approved by the SBV from time to time. Currently, 70 CIs and foreign bank branches are members of the foreign exchange interbank market. The SBV grants the license. The limit on the bid-ask spread is the SBV trading band (±5%). The CB intervenes directly with market participants at their quoted rates set by the CB from time to time. The SBV does not publish data regarding interbank foreign exchange market. Effective October 17, 2022, the SBV raised the daily transaction band from ±3% to ±5% to allow for more flexible foreign exchange movement.

Forward exchange market	Yes.	As per Circular No. 02/2021/TT-NHNN of March 31, 2021, regulations for forward transactions are updated: Authorized CIs may sell foreign currencies in foreign exchange forwards to nonresident foreign investors holding governmental bonds denominated in VND in the domestic market to prevent exchange rate risk for bonds held by these investors. As per Circular No. 02/2021/TT-NHNN of March 31, 2021, regulations for swap transactions are updated: The minimum transaction term in the swap transaction between Vietnamese dong and foreign currencies is reduced so as to allow licensed CIs to make swap transactions of foreign currencies with maturities of under 3 working days (maximum 365 days from the transaction date). As per Circular No. 02/2021/TT-NHNN of March 31, 2021, customers can use Vietnamese dong to buy foreign currency in a 365-day forward contract from authorized CIs to hedge exchange rate risk for overseas loans denominated in foreign currencies with initial loan term or remaining loan term over 365 days. When the signed forward transaction is due, the CIs and the customer are allowed to perform a swap transaction to extend the signed transaction. The SBV does not publish data regarding forward and swap foreign exchange transactions.

accordance with the law. (3) Other institutions authorized to provide foreign exchange services may transact and list prices in foreign currency within the scope of their permitted foreign exchange services. (4) Resident legal entities may transfer capital internally by foreign currency transfers—for example, between the account of such an organization and accounts of its subsidiaries that are not legal entities and vice versa. (5) Residents may contribute foreign currency capital to implement a foreign investment project in Vietnam. (6) Residents may perform contracts entrusting imports or exports in accordance with the following provisions: (a) Resident importers may record prices in import authorization contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the import entrusting party. (b) Resident exporters may record prices in export authorization contracts in foreign currency and make payments in foreign currency to the export entrusting party. (7) Residents who are domestic or foreign contractors are permitted the following: (a) With respect to foreign expenses for a tender package via international tendering in accordance with the Law on Tendering, tenderers may submit their tenders in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the investor or head contractor to make payments and disbursements and remit money overseas. (b) With respect to implementation of tender packages in accordance with the Law on Petroleum, tenderers may submit their tenders in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from the investor or head contractor to make payments and disbursements and remit money overseas. (8) Resident insurance enterprises are permitted as follows: (a) They may quote, set, and record prices of insurance services in contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency from insurance purchasers in the case of goods and services for which offshore reinsurance must be purchased. (b) If losses arise that are covered by offshore reinsurance, resident organizations purchasing insurance may receive the amount of insurance indemnity in foreign currency from the foreign reinsurer via the domestic insurance enterprise to make payment of expenses for remedying the loss offshore. (9) Resident organizations conducting business in duty-free goods may list prices of goods in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency or cash for the supply of goods. Foreign currency used in transactions at duty-free shops must be handled in accordance with the Law on the Business of Sales of Duty-Free Goods. (10) Resident organizations providing services in separated areas at international border gates or organizations conducting business in bonded warehouses may list, quote, fix prices, and record prices in contracts in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency or cash for the supply of goods and services. (11) Resident organizations acting as agents for foreign transportation firms on the basis of agency contracts signed between the two parties are permitted (a) to represent the foreign transportation firm in quoting, setting, and recording prices in contracts in foreign currency with respect to international freight charges. Payment must be made in dong; (b) to make payment in foreign currency on behalf of a foreign transportation firm of the purchase price of goods and services at international seaports and at separate areas of international airports; and (c) to make payment in foreign currency cash on behalf of a foreign shipping firm of salaries, bonuses, and allowances to nonresidents when so delegated with authority by a foreign shipping firm. (12) Resident export processing enterprises are permitted (a) to record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make payment in foreign currency when purchasing goods from the domestic market to produce, process, recycle, or assemble export goods or export them, except for prohibited export goods. Domestic enterprises may quote and set prices in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency when selling goods to export processing enterprises; and (b) to quote, set, and record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make and receive payments in foreign currency with respect to other export processing enterprises. (13) Resident organizations conducting business in the aviation transport, hotel, and tourism sectors may list and advertise prices of goods and services in dong and the equivalent in foreign currency on websites and in specialized publications (excluding menus and service price lists) in foreign languages. (14) Residents and nonresident organizations may agree to pay salaries, bonuses, and allowances in labor contracts in foreign currency or cash to nonresidents and residents who are foreigners working for such organizations. (15) Nonresident diplomatic offices and consulates may list in foreign currency and collect fees for entry and exit visas and other types of fees and charges in foreign currency or cash. (16) Nonresidents are permitted (a) to send foreign currency to other nonresidents; (b) to record prices in contracts in foreign currency and to make payments for the exportation of goods and services in foreign currency to residents. Residents may quote and set prices in foreign currency and receive payment in foreign currency when they supply goods and services to nonresidents; and (c) the nonresident can deposit via transferring foreign exchange to participate in auctioning to buy the shares at initial public offering and disinvestment of the state-owned enterprise approved by the Prime Minister. (17) For cases related to national security and defense, oil, and other necessary cases, entities may be able to use foreign exchange within Vietnam's Territory subject to the consideration and approval of the SBV in written form based on the real situation and necessity of each case.

Purchase locally by nonresidents	Yes.	As of January 1, 2021, for public companies operating in conditional business lines and trades applicable to foreign investors, with no specific provision on foreign ownership limits (FOL) in place, the maximum FOL is 50% (previously, it was 49%). Article 139 of Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP on FOLs specifies the following exceptions to the above rule: In case of an international treaty, to which Vietnam is a contracting party, the foreign ownership provisions of the international treaty apply (Article 6, International Treaty Law). In case of public companies doing business or investment in which the Law on Investment and relevant laws prescribe FOL, the provisions of that law apply. For public companies not covered by the above-mentioned cases, the FOL is not limited, unless otherwise provided in the charter of the company. In cases where a public company has various businesses with different corresponding FOLs, the applicable FOL should not exceed the lowest one applied to that company's licensed business. The public company can decide its maximum FOL at lower percentage than above-mentioned circumstances, it should be approved by the GMS and provided in the Charter of the Company (Articles of Incorporation). As of January 1, 2021, Article 140 of Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP allows foreigners to buy the Non-Voting Depository Receipts issued to foreign investors based on the stocks of listed or registered companies in the stock exchanges. As of January 1, 2021, as per Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP (Article 139) implementing Article 77 of Securities Law No. 54/2019/QH14 ("Securities Law 2019"), foreign institutional investors can invest in and own up to 100% of the charter capital of securities firms and securities investment fund management companies. The maximum limit applied to foreign individual investors and their related persons is 49%. Foreign organizations and individuals must open a securities trading

Sale or issue locally by nonresidents	Yes.	Prior to investing in Vietnam's stock market, foreign investors must register for a trading code with VSD through depository members. In addition to be able to perform derivatives transactions, foreign investors must open a derivatives trading account at trading members and depository account at the appointed clearing member. After getting license to issue securities in Vietnam, nonresident institutions must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in Vietnamese dong at an authorized CI to perform receipts and payments in Vietnamese dong from securities transactions through this account, as regulated by the SBV's Circular No. 40/2015/TT-NHNN of December 31, 2015, on opening and use of VND-denominated account for securities issuance domestically by institutional nonresidents.
Purchase abroad by residents	Yes.	Resident investors can invest only in permitted instruments. Investment abroad in derivatives and other instruments by residents is not allowed. According to Article 4, Circular No. 10/2016/TT-NHNN of June 29, 2016, guiding some regulations in Decree No. 135/2015/ND-CP of December 31, 2015, on Offshore Portfolio Investment, proprietary traders and trust organizations can trade on a proprietary basis or invest on behalf of their clients in: (1) shares listed on a foreign stock exchange; (2) security investment fund certificates; and (3) bonds, T-bills, bills issued by governments and organizations rated by international rating agencies: Standard and Poor's, Moody's Investors Service, and Fitch Ratings. Also, as stipulated in Circular No. 10/2016/TT-NHNN (Chapter II), individual investors of Vietnamese nationality are allowed to invest in bonus shares issued abroad by bonus share issuers after receiving registration from the SBV. Revenues and payments generated from trading of bonus shares must be performed through an account open by the bonus share issuer at an eligible domestic CIs.
Sale or issue abroad by residents	Yes.	After receiving the license to issue securities denominated in foreign currencies overseas in the form of stock investment fund certificate, resident organizations must open a portfolio investment capital account denominated in foreign currencies at an authorized CI. All receipts and payments from securities transactions must be performed through this account as regulated by the SBV's Circular No. 39/2015/TT-NHNN.
Controls on credit operations	Yes.	Enterprises are subject to annual overall external borrowing ceilings and the fulfillment of certain other conditions.
Commercial credits	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Resident CIs may extend commercial credits in accordance with SBV regulations. Lending by resident economic entities must be approved by the prime minister. Once approved, firms must open a foreign exchange account with an AD for loan disbursement and collection. All transactions for capital disbursements, interest payments, and related fees must be conducted through this account.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	Enterprises (including CIs) can borrow from abroad without government guarantee subject to conditions. The purposes of offshore borrowing include the restructuring of loans with lending costs not exceeding the cost of the current offshore loan. Medium- and long-term offshore borrowings without the government's guarantee (except for deferred payment for imported goods) must be registered with the SBV. For medium- and long-term loans, firms must register the borrowing and repayment schedules with the SBV before disbursement, within 30 days of signing the loan contract. For extended loans, firms must register loans within 30 days of signing an extension contract for short-term loans whose total period, including the extension, exceeds one year. Firms' external borrowing must be within the government-approved annual limit and meet the SBV's requirements. The borrowing and repayment schedules must be reported periodically to the SBV. Resident individuals must borrow and repay overseas loans based on the principle of self-borrowing and are self-liable in accordance with government regulations. Enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving offshore loans without government guarantee are subject to stricter regulation. Government-owned economic groups and general corporations must be approved by line ministries and the MOF before borrowing from abroad. Commercial banks with more than 50% state-owned charter capital follow the same process and procedure of offshore loan and offshore loan adjustment registration as other kinds of enterprises do, except that commercial banks with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving high-value offshore loans as stipulated by 2014 Law on Enterprise must gain approval from the representative of state ownership (the SBV). Enterprises with offshore loans with government guarantee are subject to guidance of the MOF and registration with the SBV.

By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Lending by resident legal entities, except CIs, is subject to permission by the prime minister. The SBV provides guidance on account opening and use, outward fund transfers, overseas debt collection, registration for lending and collection of overseas debts, and other fund transfers for overseas lending and debt collection of economic entities.
To residents from nonresidents	Yes.	External borrowing of enterprises (including CIs) without government guarantee is subject to conditions. The purpose of offshore borrowing includes the restructuring of loans if the cost of the new loan does not exceed the borrowing cost of the restructured loan. Medium- and long-term offshore borrowings without the government's guarantee (except for deferred payment for imported goods) must be registered with the SBV following Circular No. 03/2016/TT-NHNN of February 26, 2016, providing guidelines on some issues related to the foreign exchange management of borrowing and repayment of overseas loans applied to enterprises (replacing Circular No. 25/2014/TT-NHNN of September 15, 2014, and Circular No. 09/2004/TT-NHNN of December 21, 2004). Circular No. 03/2016/TT-NHNN provides guidelines on some new issues, including (but not limited to) the following: Regulations on management principles for deferred payment for imported goods: Deferred payment for imported goods is not subject to registration requirements under foreign borrowing regulations. Regulations on opening and using borrowing and repayment accounts: In principle, borrowers may open borrowing and repayment accounts at an eligible bank providing account services in Vietnam. This account may only be used for the purposes of withdrawing fund, repayment of foreign loans and other money transfers related to borrowing, repaying, and guaranteeing overseas borrowings. Enterprises may be able to make registration, registration on changing foreign loans online via the enterprises' borrowing, and repayment of overseas loans management website. Enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital receiving offshore loans without the government's guarantee are subject to stricter regulation under MOF Circular No. 153/2014/TT-BTC of October 20, 2014, on reviewing, investigating, and approving offshore loans of enterprises with more than 50% state-owned charter capital. Enterprises with offshore loans with the government's guarantee are subject to guidance of the MOF and registration with the SBV as guided by Circular No. 22/2013/TT-NHNN of September 24, 2013, on the registration and modification procedure of offshore loans and international bond issuance with the government's guarantee. For medium- and long-term loans, firms must register the borrowing and repayment schedules with the SBV before disbursement, within 30 days of signing the loan contract. For extended loans, firms must register loans within 30 days of signing an extension contract for short-term loans whose total period, including the extension, exceeds one year. Firms' external borrowing must be within the government-approved annual limit and meet the SBV's requirements. The borrowing and repayment schedules must be reported periodically to the SBV. Resident individuals must borrow and repay overseas loans based on the principle of self-borrowing and are self-liable in accordance with government regulations.

Guarantees, sureties, and financial backup facilities	Yes.
By residents to nonresidents	Yes.	Resident commercial banks may provide guarantees to nonresidents in accordance with regulations in Circular No. 28/2012/TT-NHNN on bank guarantees. Economic entities other than CIs may provide guarantees to nonresidents if they obtain the prime minister's approval. In exercising the guarantee's liability, the nonresident guarantee does not pay back to the guarantor, in this case an economic entity/CI, within 30 days of the guarantor's payment of the guarantee's debt, the guarantor must register its guaranteed debt collection plan.
To residents from nonresidents	No.
Controls on direct investment	Yes.
Outward direct investment	Yes.	Outward direct investment requires a Ministry of Planning and Investment (MPI) permit. Firms engaged in these investments must open an account with a bank with foreign exchange authorization and register such accounts and outward investment flows with SBV branches. All related transactions must go through these accounts. Firms engaged in outward direct investment in the gas and petroleum sector that need to transfer foreign currency abroad before receiving a license for investment to study and prepare for the gas and petroleum projects under the current legal provisions on outward direct investment must register with the SBV regarding the overseas transfer of foreign currency and obtain SBV confirmation of the registration in writing before transferring foreign currency abroad.
Inward direct investment	Yes.	The authority to grant foreign investment licenses in Vietnam depends on the scope and areas of investment. Foreign investment projects must be approved by the government, the MPI, or the Provincial People's Committee. The types of foreign investment are regulated by the Investment Law. Foreign firms engaged in this type of investment must open a specialized capital account, and all payments for and receipts relating to FDI projects in Vietnam must take place through this account. The account is a basis for compiling statistics and monitoring capital flows related to FDI. Vietnamese investors may contribute investment capital with their own foreign currency sources. 		specific provision on FOL in place, the maximum FOL is 50% (previously, it was 49%). Article 139 of Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP on FOLs specifies the following exceptions to the above rule: In case of an international treaty, to which Vietnam is a contracting party, the foreign ownership provisions of the international treaty apply (Article 6, International Treaty Law). In case of public companies doing business or investment in which the Law on Investment and relevant laws prescribe FOL, the provisions of that law apply. For public companies not covered by the above-mentioned cases, the FOL is not limited, unless otherwise provided in the charter of the company. In cases where a public company has various businesses with different corresponding FOLs, the applicable FOL should not exceed the lowest one applied to that company's licensed business. The public company can decide its maximum FOL at lower percentage than above-mentioned circumstances, it should be approved by the GMS and provided in the Charter of the Company (Articles of Incorporation). As of January 1, 2021, as per Decree No. 155/2020/ND-CP (Article 139) implementing Article 77 of Securities Law No. 54/2019/QH14 ("Securities Law 2019"), foreign institutional investors can invest in and own up to 100% of the charter capital of securities firms and securities investment fund management companies. The maximum limit applied to foreign individual investors and their related persons is 49%.

Reserve requirements	Yes.	As stipulated in Article 14, SBV Law 2010, reserve requirement ratios on each single type of CIs and each single type of deposit are determined by the Governor of the SBV in accordance with monetary policy objectives in each period. Article 8 of Circular No. 30/2019/TT-NHNN of December 27, 2019, specifies the types of deposits used for calculation of reserve requirement ratios to be: (1) Deposits of organizations (except for other CIs established and operating in Vietnam) and deposits of individuals at CIs in the forms of demand deposits, term deposits, saving deposits and special deposits. (2) Funds from the issuance of deposit certificates, promissory notes, treasury bills and bonds. (3) Other deposits held by CIs in the principle of fully paying principals and interests to depositors as agreed, except escrows and deposits of other CIs established and operating in Vietnam. According to Decision No. 1158/2018/QD-NHNN, required reserve ratios are as follows: (1) For people's credit funds and microfinance institutions: (a) Vietnamese dong deposit of all maturities: 0%; (b) Foreign currency deposit of all maturities: 0%. (2) For Social Policy Bank: decided by the government. (3) For Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development and Cooperative Bank: (a) Vietnamese dong deposit: (i) Demand and below 12-month term: 3%; (ii) From 12-month term and above: 1%. (b) Foreign currency deposit: (i) Foreign currency deposit of foreign CIs: 1%; (ii) Demand and below 12-month term: 7%; (iii) From 12-month term and above: 5%. (4) For other CIs: (a) Vietnamese dong deposit: (i) Demand and below 12-month term: 3%; (ii) From 12-month term and above: 1%. (b) Foreign currency deposit: (i) Foreign currency deposit of foreign CIS: 1%; (ii) Demand and below 12-month term: 8%; (iii) From 12-month term and above: 6%.
Liquid asset requirements	Yes.	The following prudential ratios apply: – LCR: This ratio is defined as total high liquid assets over total liabilities: Commercial banks and foreign bank branches must maintain a minimum ratio of 10%; nonbank CIs 1%; and cooperative banks 10%. – Current ratio: CIs must calculate and maintain the current ratio in 30 days for (1) dong as follows: (a) commercial banks: 50%; (b) foreign bank branches: 50%; (c) nonbank CIs: 20%; and (d) cooperative banks: 50%; and (2) for foreign currency as follows: (a) commercial banks: 10%; (b) foreign bank branches: 5%; (c) nonbank CIs: 5%; and (d) cooperative banks: 5%. According to the provisions of the Circulars on limits and safety ratios, the minimum level of the 30-day solvency ratio that commercial banks, foreign bank branches and nonbank CIs must maintain is different between VND and foreign currency.

Monetary aggregate target	Yes.	The main mission of the CBY, as set forth in Law No. 14 of 2000, is to maintain price stability by keeping inflation low. It aims to achieve this goal through monetary targeting. In 2020, the CBY began targeting the growth rate of the money supply (broad money) as an intermediate target; base money growth is used as an operational target. The annual monetary plans have focused on controlling the money supply in a manner consistent with the real economic needs of the public and private sectors. These plans remain a core part of the CBY's strategy moving forward. In the absence of a foreign reserve buffer, strong commitment to the annual monetary plan targets remains the only tool at the CBY's disposal to attempt to contain inflationary pressures and stabilize exchange rate movements. The CBY remains committed to its effective implementation.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the 2019 Article IV Consultation with Zambia, states that as of July 11, 2019, Zambia maintained an exchange restriction, which is subject to IMF approval under Article VIII, arising from limitations imposed by the government on access to foreign exchange for the making of payments and transfers for current international transactions, which is evidenced by the existence of external payments arrears accumulated prior to October 4, 1985. (Country Report No. 19/263)
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	No.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	No.

Crawl-like arrangement	Yes.	The de jure exchange rate arrangement is floating. The official exchange rate is determined in the interbank market. The Bank of Zambia (BOZ) intervenes primarily through transactions with ADs, which are registered commercial banks that meet the prescribed eligibility criteria under the Interbank Foreign Exchange Market (IFEM) Framework. The BOZ interventions are published on a biweekly basis with a 3-month lag. In 2022, the Kwacha appreciated by 6.9% against the US dollar during the first eight months of the year. High supply of foreign exchange and market sentiments arising from prospects of securing an IMF Extended Credit Facility (Program) following the meeting of the Official Creditor Committee on external debt restructuring under the G20 Common Framework and the eventual approval of the Program on August 31 underpinned the appreciation. However, the appreciation was not sustained as the Kwacha came under pressure during the remainder of the year. In the latter part of 2022, demand for foreign exchange intensified while supply was constrained. Demand largely arose from the procurement of agricultural and petroleum products. In addition, nonresidents' demand for foreign currency increased as investors divested out of Government securities in response to rising interest rates in advanced economies and uncertainties on the treatment of domestic debt in the debt restructuring process. As a result, the Kwacha depreciated by 8.4% against the US dollar between September and December. This performance offset the Kwacha's earlier gains leading to an annual depreciation of 4.8% of the exchange rate. Since August 2022, the exchange rate followed a depreciating trend within a 2% band against the US dollar with one realignment in November 2022. Therefore, the de facto exchange rate arrangement was reclassified to crawl-like from floating, effective August 31, 2022.

Official exchange rate	Yes.	The foreign exchange interbank rates are used to determine the BOZ official exchange rates: The BOZ buying rate is the simple average of the AD bid rates, and the selling rate is the simple average of the AD offer rates. The simple averages of the real-time rates collected from the ADs are published on the BOZ website as official rates. The daily official publication times on the BOZ website for 09:30 hrs, 12:30 hrs, and 15:30 hrs are simple averages of the real-time rates collected from the ADs at these respective times. Transactions between the BOZ and the market, and between the BOZ and the government use the mid-exchange (official) rate, calculated as the average of the bid and offer exchange rate quotes provided by ADs in the IFEM. Other members of the public such as research institutions and academia use historical exchange rate data published on the BOZ website to conduct research work. In some instances, members of the public request for this information to facilitate awards and compensation for court cases.

Other monetary framework	Yes.	In April 2012, the BOZ introduced the policy rate as a key policy instrument to signal the monetary policy stance and anchor inflation expectations. Under this framework, the BOZ manages liquidity conditions in the market so as to ensure that the interbank rate remains within the policy rate corridor, defined as ±1 percentage points around the policy rate. Government, through the minister of finance, sets the inflation target range. The Board of the BOZ is composed of the governor, who is the chairperson, and six other directors appointed by the minister of finance. The directors are appointed from among persons with professional or academic experience in business or financial matters and who are not officials or employees of the Bank. The secretary of the Treasury is an ex-officio member of the Board and without power to vote and does not count for a quorum. In Zambia, the price stability objective is attained through the achievement and maintenance of inflation within the target range of 6%–8%. The BOZ publishes statements of decisions and, with the enactment of the Bank of Zambia Act, 2022, the BOZ is set to start publication of a Monetary Policy Report.
Exchange tax	No.
Exchange subsidy	No.
Foreign exchange market	Yes.	Commercial banks negotiate rates for transactions with their nonbank counterparties. For interbank transactions, commercial banks designated as ADs are obliged to provide firm two-way quotes to fellow ADs for the market lot ranging from US$0.5 million to US$1.0 million. For amounts outside the market lot, the two-way quote provided is subject to negotiation. ADs are required to conduct business in a professional and ethical manner to enhance market discipline and market integrity. ADs are required to disclose any investigations, litigation, arbitration, complaints, disciplinary proceedings, or other matters relating to professional conduct. This is intended to hold commercial banks accountable for any breaches of the IFEM rules. Commercial banks are the only institutions that may engage directly with the BOZ in buying and selling foreign exchange. Commercial banks also transact with retail and corporate clients at rates not exceeding the interbank bid price and sell at rates not exceeding the retail board offer rate.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	Sixteen commercial banks are licensed by the BOZ to trade in the IFEM. Commercial banks are the only financial institutions that may engage directly with the BOZ in buying and selling foreign exchange. Foreign exchange bureaus may operate in Zambia and are also licensed by the BOZ. As of December 31, 2022, there were 74 licensed exchange bureaus. They may transact with the public and commercial banks but may not maintain accounts abroad. Transactions of foreign exchange bureaus are limited to the OTC sale and purchase of foreign exchange banknotes and traveler’s checks.

Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	MFN tariff rates range from 0% to 25%. A number of products are subject to specific rates. Most imports from SADC (since 2012) and COMESA (since 2000) countries are duty-free with the exception of goods in the exclusion list of the SADC and COMESA protocols. Some imports are exempt under the Investment Act. Imports from signatories of the COMESA FTA are tax exempt. To mitigate the effects of COVID-19 on the economy, various tax relief measures were introduced through Statutory Instruments (SIs). The suspension of the customs and excise duty on diesel and petrol was extended for six months effective January 1, 2022, and for three months effective July 1, 2022, and again effective October 1, 2022. Effective January 1, 2023, the customs duty was reduced to 0% from 25%. The duty on motor vehicles for use in tourism was suspended as of January 1, 2021, and the suspension was extended for one year effective January 1, 2022, and for 3 years effective January 1, 2023. The customs and excise duty on ethyl alcohol used in the production of alcohol-based sanitizer by a licensed manufacture is suspended. A refund or remission of the whole excise duty paid or payable is granted if the product is used solely for the manufacture of sanitizers.

Exchange Measures

Restrictions and/or multiple currency practices	Yes.	The IMF staff report for the 2022 Article IV Consultation with Zimbabwe states that as of March 2, 2022, Zimbabwe maintains several exchange restrictions and MCPs, inconsistent with Article VIII, Section 2(a), and Section 3, in particular: (1) The rationing of foreign exchange sales through weekly RBZ auctions and earmarking of foreign exchange to finance letters of credit for certain imports constitute exchange restrictions as these measures limit the availability and use of foreign exchange for payments and transfers for current international transactions. (2) The RBZ's sale of foreign exchange to successful bidders during weekly auctions at exchange rates that may differ by more than 2% from each other and from exchange rates being used for official transactions, transactions to fulfill the foreign exchange surrender requirement, or market transactions constitute a MCP. (3) The use of the official rate for official transactions and transactions made to fulfill the surrender requirement, while this rate may be different by more than 2% from the market exchange rate also constitutes another MCP. Zimbabwe has also a longstanding exchange restriction subject to IMF jurisdiction arising from unsettled balances under an inoperative bilateral payment agreement with Malaysia. (Country Report No. 22/112)
Exchange measures imposed for security reasons	No.
In accordance with IMF Executive Board Decision No. 144-(52/51)	No.

Other managed arrangement	Yes.	In February 2019, Zimbabwe adopted a de jure floating exchange rate arrangement. The currency of Zimbabwe is the Zimbabwe dollar and is the sole legal tender. The CB provides foreign currency that the importers bid for at the weekly Foreign Exchange Auction. The CB regularly sells a given amount of foreign exchange through a bidding process and buys foreign exchange in the intervening periods at the previous auction-determined rate. The de facto exchange rate arrangement is classified as other managed.

Monetary aggregate target	Yes.	The monetary policy framework is based on targeting monetary aggregates. The CB will use reserve money as the operational target for monetary policy. Specifically, the CB will target an appropriately calibrated growth in broad money (M3) of about 15% in 2019 (excluding revaluation changes), with a view to help stabilize the macroeconomic environment, support the new currency, and restore investor confidence. To achieve this, the CB will use base money (comprised of bond notes and coins, and Real-Time Gross Settlement (RTGS) dollar balances of banks with the CB as an operational target for monetary policy. To achieve these targets, the CB will use all instruments at its disposal, including interest rates, changes in the minimum reserve requirements, and open market operations (securities discount window), as needed.

Foreign exchange market	Yes.	The CB operates a foreign exchange trading system where it regularly sells a given amount of foreign exchange through a bidding process and buys foreign exchange in the intervening periods at the previous auction-determined rate. The existing RTGS balances, bond notes, and coins in circulation were denominated as RTGS dollars, and trading was formalized of RTGS balances and bond notes with US dollars and other currencies on a willing-buyer willing-seller basis through banks and bureaux de change.
Spot exchange market	Yes.	There were 27 registered money transfer agents, 104foreign exchange bureaux de change, and 19commercial banks as of June 30, 2023. There were 21 registered money transfer agents, 84 foreign exchange bureaux de change, and 17 commercial banks as of December 31, 2022. Foreign exchange bureaus may operate with a license from the CB. They may buy and sell foreign currency, receive international receipts, make international money transfers to individual natural persons, and make domestic money transfers.
Operated by the central bank	Yes.	The CB operates a foreign exchange trading system where the CB regularly sells a given amount of foreign exchange through a bidding process and buys foreign exchange in the intervening periods at the previous auction-determined rate.

		troy ounce of gold. For larger amounts, permission must be issued by the secretary for mines. Under the Gold Trade Act, three types of licenses may be issued: gold dealing, gold recovery, and gold assaying. Gold obtained from a registered mining location must be turned over to the holder of its gold dealing license no later than the 10th day of the month, except with specific permission from the mining commissioner or the appropriate minister. Smelting of gold or articles containing gold requires a license from a district commissioner in accordance with the Second-hand Goods Act, which authorizes the possession of smelting equipment. The 2014 National Budget Statement presented by the minister of finance and economic development on December 19, 2013, states that only Fidelity Printers and Refiners (a subsidiary of the CB) may buy and export gold.
On external trade	Yes.	Exportation of unmanufactured gold is controlled and licensed by the Ministry of Mines and Mining Development and the MOFED; these controls do not apply to the CB. Producers and exporters must apply to the MOFED for a gold license and to Fidelity Printers and Refiners for a gold export certificate after assaying. Exporters must apply to the CB for authorization to export gold. The importation of gold is controlled by the Gold Trade Act. Gold producers may sell their gold for foreign currency and retain the proceeds indefinitely in their foreign exchange accounts. Fidelity Printers and Refiners is the sole buyer and exporter of gold.
Controls on exports and imports of banknotes	Yes.
On exports	Yes.
Domestic currency	No.
Foreign currency	Yes.	Effective March 25, 2022, in accordance with the Exchange Control (General) (Amendment) Order 2022, published in the SI No. 57 of 2022, the limit on the amount of cash that can be exported in baggage or on person is US$5,000 (previously US$2,000) a trip. Amounts above this threshold are subject to specific approval from the CB. The limit applies to both individual residents and nonresidents. Effective March 1, 2023, in terms of Exchange Control (General) (Amendment) Order, 2023 (No. 20), published in the SI No. 20A dated March 1, 2023, the limit on the amount of foreign currency cash that can be exported in baggage or on person is US$10,000 (previously US$5,000) a trip. Amounts above this threshold are subject to specific approval from CB. Nonresidents are allowed to take out up to the amount they would have brought in and declared.
On imports	No.
Domestic currency	No.
Foreign currency	No.	Foreign currency and traveler's checks may be imported without restriction but must be declared on entry to facilitate re-exportation and checks on money-laundering tendencies.

Resident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.

©International Monetary Fund. Not for Redistribution

Held domestically	Yes.	Individuals and firms may open with an AD up to nine foreign exchange accounts denominated in US dollars, South African rand, Botswana pula, pounds sterling, euros, Chinese renminbi, Australian dollars, Japanese yen, and Indian rupees. These may be (1) individual foreign exchange accounts—the balance may be transferred abroad without restriction, including for capital account transfers; (2) general corporate foreign exchange accounts—these hold balances of locally earned foreign currency of companies, state enterprises, and public entities and may be freely transferred abroad for current account transactions. Capital account transfers require Exchange Control approval; and (3) export corporate foreign exchange accounts—these hold foreign currency earned by resident companies (including state enterprises and public entities) through exports and may be freely transferred abroad for current account transactions. Capital account transfers require Exchange Control approval. Funds may be held in these accounts indefinitely. Account holders may withdraw any amount of cash from their foreign exchange accounts. Individuals may deposit any amount with banks on a know-your-customer basis. The designation of Foreign Currency Accounts (FCAs) was changed in 2015. To reduce the administrative burden on ADs and account holders, the CB transformed the FCA framework that was based on Source of Funds Concept into a new FCA framework based on the Account Holder Concept. Under the new framework, the RBZ re-designated FCAs with a view to providing operational simplicity, convenience to the account holder, and reduction in costs. The FCAs were re-designated and consolidated using the Account Holder Concept into the following two categories: (1) corporate FCAs (CFCAs) and (2) individual FCAs (IFCAs).
Approval required	No.
Held abroad	Yes.	Foreign exchange accounts held abroad require approval from the RBZ. The balances may be repatriated according to the Exchange Control approval conditions.
Approval required	Yes.	Firms may open accounts with Exchange Control approval. Banks may open accounts abroad on notification to Exchange Control. Individuals do not require approval from the CB.
Accounts in domestic currency held abroad	No.
Accounts in domestic currency convertible into foreign currency	No.

Nonresident Accounts

Foreign exchange accounts permitted	Yes.	These accounts may be credited with foreign currency, payments from other nonresident accounts, and payments by residents eligible for transfer outside Zimbabwe. Nonresident transferable accounts may be debited for payments to residents, payments to other nonresident accounts, and payments abroad.
Approval required	No.
Domestic currency accounts	Yes.	Domestic currency accounts for nonresidents are permitted. There are no restrictions.
Convertible into foreign currency	Yes.	Since October 1, 2018, banks have been directed to separate FCAs into two categories, namely Nostro FCAs and RTGS (domestic currency) FCAs. This policy measure was aimed at encouraging exports, diaspora remittances, banking of foreign currency into the Nostro FCAs and to eliminate the commingling or dilution effect of RTGS balances on Nostro FCAs.

Other	No.
Import licenses and other nontariff measures	Yes.
Positive list	No.
Negative list	No.
Open general licenses	No.
Licenses with quotas	No.
Other nontariff measures	Yes.	Imports of certain goods (mostly agricultural and processed food products) require a special permit issued by the Ministry of Agriculture.
Import taxes and/or tariffs	Yes.	The customs duty regime consists mainly of ad valorem duties, which range up to a maximum of 40% for luxuries, with a surtax of 25% on used motor vehicles over five years old. Generally, imports are subject to an additional tax (15%—equivalent to the VAT imposed on goods sold domestically). Government imports and capital goods for statutory bodies are exempt, subject to MOFED approval. Effective April 14, 2022, customs duties are based on 50% US dollar or South African rand equivalent invoice valuations and 50% in local currency.
Taxes collected through the exchange system	No.
State import monopoly	No.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements	Yes.	Payments for exports must be received in foreign currency transferred into Zimbabwe through the banking system, except when there are special arrangements. Goods may not be exported without permission unless the customs authorities are satisfied that payment has been received in an approved manner or will be received within 90 days of the date of shipment (or a longer period, with Exchange Control approval).

Surrender requirements	Yes.
Surrender to the central bank	Yes.	The export surrender requirement is 25% on all export receipts. Effective February 7, 2022, the export surrender for the Tourism & Hospitality Industry and Fisheries exporters was removed. This was a response to the adverse effects of the COVID-19 on the tourism sector, which was hard-hit by the pandemic. The export surrender requirement for the rest of the exporters (including gold and mineral exporters as well as for exporters in the agriculture and manufacturing sectors) remained at 40%. Before these changes, the surrender requirement to the CB for all the exporters was standardized at 40%. Effective February 3, 2023, the export surrender requirement was set at 25% on all export receipts.
Surrender to authorized dealers	No.
Financing requirements	No.
Documentation requirements	Yes.
Letters of credit	No.
Guarantees	No.
Domiciliation	No.
Preshipment inspection	No.
Other	Yes.	Exports of diamonds and gold require documentary evidence of official valuation in the form of an assay report issued by the Minerals Marketing Corporation of Zimbabwe and Fidelity Gold Refinery, respectively. Bona fide exporters of goods and services must be registered with the CB through their bankers.
Export licenses	Yes.
Without quotas	Yes.	Export licenses are required for the following: (1) ore, concentrate, platinum, gold, emeralds, diamonds, and other manufactured products of chrome, copper, lithium, nickel, tin, or tungsten; (2) petroleum products; (3) jute and burlap bags; (4) road and rail tankers for liquids and semi liquids; (5) bitumen, asphalt, and tar; (6) wild animals and their products; (7) certain wood products; (8) ammonium nitrate; and (9) armaments. Export-licensing requirements are imposed for reasons of health and social welfare and to ensure an adequate domestic supply of essential products. Ministry of Agriculture export permits are required for some basic agricultural commodities, including maize, oilseeds, cheese, milk, seeds, potatoes, citrus fruits, apples, bananas, and tomatoes.
With quotas	No.
Export taxes	No.
Collected through the exchange system	No.

Changes during 2022 and 2023

Arrangements for Payments and Receipts

Controls on exports and imports of banknotes
On exports

Foreign currency	03/25/2022	The limit on the amount of cash that can be exported in baggage or on person is US$5,000 (previously US$2,000) a trip.
	03/01/2023	In terms of Exchange Control (General) (Amendment) Order, 2023 (No. 20), published in the Statutory Instrument No. 20A dated March 1, 2023, the limit on the amount of foreign currency cash that can be exported in baggage or on person is US$10,000 (previously US $5,000) a trip. Amounts above this threshold are subject to specific approval from CB. Nonresidents are allowed to take out up to the amount they would have brought in and declared.

Imports and Import Payments

Import taxes and/or tariffs	04/14/2022	Customs duties are based on 50% US dollar or South African rand equivalent invoice valuations and 50% in local currency.

Exports and Export Proceeds

Repatriation requirements

Surrender requirements

Surrender to the central bank	02/07/2022	The export surrender for the Tourism & Hospitality Industry and Fisheries exporters was removed. This was a response to the adverse effects of the COVID-19 on the tourism sector, which was hard-hit by the pandemic. The export surrender requirement for the rest of the exporters (including gold and mineral exporters as well as for exporters in the agriculture and manufacturing sectors) remained at 40%. Before these changes, the surrender requirement to the CB for all the exporters was standardized at 40%.
	02/03/2023	The export surrender requirement was set at 25% on all export receipts.

Proceeds from Invisible Transactions and Current Transfers

Repatriation requirements

Surrender requirements

Surrender to the central bank	02/03/2023	The export surrender requirement was set at 25% (previously 40%) on all exports.
